PREFACE.

ABOUT the same time that Richard Rolle the hermit completed the Pricke of Conscience for the use of his unlearned countrymen in the North of England, Dan Michel, of Northgate, Kent, furnished the Southern folk with a devotional manual, bearing the quaint but thoroughly English title of the Ayenbite of Inwyt (the again-biting of the inner wit), or the Remorse of Conscience.

The Pricke of Conscience is, as its author tells us, drawn out of divers books, but the Ayenbite of Inwyt is a literal translation of a French treatise, entitled Le somme des Vices et de Vertues, and sometimes, but incorrectly, styled Li libres roiaux de Vices et de Vertus ; Le livre des Commandemens ; La somme le roi ; Le miroir du monde. It was composed in the year 1279 for use of Philip the Second of France, by Frère Lorens (or Laurentius Gallus, as he is designated in Latin), of the order of Friars Preachers.¹

Two copies of the French treatise are preserved in the British Museum collection—Cotton MS., Cleopatra, A v., and Royal MS., 19, c. II., the former of which has been frequently consulted and found useful in explaining some few difficulties in the English text.

Mr Stevenson notices two English prose versions much later than the one here printed.

The earlier copy, written in a Midland dialect about the year 1400, or perhaps a little earlier, is contained in Additional MS. 17013, and is entitled þe boc of vices and vertues. The other, in the Bodleian Library, MS. 283 (formerly MS. E. 7.7), may be referred to about the year 1440, or perhaps a little later, and is entitled The mirrour of the worlde that some calleth vice and vertu.

¹ No intimation of this is given in the Translator's preface. He speaks of the work as his own production. See pp. 1, 262. Mr Bond, of the British Museum, found it to be a translation, and pointed out to the Editor of the Roxburgh Club the MSS. containing the original French version. (See Ayenbite of Inwyt, p. vii-ix, edited by the Rev Jos. Stevenson, M.A., 1855.)

The next prose version was made by Caxton, who calls his work The book royal, or The book for a kyng.¹

It was probably suggested by Chaucer's Persones Tale, which is an adaptation of some chapters of the French treatise,² to which it is of course much superior. The poet has introduced much original matter, as in the chapter on Pride, where he speaks of "inordinate scantiness and superfluity of clothing," and his treatment of the subject differs considerably from his author: thus Chaucer makes the remedium in each case immediately follow the description of any particular sin. Frère Lorens treats the remedia separately, as so many gifts of the Holy Ghost.

In the Persones Tale there occurs, but once only, the curious phrase "the schipe (or the hyre or the wages) of seruauantes," in which the term schipe is explained by the words hyre or wages (probably an addition of the scribe's). Tyrwhitt and subsequent editors have left the word unglossed, and its meaning was not so clearly evident until I had found the following corresponding phrase in the Ayenbite of Inwyt: "þe ssepe of hare sergons," the pay of their servants.³

As I have not succeeded in finding the word in any English writer of the 13th or 14th centuries, I am inclined to think that Chaucer was not altogether ignorant of Dan Michel's version.

For some years past a new edition of the Ayenbite of Inwyt has been greatly needed, and both Wright and Thorpe have at different times proposed its republication. The Roxburgh Club edition is both scarce and high-priced, and therefore entirely out of the reach of ordinary students of Early English. Moreover, it is much to be regretted that Mr Stevenson has considerably lessened the value of his edition of so important a work by suppressing the English author's Preface and Table of Contents, as well as two little treatises following the larger work, which, being included in the Contents, should have been printed, or, at any rate, some reason assigned for their omission.¹

¹ Mr Stevenson does not appear to have known of the existence of any metrical English versions of Frère Lorens' work. They were probably more abundant than the prose translation. A copy in the Northern dialect, ascribed to Hampole, is preserved in Cotton MS. Tib. E vii. (and a later fragment among the Sion College MSS.), which seems to have given rise to several dialectical versions, among which may be mentioned Harl. MS. 435, MS. Bodl. 48, MS. Langb. 5, MS. More 215, MS. Singer. See Examination of the "Remarks on the Glossary to the Antient Metrical Romance of Havelok the Dane," &c. (p. 30.)

² Tyrwhitt and subsequent editors have been altogether in the dark as to the original of this tale.

From the Manuscript itself we learn that the Ayenbite of Inwyt was completed "ine þe yeare of oure lhordes beringe (birth) 1340," "ine þe eue of þe holy apostles Symon an Iudas," by Dan Michel of Northgate, a brother of the Cloister of Saint Austin of Canterbury. We cannot but regret that no more information is afforded us of one who so thoroughly identified himself with the country-folk among whom he dwelt as to choose this homely "English of Kent," in preference to a less provincial form of English, adopted by other Southern writers, in which he might teach, as he himself says, old and young, parents and children, to eschew all manner of sin, and to preserve a conscience void of all impurity.

Of all the English works written in the 14th century, the Ayenbite of Inwyt is, unquestionably, the most important and valuable that has hitherto been published; and we owe a debt of gratitude to Mr Stevenson who first called attention to its philological peculiarities.

Much uncertainty attaches itself to most of our Early English works of this period as to authorship, date, and dialect—particulars of the greatest importance to the philologist who seeks to gain any clear notions of Early English Grammar ; but with rare good fortune the Ayenbite of Inwyt comes to us as a philological monument, the value of which is not diminished by any uncertainty on these points. And as such it must ever be regarded as the standard of comparison for the language of the 14th century, by which a clearer knowledge of Early English inflexions may be gained than has, hitherto, been possible by means of the scanty materials within our reach.

¹ Mr Stevenson has wrongly translated his author's title. Ayenbite of Inwit does not mean Redemption of the Soul. Dan Michel uses Wipþegge in the sense of to redeem, and the substantive formed from this is wipþegginge (Wicliffe has Ayenbying), and the correct term for soul is zauel. Many of the mistakes in the Text and Glossary to the Roxburgh edition might have been avoided by a reference to the French MSS. Thus Mr Stevenson prints tene (= tin) for teue (yesterday evening), and explains vendonginge as manure instead of uendage, or sale; russole he glosses as reeds, instead of cakes cooked in the frying-pan. With a boldness not to be commended, he occasionally alters his author's language, and in printing þerne (a genuine O. E. form) for þesne, he teaches us how rigidly Editors of Early English works should adhere to their MSS.

As a small contribution towards a more systematic investigation of Early English Grammar, the editor of this volume has endeavoured to place before the reader the chief characteristics of the Southern dialect, and the points of difference between it and Northern English. He felt he could not do better than avail himself of the present opportunity for discussing these matters, in the hopes that others may be induced to devote some attention to this subject, so that the future historians of our language will have no cause to endorse the opinion of no mean authority, "that there is not a general agreement of scholars on many cardinal points of English inflection, and indeed that no thorough systematic and comprehensive attempt at the investigation of these questions has yet been made."

GRAMMATICAL INTRODUCTION.

SOME CHARACTERISTICS OF THE SOUTHERN DIALECT DURING THE EARLY ENGLISH PERIOD (1250 TO 1340).

IN considering the characteristics of the Southern dialect, we shall not compare it with the Midland, which presents us with no one typical form, but with the Northern or Northumbrian, the grammatical forms and inflexions of which are more uniform and constant.

This appears to be the only mode of obtaining a clear conception of the great and distinctive features of these two extensive forms of our ancient speech, and it is, perhaps, the best means we could adopt to enable us to draw, as closely as possible, the line of demarcation between the dialects formerly spoken in the North and South of this country.

We shall discuss these peculiarities of dialect under the following heads :—

I. Orthographical Differences.

II. Grammatical ,,

III. Lexicographical ,,

I. Orthographical Differences.

A. Consonants.

1. Ch for K. The Southern dialect prefers the soft sound ch to that of k.¹ The following examples may be added to those contained in Preface to Hampole.

Southern.	Northern.		Southern.	Northern.
chele	kele (cold)		smech	smek (smoke)
crouch	crok (cross) ²		smach	smak (taste)
chef	caf (chaff)		zech	sek (sack) ³
cherl	carl (churl)

¹ We find in the Sn dialect durchede for derknesse, darkness.

² Exists in English crook, crutch.

³ Cp. sack and satch-el.

In the twelfth century we find wlach = wlak = luke (-warm) ; bach = beck, stream ; folch, folk, people.

In Wiltshire and Devonshire we may hear the following remnants of this pronunciation :—

blatch = black pritch, prutch = prick putch (= pitch) = pick

The pronominal and adjectival forms each, such, and which, were represented thus in the two dialects :—

Southern.	Northern.	Southern.	Northern.
ech } uch }	ilk	swuch } zuych }	swilk
		such } whuch	whilk

The Semi-Saxon forms in the Southern dialect were

elch swelch and welch

The Midland forms are mostly like the Southern with respect to the substitution of ch for k, but a preference is given to the i sound, e. g. yeh, swich (sich), wich.

Adjectives in the Southern dialect ended in -lich (sing.), and -liche (pl.), and Adverbs in -liche ; but in the Northumbrian, when the final -e had no grammatical functions, the distinction between Adjectives and Adverbs could not well be kept up, so that the terminations -lich and -liche were represented by -lic (-lik, like), and -ly.¹ We have a trace of the double adverbial form -like and -ly in the Ormulum.

2. V for F. The use of v for f, as vinger for finger, visch for fisch, &c., is another well-known peculiarity of the old Southern dialect, which has, however, gradually become disused in the Eastern division of the Southern counties (in Kent and Sussex). In the xivth, and up to the middle of the xviiith century, this usage was well marked.²

We never find the v for f in any Northumbrian production.

4. Z for S. The Ayenbite is the only work of the xivth century that contains examples of the use of z for s, as zinge for singe, zour

² In one or two instances, as vetch = feteh, vat = fat, we have retained the Southern and provincial form.

for sow, &c. But while this pronunciation is well marked in modern Southern dialect, as spoken in the Southern and Western counties, we find no trace of it in the chronicle of Robert of Gloucester. The modern Kentish vernacular has dropped this peculiarity, though it seems to have been common enough in Kent as late as the middle of the seventeenth century.

4. In the present dialect of the South of England (as spoken in Wiltshire, Devonshire, and Somersetshire) we find

birsh	= brush	hirch	= rich
dird	= dread ¹	hirn	= run
dirsh	= thrush	hirsh	= rush
gurt	= great

We have several good instances of this metathesis in the literature of the xiiith and xivth centuries.

Southern.	Northern.	Southern.	Northern.
berne (berne)	= brenne(burn)	curlle	= crulle (curl)
barnde	= brende(burnt)	fersch (versshe)	= fresch (fresh)
berste	= breste (burst)	forst	= frost
barst	= brast (burst, pret.)	gers	= gres (grass)
burde (birde)	= bride (lady, woman)	thirle	= thrille(pierce)
		therste	= threste(thirst)
		yrne	= rinne (run)
curd	= crud (curd)	orn (arn)	= ran

5. PS for SP Haps = hasp, waps = wasp, are well-known modern Southern provincialisms, but with the exception of crips for crisp (in Wright's Fragments of Popular Science) I know of no ancient examples.

6. G for Y. The Southern dialects in some few instances retained a g, which in the Northern became softened into y, as in the modern English buy and say.

Southern.	Northern.	Southern.	Northern.
begge	bye	segge	saye

7. B for V. The Southern forms libbe, habbe, and hebbe, were represented by the Northern live, have, and heve (heave).

¹ Cf. brid = bird, still in use in the North of England.

B. Vowels.

1. O for A. I have previously pointed out in the preface to Hampole the substitution of ō in the place of ā in words of Anglo-Saxon origin.

Southern.	Northern.	Southern.	Northern.
bon	ban	lore	lare
bor	bar (bare)	&c.	&c.
hom	ham

But we also find the following forms in the Southern literature of the xvth century, which are never met with in any pure Northumbrian production :—

eon	= can	honge	= hang
hond	= hand	lome	= lame
lond	= land	plont	= plant
mon	= man	schome	= shame
stonde	= stand	stronde	= strand

In Wiltshire, Gloucestershire, and Somersetshire we still find examples of this pronunciation in hond (hand), lond (land), dork (dark), lork (lark), opple (apple).

The Aynbite contains fewer examples of this than most specimens of the Southern dialect, and in some few instances a preference is given to the a sound, as

blawe (blow)	knaue (know)	maue (mow)
	zange (song)	zawe (sow)

This preference of o to a, which is also found in some of the Midland dialects, evidently explains the following curious forms :

Midland.	Northumbrian.	Midland.	Northumbrian.
fro	= fra (from)	slo	= sla (slay)
flo	= fla (flay)	thore	= thare (there)
gove	= gave	wore	= ware (were)
ond	= and (anger)	ʒo	= ya (yea)

E for A. In some few words we have e in the Southern dialect where the Northern prefers a.

Southern.	Northern.	Southern.	Northern.
aʒen	agan (gan, gain) =	here	hare = hair
	against	reven	raven

Southern.	Northern.	Southern.	Northern.
bern	barn = bairn, (child, son)	sle	sla = slay
cle	claw (clar)	stre	stra = straw
ern	arn = eagle	wepen	wapen = weapon
fle ¹	fla = flay	3e	yha = yea

The following forms seem to come under this head :

Southern.	Northern.	Southern.	Northern.
blein	blain	grein	grain
clei	clai = (clay)	greithe	graithe = (prepare)
dei ²	dai = (day)	hei	hai = (hay)
ei3t	aght = (eight)	kei	kai = (key)
eye (eie)	agh = (awe)

With these we may compare the Midland forms of the Northumbrian personal pronouns :

Midland	thei,	their,	theim, for
Northern	thai (thá),	thair (thar),	thaim (thain)

The Southern preterites of one class of strong verbs often take an e when the Northumbrian has a.

Southern.	Northern.	Southern.	Northern.
ber	bar = bore	spek	spak = spoke
brek	brak = broke	swer	swar = swore gef	gaf = gave

In the modern dialect of Sussex we find fleg = flag; heng = hang; mersh = marsh; reg = rag. In Devonshire, kep = cap; kerping = carping.

The Old Frisian language presents us with similar forms, as, stef = staff; bend = band; weter = water.

Not only has the Ayenbite preserved similar forms in which a is replaced by e, but it presents us with a far larger number than any other Southern composition.

bend	= band	leste	= last
berk	= bark	mentle	= mantle
bleddre	= bladder	mere	= mare
blest	= blast	merss	= marsh

² In Dorsetshire day and why are pronounced de, whe, &c. See Outlines of Dorset Grammar in Philolog. Soc. Proceed., 1864, p. 12.

bren	= bran	ssel	= shall
bres	= brass	ssede	= shade
chef	= chaff	ssepe	= shape
clepper	= clapper	strepe	= stripe
creft	= craft	stef	= staff
ele	= awl	threl	= thrall
eppel	= apple	treppe	= trap
esshe	= ash	vet	= vat
gled	= glad	weter	= water
hedde	= had	zed	= sad
keste	= kast (inf.)	zeterday	= Saturday
leddre	= ladder

Aw for Ai. (A.S. ag.):

Southern.	Northern.	Southern.	Northern.
fawe	fain	y-flawe	flain (flayed)
hawel	hail	y-slawe	slain

U for I. In the works of the Southern writers of the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries we find the words fist, hill, thin, sin, &c., written fust, hul, thun, thunne, sun, &c.

Our modern pronunciation coincides generally with the Northern dialects, in which this substitution of u for i was unknown.

In Wiltshire we may still hear blunk (= blink), spark; frum (N. frim), fresh; hul, hide; huz, his; lup, lip: putcher, pitcher; vur, fire; whuch, which.

In the Old Kentish of the Ayenbite an e takes the place of the Southern u and the Northern i.

	Southern.	Northern.
(a) Western.	(b) Eastern.
hul	hel	hil
kunde	kende	kinde
kusse	kesse	kisse
munde	mende	minde
put	pet	pit
rug	reg	rig (back)
vur	vere	fire
&c.	&c.	&c.

In the following list of words taken from the Ayenbite, the e represents u or i.

bele = boil (bile)	melk = milk
bestle = bustle	mende = mind
bösy = busy	pet, pette = pit
bredale = bridale	prede = pride
bredgrome = bridegroom	reg = rig = ridge = back
brenge = bring	skele = skill
gelt = guilt	steck = stick
hel = hill	stef = stiff
kechene = kitchen	stenge = sting
ken = kin	selk = silk
ken = kine	strepe = strip
kende = kind	velthe = filth
kesse = kiss	vere = fire
keth = kith = cuth or couth in un- couth .	zef = self
kete = kite	zenge = singe
leme = limb	zenke = sink
melle = mill	zenne = sin

We find in O.Frisian brenge, to bring, stek, stick, together with the double forms blenda and blinda, helpa and hilpa.

In the modern Kentish and Sussex dialects we meet with knet = knit; meece = mice; melk = milk; pet = pit; whelst = whilst. This use of e for i still prevails in some of the Southern counties.

In Wiltshire we find peg = pig; steel = stile; stenk = stink, and the published specimens of the Exmoor dialect contain the following examples:

bed = bid	preck = prick
ded = did	rep = rip
desk = dusk	theng = thing
drenk = drink	trem = trim
meend = mind	veest = fist
mence = mince	zed = sad
peg = pig	zeck = sick
prent = print

In some few instances we have retained the Southern orthography with the Northern pronunciation: busy = the Northern bysy, just as dizzy = the Southern dusi.

Build, guilt, &c., in Southern orthography were written bulde, gult, and in the Northern, bylde, gylt, &c. In stint and stunt both dialectal forms have been preserved.

The o in hop and slope seem to have arisen out of a u sound, since the older Southern forms were huppe and sluppe, corresponding to the Northern hippe and slippe.

5. Eo for E. The Editor of the Ormulum, in pointing out some of the dialectical peculiarities of his author, notices the use of the simple vowel e for the compound eo. In no specimen of the Northumbrian dialect do we ever find the employment of the compound vowel. Thus the Southern forms breoste (breast); cheose (choose); creope (creep); deop (deep); leose (lose); neose (nose); teon (anger); wewed (altar), &c., are in Northern orthography breste, chese, crepe, dep, lese, nese, tene, wewed, &c.

Occasionally in the Southern dialect the eo is written u, as dupe for deope, durk for deork, mulk for meolk; duere for deore (dear).¹ Cp. Vul for feol, fell, and huld for heold, held.

In the printed examples of the Herefordshire dialect ue often takes the place of eo, as hue (they), for heo; huere (their) for heore; huem (them) for heom; buen (to be) for beon; buere (bear) for beore; duere (dear) for deore; huerte (heart) for heorte, &c.²

In Kemble's paper on the North Anglian dialect, we are told that the West Saxon eo was represented in Kentish Manuscripts by iu, io, ia, and ie.

We find some traces of this in the Kentish specimens of the xivth century, for in the Ayeubite ie or ye is constantly employed for eo.³

¹ This may account for the modern pronunciation of lese (lose) and chese (choose) = the Sn leose and cheose.

² Since writing the above I have found both forms in Trevisa's translation of Higden's Polychronicon (Cotton MS. Tiberius D. vii. written in the Sn dialect, probably of Gloucestershire), e. g., heo and huc, she; þeos or þues, this, these; ue perhaps occur more frequently than eo, as thuef, thief; wucsch, for wesch, washed.

³ The modern Kentish dialect has bly (used by Shoreham) for ble (A.S. bleo), colour, likeness. In the Ayeubite and Shoreham's poems we find by for beo, be; ery for freo, free; gly for gleo, glee; zy for seo, see; gryhond for greyhound, &c.

Kentish.	Ordinary Southern form.	Kentish.	Ordinary Southern form.

Many preterites in eo take ie, as hiidd, hild, held, hielp, hilp, helped.

6. In the South-west of England at the present day such words as cart, card, and garden, are pronounced as kyart, kyard, gyarden. Here the ya represents the original West Saxon cä, which in modern English is represented by a. In Somersetshire calf, grape, leap, leare, are pronounced käave, gräap, läap, läave. In the Eastern division, as in Kent and Sussex, we may hear bëam, dëar, gäut (güt), këaf, täust, for beam, dear, gate, calf, taste. (See Outlines of Dorset Grammar in Philolog. Soc. Proceedings, 1864, pp. 12, 13, 14.)

We have no trace of this in Robert of Gloucester, Lives of the Saints, &c., but in the works of Shoreham and Dan Michel, we find abundant evidence (as the following examples will show) that the old Kentish folk of the fourteenth century retained the ancient West Saxon pronunciation, for ea is written yea, ya.

byeam }	= beam	dyad }	= dead
byam }		dyead }
bryead }	= bread	dyeath	= death
bryad }		dyeaf	= deaf
cheak	= cheek	dyeau }	= dew
cleape	= clepe (call)	dyau }
chyeaste }	= strife cheaste	hyealde }	= hold

lyeaf = leaf	sseaw = show
lheape = leap	theaw = virtue
leawde = lewd	threape = dispute
reave = rob	tyear = tear
schreaw = shrew	vealde } = fold
sealt = salt	vycalde }

The Kentish preterites bea (bent); chea (chose); lea (lost); leat (bowed); stea (ascended); zeald (sold); teald (told), correspond to the ordinary Southern be, ches, les, let, ste, teld (told).

Sometimes the initial ea is represented by y, as yald, old; yarm, arm; yarn, ran; year, ear; yeast, east; yerne, run; yerthe, earth; yestre, easter.

With these we may compare the modern Southern provincialisms yarm = arm; yarth = earth; yeat = eat; yeast = east, &c.

7. The only old Kentish forms corresponding to the modern buoy (boy), cwoat (coat), &c., are

buon = bone	guos = goose
guode = good	zuol} = (the Dorset zull) =
guo = go	plough

GRAMMATICAL PECULIARITIES.

NOUNS.—PLURALS IN EN.¹

THE Ormulum, which is of Midland origin and abounds in Northern forms, contains scarcely any plural nouns terminating in the syllable en, while the Anceren Rewle, St Marherete and Lazamon's "Brut," written in the Southern dialect, abound in them.

In the longest and best specimens of the Northumbrian dialect of the early English period, I have not succeeded in finding more than three or four plural nouns in en, as eghen (eyes), oxen, and schon (shoes). But in Southern works of the same period they are almost as plentiful as in the earlier (Semi-Saxon) stage of the language.²

The following list of Southern plurals in en might no doubt be augmented, as they contain such forms only as have come under my own observation; they all, however, serve to corroborate the statement made as to the frequent use of this inflexion.

addren	adders		been	bees
aldren	elders		* bellen	bells
applen	apples		bemen	trumpets
arwen	arrows		* benen	prayers, boons
assen	asses		bischopen	bishops
axen	ashes		* blissen	blisses
ayren	} eggs		blomen	blooms (flower)
eyren			blosmen	blossoms
			bollen	bowls
* beden	petitions		* bougeren	heretics

¹ The modern dialect of the South-western counties still exhibits a fondness for this termination, as housen, peasen, neighbourhooden.

² All words marked thus (*) occur in the Ayenbite (1340); those marked with a dagger occur in Shoreham.

The whole of these do not, of course, belong to the n declension. Benen, deuelen, doren, honden, sunnen, soulen, originally ended in -a; brotheren, dohtren (doztren), heaveden, modren, sustren (sostren), terminated in -u; and calveren, childeren, lyren, lambren,¹ formerly ended in -ru.

The A.-Saxon plural vowel inflexions -a, -u, &c., were represented in the Semi-Saxon by -e, and in the Early English period by -en.

The Northumbrian forms corresponding to the Southern brotheren, childeren, kine, were brether, childer, kye.

The A.S. plural *lendenn*² (loins) became lenden in Southern English; the Northern dialect employed the form lends, for which they formed a singular, lend, which is not to be found in any pure Southern writer.

Occasionally the -en is represented by a final -e, as asse = assen, asses; honde = honden, hands; lippe = lippen, lips; sterre = sterren, stars; stede = steden, steeds.

Dr Guest, in the second volume (p. 75) of the Philological Society's Proceedings, has noticed these forms, but considers them as Northern forms. His statement is as follows:—

“Anglo-Saxon nouns belonging to the n declension, as steorra, a star, steda, a steed, assa, an ass, &c., generally formed their plural in -an, as steorran, stedan, assen, &c. But in the Northern dialect they substituted a vowel for the ending -an; and it is probable that these Northern plurals are represented by the sterre, stede, asse of the following examples:—

- (1) The fifte 3er he gan argument
Of the sterre and of the firmement.
(Sevyn Sages, 197.)
- (2) Whi kyng other eorl cam on hym to weorre,³ Quyck he lokyd in the steorre.—(Kany Alis. 76.)
- (3) As y you sey bothe heore stede
Feollen to grounde dede.—(K. Alis. 2263.)

² The sing. does not occur in A.S. authors.

³ The -e in weorre represents the -en in the infinitive.

(4) And afftyr fyftene hundryd asse
Bar wyn and oyle, more and lasse.

(R. C. de Lion, 6453.)”

The three works from which the quotations are made, adds Dr Guest, are strongly marked with the peculiarities of the Northern dialect.

They certainly do contain some Northern peculiarities, but not its distinctive peculiarities. The Seven Sages and the Rom. of King Richard are in a Midland dialect, and K. Alisander is in the dialect of a locality where both Southern and Midland forms were employed.

The substitution of a vowel for the -an (as ego = eyes; witgo, witgu = prophets) was undoubtedly a characteristic of the Northern dialect during the ninth and tenth centuries; but is not to be found in any Northern writer of the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries.

The substitution of -e for *-n*¹ is Southern rather than Northern, as the following examples will show:—

The niztingale bigon the speche
In one hurne of one breche
And sat upone vaire boze
Thar were abute blosme inoze.²

Berne = Bemen (trumpets).

The engles in the dai-red Blewedh heore beme.—(Relig. Poems, p. 68.)

(Lives of Saints, Harl. MS. 2277, fol. 11 b.)

¹ The use of final -e for -n is quite common in the Southern dialect, not only in the plurals of nouns, but also in the preterite plural, infinitive mood, and gerund of verbs. In addition to these we find such forms as aʒe = aʒen (again); oze = ozen (own); neoʒe = neoʒen (nine); blose, blosmen (blossoms); seove = seoven (seven).

² Blosme inoze = flowers' enough = many flowers. Inoze is the plural of inoʒ, enough. The pl. Blosmen occurs much later, as in the following extract;—

Lenten yo come with love to toun
With blosmen ant with briddes roun
That al this blisse bringeth.—(Spec. of Lyric Poet, p. 43.)

Browe = Browen (brows).

(1) On heu hire her is fayr ynoh,

After numerals, in the older stages of the language, the gen. pl. is properly used, but in 14th-century English the pl. is often used.

Of the hul of Olyvet sone hi wende adoun
 To the borȝ of Ierusalem, and bilevede in the toun
 A þousend stappe (paces) ther bituene. . . .
 A þousend stappen of such pas a myle noȝt hit is.
 (Harl. MS. 2277, fol. 24.)

Of plurals in e representing older forms in -an, -a, -u (ru), numerous examples might be selected from the Southern literature of the earlier part of the 13th century.

II.—GENITIVE SINGULAR OF FEMININE NOUNS IN -e (REPRESENTING OLDER FORMS IN -AN OR -E.)

The Northern dialect during the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries seems to have adopted the termination -es as the inflexion of the genitive singular for nouns of all genders. The Southern dialect, following the usage of the older stage of the language, formed the genitive of masculine and neuter nouns in -es, but of feminine substantives in -e.

III. GENITIVE PLURALS IN -ENE.

No trace of the Genitive plural in -ene, -en (A.-Sax. ena), is to be found in the Ormulum, the Bestiary, or Genesis and Exodus, although examples of this inflexion are common enough in Lazamon, Seinte Marherete, and other Southern writers of the Semi-Saxon period. It is entirely absent from any pure specimen of the Northumbrian dialect of the 14th century, but is frequently employed by Southern writers as late as A.D. 1387.

Apostlene veet = feet of the apostles.

Tho hym with a touwayle-schete Ihesu

Hy to-steke hys swete hefed

Wyth one thornene coroune.—(Shoreham, p. 85.)

See also Harl. MS. 2277, fol. 13 b.

Occasionally we find -e as well as -ene, as the sign of the genitive plural, as in the following examples :

Bole huden = Hides of bulls.

Hi leten hem diȝte a gret schip, and above it al bi-caste

With bole huden stronge ynou ynailed (therto faste).

(St Brandan, p. 5.)

Seint Jame the holi man & seint Johan the wangelist

That was alre berne best mid our loverd Ihesu Crist.

v. Traces of the genitive singular nouns in -e are not very common, and they are remnants either of the n declension or of that class of masculines in -u or -o, which made the genitive singular in -a.

EXAMPLES :

“How he lepte with myght and mayne on the stede baek.”

(Rom. of Octavian, p. 217, l. 1446.)

In is wode rage he wende

And 3ede to londe ;
His fole he dude abide Under wude side.

¹ Marsh treats uncle (and quene) as following under the same rule as brother, moder, do3ter, which dropped the genitive inflexion in A.-Saxon writers.

Athulf heo sede be blithe
 And to Horn thou go wel swithe
 He is under wude boze
 And with him kni3tes ino3e.—(Ibid. p. 35, l. 1227.)

ADJECTIVES.

The adjective in the Southern dialects retains most of the older inflexions. In the Northern dialects the distinction between the definite and indefinite forms of the adjective is not preserved, and the final -e in the plural is for the most part disregarded.

II. Inflected Article (Definite).

In the Ormulum the definite article is uninflected, the only remnant of the older inflexions being the phrase (still retained at the present day) 'for than ones' = for the nonce. So, too, in the Northern dialect during the E. Eng. period the article remains the same for all genders and cases—but not in the Southern dialect, in which the masculine, feminine, and neuter forms, and some case endings, were preserved as late as the middle of the fourteenth century, if not much later.

In the Northern dialect that is the demonstrative adjective; in the Southern it is the neuter of the definite article.

6. The plural of Adjectives (mostly of Romance origin) in -es, as wateres principales, is unknown to the Northern dialect.

IV. Degrees of Comparison.

Adjectives ending in -lich (sing.), -liche (pl.), often form the comparative in -laker or -loker (Kentish -laker). This inflexion is unknown in the Northern dialect, in which the affix -lich becomes -lik (-like) -ly, and the distinctions between the singular and plural forms, as well as that between the adjective in -lich and the adverbial in -liche, are lost sight of.

The affix -lich has not given us the more modern -ly. It is probable that this latter form has arisen from -lig (thus barley, originally berlie, is corrupted into berlig and berley).

Traces of this corruption occur in the Ormulum, in which we meet with the double endings of adjectives and adverbs in -like and -liþ.

V. Numerals.

Some Southern numerals (ordinals) end in -the, as scofethe (seveth), seventh ; eiztethe, eighth ; neozethe (nithe), ninth ; tethe (tethe), tenth.²

The corresponding Northern numerals end in -nde, -nd, as sevend, achtande, neghend, teud, and are doubtless of Danish origin.

² The forms in -nth are Midland varieties.

1. Dropping of the final -n.

Seoven (seven), neozen (nine), in the Southern dialect, frequently drop the final -n, as seove (sove) ; neoze, neze.

VI. Adjectives peculiar to the Southern dialect.

þilk, þilke, þulk, þulke (older forms, þellich, þelliche) = this, these, such-like, are not employed by Northern writers. They are still retained in the modern provincial dialect under the form thick, thuck, thicky.

Bather, bathers (of both), same, twin (two), thrin (three), slike, silk, sic (such), þir, þer, þere (these), are unknown to Southern writers.

PRONOUNS.

Our pronouns are substantially Northern ones. The Southern dialect had many pronominal forms which never occur in any Northern writer.

The following table exhibits most of the Southern forms, in use during the xiiith and xivth centuries :—

1. The personal pronouns are : Ich (I), þu, þou (thou), he (he), heo (she), hit (it).

*Ich*¹ or Uch is still retained in the modern Southern dialects under the forms Uch and utchy, and occasionally contracted into ch (as cham = I am, chell, chill, I will). Robert of Gloucester frequently writes Icholle = Ich wolle, I will; Ichot = Ich wot, I know. Ic,¹ Ih, I,² are corresponding Northern forms.

I occasionally occurs in the Southern dialect: (1.) before verbs commencing with a dental or nasal, as I nam, I am not; I not, I know not; (2.) after verbs, as mosti, I must; wolly, I will.

Thritti wynter and thridde half yer

II. A or Ha = He.

This form is very common in all the Southern dialects, but never occurs in any Northern writer. It is still preserved in the modern provincial dialects of the South of England.

Moi beloved be loik a raw or a yoong hart: Zee! a' stand'th behind our wall a' look'th voäth at th' winders, zhowing hiszel droo th' lattice.—(Song of Solomon, Somersetshire version.)

Tha voice uv ma beluvid! behold ha com'th laipin apin tha mowntins.—(Song of Solomon, Devonshire version.)

Every body kneows owld Barnzo, as wears his yead o' one zide. One night a was coning whoame vrom market, and vell off's hos into the road, a was zo drunk.—(Akerman's Wiltshire Tales.)

Trevisa uses a as an indefinite of the 3rd pers. pro. = he, she, it, they.

Hy (they) habbeþ no wodes þefore a makeþ ham fuyr of torues.
(Cott. MS., Vesp. D vii, fol. 28.)

þar buþ also cicade bryddes þat synggeþ atte beste & habbeþ a pipe opon onder þe þrote & synggeþ betre whane þe heued is offe þan whyle hyt ys on & betre whanne a beþ deed þan whyle þay buþ alyve.—(Ibid. fol. 29 b.)

He ran home to uore & prayede hys wyf þat hwe wolde helpe for to saue hym þat as moche as hwe myzte hwe scholde make here self uoul, bote a dude þe contrary, &c.—(Ibid. fol. 222.)

Yn þis ylond groweþ a ston þat hatte gagates ; . . . a ys ablak as gemmes buþ. . . . a brenneþ yn water, &c.—(Trevisa, quoted in Morris' Specimens of Early English, p. 334.)

Also þer ys yn þe cop of an hul a buryel ; everych man þat comeþ & meteþ þat buriel a schal fynde hyt evene ryzt of hys onne meete & zef a pylgrym oper eny wery man kneoleþ þerto, anon a schal be al fersch & of werynes schal he feele non nuy.—(Ibid. p. 337.)

This pronoun is used by Robert of Gloucester and Shoreham.

King Arthure azen þe brest is felawe verst ahitte,

Azen þe Brust þat a vul & ne mizte no leng sitte.

(R. of Gl., Cott. MS., Calig. A xi, fol. 57 b.)

Ac a deythe (dies) and he not (knows not) wanne (when).

In the foreheved the crouche a set (setteth).—(Ibid. p. 15.)

Ha (Crist) grade 'hely' to hys fader.—(Ibid. p. 86.)

Dan Michael uses only the older form *H̄a*¹ = he.

Ha beat (beats) and smit and (both) wyf and children ase hu were out of his wytte.—(Ayenbite, p. 30.)

1. Hine (acc.), Him.

In the Southern dialect hine is found as late as 1340. It still exists in the modern provincial dialects of the South of England under the forms -en or -un. No trace of this accusative is to be found in any Northern writers; nor is it used in the Ormulum, one of the earliest of Midland productions, where its place is supplied by the dative him.

¹ In the older stage of the language, called Semi-Saxon, ha = she and they.

EXAMPLES.

A kniȝt wyth one scharpe spere
Stang hyne i the ryȝt syde.—(Shorcham's Poems, p. 86.)

þe dyevel þerto proprelich uondeþ þane man : þet he hine myȝte wyþdraȝe uram þe loue of God.—(Ayenbite, p. 116.)

þe wrecheche ne þengþ of him þet hine halt.—(Ibid. p. 128.)

Third Personal Pronoun, Feminine.

The Southern personal pronoun of the 3rd person is Heo, which occasionally takes other forms, as Hi (Kentish), as hue (South Western). Heo, He, Hue, is used as late as 1387. See extracts, p. xlix.

The corresponding Northern form is Seo or Sho (Midland Sehe), which seems to have arisen out of the older (or A.S.) Seo or Sio,¹ and gradually to have crept into the Southern dialect towards the end of the xivth century, for we find it once or twice in Trevisa's translation of Higden's Polychronicon (1387), where heo or hue is the ordinary form.²

Hi or hy, her, acc., is used as late as 1327-77.

The niȝtingale hi iseȝ (the owl)
And hi bihold and over-seȝ,
An thuȝte wel wl of thare hule
For me hi halt lodlich and fule.—(Owl & N. p. 2.)

¹ Ze = she, occurs once in the Ayenbite, p. 102. In the story of Genesis and Exodus (E. Midland dialect) sye (sye) occurs several times.

² I do not find an earlier instance of the use of she in any pure Southern writer. It should be noticed, perhaps, that such a form as seo or sio would not become she but se (ze) or si (zi); but she arises out of a form like seco or see.

And [thu] lerddest hi to don shome
 An unriht of hire licome.—(Owl & N. p. 36.)
Senne (= fem.) hys swete and lyketh,
 Wanne a man hi deth
 And also soure hy bryketh (= brooketh)
 Wane he venjaunce y-seth.
 (Shoreham's Poems, p. 102.)

To healde hy (erthe) op hyt nys no ned.—(Ibid. p. 136.)

Personal Pronoun, 3rd Person Plural.

*Hii, Hi, Heo*¹ = they ; heore, hure, huere, hor, hare = their, heom (huem, hem, hom, ham) = them, are Southern forms (retained as late as 1387), the corresponding Northern ones being Thai (tha), thair (thar), thaim (tham).²

Hi, them, is retained as late as 1327-77 by Shoreham.

EXAMPLES.

Ac he that ine saule is strang,
 That he with-stent hi alle,
 And hardeliche hert othre men,

 ac stonde.—(Shoreham's Poems, p. 14.)
 Anon þe foend fondeth hy so,
 And he ne spareth nanne.—(Ibid. p. 16.)

See also pp. 92, 94, 97, 112.

The forms hor and hom are, perhaps, Western and South-western forms. The Kentish dialect employs hure (hire) and ham.

Hise (His, is), (acc.) = them.

Until I saw the Midland version of Genesis and Exodus, I was under the impression that hise (is) = them, was peculiar to the Southern dialect. But though it makes its appearance in some of the Midland dialects, having Southern tendencies, it is never employed by any Northern writer.

¹ He = they (East Midland) seems to have arisen out of Hia or Hie.

² Their, Theim (them), are Midland varieties. þeʒz, þeʒzr, occur in the Ormulum. þei occurs in an East Midland MS., Trin. Col., Camb. (xiiith cent.), and in the Story of Genesis and Exodus. þay is used occasionally by Trevisa.

Dr Guest has shown that this pronoun answers to the Gothic ius, acc. of eis. The oldest form of the pronoun in English appears to have been hes.

EXAMPLES.

þou zayst þet þou hest zixti year, þe dyap hise heþ and neuremo his nele þe yelde.—(Agenbite, p. 71.)

God ne heþ hede of kueade yefþes ac he his loueþ trewe and guode.
(Ibid. p. 192.)

Possessive Pronouns.

The forms urs (ours), ylhures (yours), hirs (hers), thairs (theirs), appear frequently in Northern works written during the earlier part of the xivth century; and from the fact that the Ormulum, whose tendencies are Northern, uses þeȝȝrs (theirs),¹ we may reasonably suppose that these forms were in use much earlier. The Southern corresponding forms were ure, cowere, zure, hire, here. The Northern dialect has also such forms as allirs and bathers = Southern alre (or alder), of all, and beire, of both.

In the Lord's Prayer in the Northern version of the Cursor Mundi we have the phrase 'fader ures.' In a Southern work of about the same date we have the corresponding phrase 'fader oure.'

The following examples will illustrate the use of the possessive pronouns in the two dialects.

On of hem wile fiȝte
Aȝen [other] thre kniȝtes
Ȝef other thre slen ure
Al this lond beo zoure ;
Ȝef we ure on ouercometh *zoure*² three Al this lond schal ure beo.—(King Horn, p. 3, E. E. T. S.)
A man of thair gains an of ur
If urs mai him win in stur,
That thai be urs & thair airs (heirs) ;
If thai win urs that we be thairs.
(Northern version of Cursor Mundi, Cott. MS. fol. 42.)

¹ In some Midland writers we find heres and hores = theirs.

² A Northumbrian could say yours three.

Some few Midland dialects employ the forms ouren, youren, heren. This seems to have arisen from the adjectival use of these forms. (In the Aynbite we find thinen and hiren in the dative case.)

Demonstrative and Relative Pronouns.

The nominative þe is seldom used in the Southern dialect after 1250, þet or þat being the ordinary relative in all dialects. Shoreham uses þe occasionally,¹ and many other Southern writers preserve the dative and accusative forms, thane, than (that), whan, wan (which, what), never employed by Northern writers.

VERBS.

Present Tense, Indicative Mood.

For the various dialectical forms in the present tense of the Indicative Mood, the reader is referred to Early Eng. Allit. Poems, Introduction, pp. xx.-xxi.; Genesis and Exodus, Introduction, pp. xvii., xxvii.

Third Person Singular in -th.

Jennings, in his Observations on the Dialects of the West of England, notices the fondness for the inflexion -th (not -eth), instead of -es, in the 3rd per. sing. indic. This may be illustrated in the following passage from the Song of Solomon in the Devonshire version :

A com'th jumpin upon the mountains. He stan'th behaine our woll. He leuk'th voäth vrem the kezment an' show'th his zel ta th' lattice.—(Ch. ii. 8, 9.)

In the Southern dialect of the Early Eng. period we find the same fondness for the inflexion -th. In many cases it distinguishes the singular from the plural, as þinkþ = appears, þinkeþ = appear.

Ac thanne he (the dronke) heth yslepe, and comth to him zelue thanne he ȝvelth his kued and knauth his folye and him playneth² of his harm.

Aten ende the zenezere, ase zayth Salamon is ase the ilke thet slepth amide the ze and thet ssip spilth and he ne nazt hit ne velth ne none drede ne heth.—(Ayenbite, p. 128.)

² Playneth has playny for the infinitive, and therefore does not suffer contradiction ; its plural would be playnieth.

Preterite Tense, Singular Number, Indicative Mood.

The preterite tense¹ (first and third persons singular) of regular verbs terminates in -de, as lovede, hopede, &c. There is no final -e in the singular of irregular verbs, e. g. slow (= slew), smot (= smote). In Northern writers we often meet with such forms as sloghe (slew), smate (smote), which in the Southern dialect would be considered as plurals.

Second Person Singular, Preterite Indicative of Irregular Verbs.

In the oldest English or A.S. period the second person of irregular verbs ended in -e, as heðlde = heldest, dróge = drewest. Those that change the vowel of the preterite plural, admit of vowel change in the 2nd pers. sing., as bunde (boundest), drife (drovest), clúfe (cleavedst or clovest).

The Southern dialect of the Early English period has numerous examples of this final -e in the 2nd pers. sing., but it is exceedingly rare in Northern writers. Dr Guest has already pointed out that the author of the Ormulum exhibits a tendency to omit this -e, as badd = baddest.

Enes thu sunge, ic wod wel ware
 Bi one boure, and woldest lere
 The lefti to an uvel luve
 An sunge bothe loze and buve
 An lerdest hi to don shome.—(Orul & N. p. 36.)
 Thar-to þou stele in a day
 And leidest thar-on thy fole ey.—(Ibid. p. 104.)

Slowe thu the holi prophete : to wrothere hele dudedu so.
 (Pilate, p. 116.)

Ihesu for loue thou stehe on rode,
 For loue thou sezze thin heorte blod.
 (Lyric Poems, p. 69.)

Thu zeue us weole and wunne
 Thu brohtest dai, and Eve niȝt.
 (Relig. Songs, p. 65.)

¹ It is thus distinguished from the past participle which ends in -ed.

Ich wille speke toward the
 Also thu speke toward me.—(Owl & N. p. 20.)
 And levedy, the was wel wors,
 Tho (when) that thou seze in dede
 Thy leue childe reulyche y-nome
 And ase a thef forthe lede.

(Shoreham's Poems, p. 83.)

Preterite Tense, Plural Number, Indicative Mood of Regular Verbs.

The plural of the preterite in the Southern and Midland dialects terminates in -en.¹

The -n is, however, frequently dropped, as in the following examples :—

& alle the men that hii founde hii slowe as hii come.

(R. of Gl. fol. 34.)

And the peces flowe aboute

And smyte on this lithere men . wel harde to the grounde.

(St Katherine, p. 96.)

Hi nome ken hokes of ire : and hire flesche to-gnowe.—(Ibid.)

In norphumberland hi bigonne & ther hi sloze to grounde.

& hi seze hire (the cou) sitte a dai in the valeye ther-doune.

(St Kenelm, p. 54.)

Vowel change in the Plural Preterite of Irregular Verbs.

The Southern dialect, as in the older stages of the language, changes the vowel of the preterite pl. of that class of verbs represented by binden (to bind), driven (to drive), cleven (to cleave), in which the vowel of the pret. pl. is the same as the past participle. The Northern dialect does not furnish us with any examples of this vowel change.

And (hi) yeueth ham to sterue vor the loue of him (Crist) thet

sturf vor ham, other ine the londe beyende the ze other ine anothere stede.—(Ayenbite, p. 165.)

Ha wente into helle . . . to delivri the zaules of the holi vaders and of alle thon that vram the giningge of the wordle storve in zoth and guode byleaue, &c.—(Ibid. p. 12.)

Alle hi storuen in zorȝe ine the desert.—(Ibid. p. 67.)

And hor either aȝen other gaderede hor ost vaste

So that hii come and smite an bataile atte laste.

(R. of Gloucester, Cott. MS., Calig. A xi, fol. 29.)

For meni men ȝyve oure louerd god: that were of gode thoȝt

To susteynie his apostles.—(Julus Iscariot, p. 110.)

Preterite forms of Regular Verbs peculiar to the Southern dialect.

1. Some few verbs in the Southern (and in some of the Midland dialects) ending in -che or -ge often make their preterites and past participles in -nte (-nde) and -nt (-nd).

Inf.	Pret.	Past Part.
clenche (fasten)	{ cleinte	icleint
	{ clente	iclent
drenche (drown)	dreynte	idreynt
menge (mix)	{ meinde	imeind
	{ meynde	imeynd
quenche (quench)	queynte	iqueynt
senge (singe, toast)	seinde	iseind
sinke (sink)	seinte	iseint
springe (sprinkle)	{ spreynnte	ispreynt
	{ spreynnd	ispreynd

2. The preterites of such verbs as drede, lede, sprede, &c., were in the Northern dialect dredde, ledde, spreddde, forms which are also found in the Southern idioms, but in the latter dialects we often find a change of vowel, as

Inf.	Pret.	Past Part.
clothe }	cladde	iclad
drede (dread)	dradde	idrad
grede (cry)	gradde	igrad

Inf.	Pret.	Past Part.
lede (lead)	ladde	ilad
leve (leave)	laftte	ilaft
reve (bereave)	raftte	irafte
schede (shed)	schadde	ischad
sprede (spread)	spradde	isprad
swelte (die)	swalte	iswalt
threte (threaten)	thratte	ithrat

Infinitive Mood in -en ; Gerund in -enne or -ene.

The Northern dialect drops the *-en*¹ of the infinitive, which is retained by the Southern and Midland dialects. The -n is mostly dropped, and the final -e strongly sounded represents the older inflexion -an, as kreope, to creep, yeue, to give.²

The gerundial infinitive in -enne or -ene (originally in -anne or eune) survived as late as 1340. It more often takes the inflexion -e of the infinitive.³

Ich ne loky nazt þet belongeþ þe to nimene ac me to yeue.

(Ayenbite, p. 195.)

He ous yefþ his blod to drinke and his vless to etene.

(Ibid. p. 146.)

The inflexion -enne of the gerundial infinitive being pronounced very much like the present participle in -inde or -eude, is very often confounded with it, and before the date at which Lazamon's Brut was written we find the participle in -inde or -eude doing duty as the gerund ; thus, to helpinde = to helpenne, to help.

When the -inde or -eude became -inge or -ing the mistake still held its ground, as we find late in the xivth century such forms as to kepyuge = to kepeue = to keep, &c.

² This full form -en is frequently used by poetical writers as a convenient rhyming syllable.

³ What some writers have called the long forms of the infinitive used by Chaucer, as to done, to slane, are in reality gerundial infinitives.

Damaseus ys to menyng schedyng blod.

(Trevisa, 1387 Cotton MS., Tib. D vii, fol. 9 a.)

Hy (they) — —tauzte ham to kontyng and to schetyng.

(Ibid. fol. 15 a.)

Also he hadde sum tyme yuonge to kepynge his douȝter of Frauns, vor a scholde marye here to his sone.—(Ibid. fol. 272 a.)

Jues men wonede under þe hulles of Jude and wente (turned) to robbynge & reuyng.—(Ibid. fol. 281 b.)

Infinitives in -ie or -y.

Infinitives in -ie, -ye, or *-y*¹ (from older forms in i-an), are exceedingly common in the Southern dialect as late as 1387. No trace whatever of this inflexion is to be found in any Northern work, and though met with in the West Midland are of rare occurrence in the East Midland dialect of the xivth century. They are still retained in some of the modern dialects of the South of England.²

“Chell whistley and zing and capery vor oll yow cheesen.”

(Exmoor dialect.)

Present Participles.

The present participle in the Southern dialect terminates in -inde, in the Northern in -ande (-and): as Southern lovinde, Northern lovande (lovand).

As early as the beginning of the xivth century we find a tendency in some of the Southern and Midland dialects to use the form in -inge (-ing) instead of -inde or ende.³

In Trevisa's translation of Higden's Polychronicon, written 1387 (Cotton MS., Tib. D vii), there are no examples of participles in -ende; all end in -inge or ing.

In the Northern dialect the -and was employed as late as the xviiith century.

¹ Many verbs adopted from the Romance dialects took this inflexion, as chasty = chastise; crowny, to crown; sovy, to save, &c.

² Dr Barnes has shown that they still exist in Dorsetshire, as mowy, to mow; sawy, to sow.

³ -end is a Midland form, and is frequently used by Gower; -ande (-and) was adopted in some of the Midland dialects, and is most frequently employed by East and West Midland writers. The participial form in -ing is no doubt a corruption Past Participles.

1. In the Southern dialect up to a very late period the i- or y- (A.S. ge) was retained as the prefix of the past participle: as idemid, judged; ihote, called.

No instances of this prefixal element is to be found in any Northern writers. In Midland works with Northern tendencies, like the Ormulum, the i- is frequently dropped.

The modern Southern dialects have corrupted this prefix into a, as ayete = eaten; abroke, broken.

2. Past Participles of Strong or Irregular Verbs originally ended in -en: as ibroken, broke; icorven, cut; ifaren, gone. Southern writers frequently omit the -n, as in the following passages.²

þe tyding to þe contasse sone was ycome, þat hire louerd was aslawe & þe castel ynome.

(R. of G., Cotton MS., Culig., A xl, fol. 51 a.)

ycome = ycomen (come); ynome = ynomen (taken).

But when the participle is used adjectivally in the plural, the full form is often retained, as yboundene (bound), ybrokene (broken).

Northern writers never omit the -n, and instead of ycome, ynome, &c., write comen, nomen, &c.

Negative Verbal Forms.

The Northern dialect makes but little use of negative forms, which are very common in Southern writers.

nam, am not; nis, is not.

nes, was not; ner, were not.

of -inde, and not of -ende or -ande. As before observed, there is good evidence for supposing that the sounds of -inde and -inge (and -en; see Genesis and Exodus, p. xxxviii.) were closely related; in fact, we find kervynge (= kervinde = cutting) rhyming with fynde.

“He hath in his front strong,
An horn foure feet long,
So as Y in bokes fynde
No rasour is so kervynge.”—(K. Alys., ll. 6551-2.)

¹ This y or i is frequently found: 1. in other parts of the verb, as yleve, to believe; yknauþ, knows (Ayenbite). 2. In nouns, as yflon, arrows; yvon, focs; ibede (prayers). 3. In adjectives, as yredy, ready; ywer, wary (Ayenbite). 4. In adverbs, as ylome, frequently; ymene (in common).

² All Trevisa's past participles of strong verbs end in -e.

nabbe, have not ; neth, hath not.
nade, had not ; not, knows not.
nost, knowest not ; nuste, knew not.
nille, nile, will not.

Verbal prefixes peculiar to the Southern dialect.

1. An (a), as anginne (anginne), to begin. Angrise (agrise), to terrify. Anhete, to inflame, kindle. Anhitte, to strike. Anhonge, to hang. Anlikny, to compare.¹

2. Of: (a.) for (negative), ofpinche = for think, repent ; of-guo = forgo ; of-holde, withhold.² (b.) for, as in ofseche, seek for ; ofseude, send for.

3. At (A.S. æt), as at-berste, burst from ; at-wite, English at-wit, reproach ;³ at-route, to advance.

Adverbs.

The Southern dialect retains numerous adverbial forms unknown to the Northern speech.

1. Adverbs in -e : as (a.) louge (for a long time) ; unrizte, wickedly (b.) eue, twie, *thrie*⁴ (Northern anes, twies, *thries*⁵) = Semi-Saxon euen, twiein, thrien, A.S. ænð, twiwa, thrywa. (c.) heune, hence ; thenne, thence ; whenne, whence ; = heuneue (heoneue, heonuen) ; whanene (whannen, wannen) ; thanene (thenuen) = A.S. heon-an, thanon, hwanon.⁶

2. Adverbs in -es, as alles, altogether ; willes, willingly ; thonkes, willingly (as his thonkes = he being willing) ; unthonkes, unwillingly.

3. Adverbs in -en, ferren, selden, whilen (= also ferre, selde, while). The Northern forms end in -um or -on, as ferrum, seldum, whilom.

¹ In the Southern dialect, such verbs as ago, awake, arise, are exceedingly common, but scarcely ever occur in any Northern works.

² of-serve occurs in Southern writers for deserve.

³ Chaucer uses at-remne and at-rede (to run from, out-run ; get rid of, out-wit).

⁴ neode, uede, occurs for nedes = needs, of necessity.

⁵ These forms are not unknown to the Southern dialect.

⁶ Towards the middle of the 14th century these forms became hennes, thennes, whennes (whannes). The corresponding Northern forms are hethen, thethen, whethen (quethen).

4. Adverbs in -wat, as alwat, alhuet, until, neiwat, nearly.¹
5. Ac (but); ek (also); so—so (as—as); forte (for to), until.²
6. Dropping of e, as a3e, aye, again; siththe, seththe, since, afterwards.

Prepositions.

The following forms are peculiar to the Southern dialect.

1. An,³ on, in (before a vowel); a (before a consonant): e. g. An erpe, in earth; an-ende, lastly; an-he3, on high; a-lyve, alive; a-slepe, asleep.⁴

The Northern dialect prefixes on: as on-live, alive; on-loft, aloft; on-slepe, asleep; on-slante, aslant, &c.

The preference for on explains the curious Northern forms, obore (above); omang (among); olike (alike); onan (anon).

2. Fram, from (Northern fra; Midland fro).
3. Mid, mide (Northern with).
4. Toppe (Kentish), above.⁵

¹ -gate, as in algate (algates), thusgate, swagate, is unknown to the Southern dialect.

² Sum, as; warne, unless; utwith, without; inwith, with; forwith, before, are not used by Southern writers.

³ An is used by Southern writers as a separate word, as well as a prefix. It is still known in Sussex, where the peasants say, "Put your hat an."

⁴ The a is still preserved in anon = in one (minute), a-hunting, a-building, &c.

⁵ at = to; til, to, are not found in the Southern dialect.

III. LEXICOGRAPHICAL DIFFERENCES.

THE differences in the vocabularies of the Northern and Southern dialects may be discussed at a future period under the following heads :

I. Words peculiar to the Southern dialect, e.g., dene, a dean, valley ; more, a root ; zuolʒ, a plough,¹ &c.

II. Words peculiar to the Northern dialect, e.g., brathe, wrath ; fel, a hill ; wil, astray, &c.

III. Double forms, one of which is found in the Southern dialect and the other in the Northern, e.g.,

SOUTHERN.	NORTHERN.	SOUTHERN.	NORTHERN.
ey	egg	woc, woke	wayke (weake)
snibbe	snaipe ² (snub)	&c.	&c.

¹ Plough does not occur in A.S. writers ; and Southern authors of the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries employ it only in compound terms, as plow-land, &c.

² Snaipe and wayke are evidently Norse forms.

OUTLINES OF KENTISH GRAMMAR.

(A.D. 1327—1340.)

NOUNS.

1. Gender. The genders of Nouns are the same as in the older stages of the language.

2. Declension. Nouns may be divided into four declensions.

DIVISION I.

Nouns of the n declension, containing masculine, feminine, and neuter substantives ending in -en or -e (originally in -a or -e) and forming the plural in -en (originally in -an).

DIVISION II.

Class i. Nouns (originally feminine) ending in a consonant and forming the plural in -en (originally in -a).

Class ii. Nouns (originally feminine) ending in -e (originally in -u) and forming the plural in -en (originally in -a).

DIVISION III.

Class i. Nouns (originally neuter) ending in a consonant and having the singular and plural alike.

Class ii. Nouns (originally neuter) ending in a vowel (originally in -w, -e, or -u), together with some few ending in a consonant and forming the plural in -en (originally in -u).

DIVISION IV.

Class i. Nouns (originally masculine) ending in a consonant and forming the plural in -es (originally in -as).

Class ii. Nouns (originally masculine) ending in a vowel and forming the plural in -en (originally in -u).

DIVISION I.

Case endings.—a. The dative singular of all the declensions is denoted by a final e. Words ending in f change it into v before adding e. Nom. wyf; Dat. wyve. Nouns having a short vowel before d, t, double these letters, as—Nom. bed; Dat. bedde.

b. The A.S. dative pl. -um, in some few cases, is denoted by -e; in the majority of instances it is the same as the nominative.

ADJECTIVES.

For declension of Adjectives see p. xxxvi.

PRONOUNS.

I. PERSONAL PRONOUNS.

The personal pronouns are : Ich (I), þou (thou), he (he), hi (she), hit (it).

	SINGULAR.		PLURAL.
Nom.	Ich. ¹	þu, þou.	we. ye.
Gen.	min, mi.	þin, þi.	oure. youre.
Dat. }	me.	þe.	ous, us. you.
Acc. }

¹ This pronoun is still preserved in the South-Western dialects under the forms Uch and Utchy.

		SINGULAR.			PLURAL.
E.E.		Fem.	Neut.
Masc.
Nom.	{ a, ha, he,	{ hi, hy,		hit.	Nom.	hi.
Gen.	his,	hire,	his.		Gen.	{ hire, hare.
Dat.	him,	{ hire, hare,		him.	Dat.	ham.
Acc.	{ hine, him,	{ hire, hi, his,		{ hit. it.	Acc.	hi, his, hise, ham.

The personal pronouns are frequently used reflectively; as, Ich me reste, I rest myself.

Self is declined like an adjective (in the oblique cases, selve sing. and pl.); so that we easily understand such forms as Ich silf = I myself; þu silf = thou thyself; (Ich) me sylf = I myself, where self is placed after the dative of the personal pronoun. Cp. Fr. moi-même, lui-même, &c.

II. POSSESSIVE PRONOUNS.

The possessive pronouns are identical in form with the genitive case, e.g. oure = our, ours, of us; youre = your, yours, of you; hare = their, theirs, of them.

III. INTERROGATIVE PRONOUNS.

Masc. and Fem.		Neut.
Nom.	hua.	huet.
Gen.	huas.	huas.
Dat.	huam.	huam.
Acc.	huan, wan.	huet.

VERBS.

Moods.—There are four moods: Indicative, Subjunctive, Imperative, and Infinitive. Besides the ordinary infinitive there is a gerund (used after to); infin. comen, to come; ger. to comene. This distinction between the two forms is not always preserved.

Tenses.—Only two tenses are formed by inflection—the present and the past.

Participles.—The present participle ends in -inde; the past participle has the prefix i- or y- (unless the verb commences with one of the following prefixes: a-, at-, bi-, be-, for-, vor-, of-, to-, un-, wiþ-).

There are two conjugations of verbs, the Strong (or irregular), and the Weak (or regular).

General Remarks on the Strong (or Irregular) Conjugation.

1. If the base of a verb ends in -e or -ie the -e or -ie is the -e of the inflexions in the present indicative and imperative, as vleþ = flees; zēþ = sees.

2. Verbs having -d or -t as the final letter of the root-syllable, take -t instead of -deð or -teð, as the personal inflexion, as bint = bindeth, binds; grint = grindeth, grinds; halt = holdeth, holds; rit = rideth, rides; stont, stent = standeth, stands.

3. The 2nd and 3rd pers. are frequently contracted thus: est = eatest; binst = bindest; drinkþ = drinks; drifþ = drives.

4. Verbs whose base originally terminated in g often retain it under the form ; in the 2nd and 3rd pers. sing. indic.: as drazen, to draw; drazst, drawest; drazþ, draws; vli, to fly; vli3st, fliest; vli3þ, flies; wri, to cover; wri3þ, covers.

5. In some verbs the vowel is changed in the 3rd sing. pres. indic., as healden, to hold; halt, holds; hoten, to command; hat, commands; stonden, to stand; stant, stands.

ANOMALOUS VERBS.

1. O3en, oven, to own; 1st and 3rd sing. pres. indic. o3; o3en; pret. o3te.

2. Am is the 1st pers. sing. of the old infinitive wesan, to be. The other persons are as follows:—2nd pers. pres. indic. art; 3rd, is; pret. 1st, wes; 2nd, were; pl. weren, were.

The old philosophers put false Christians to shame	162
The four cardinal virtues are four kinds of loves	126-7
Of the Gift of Dread	127
Dread rouses the sinner	127-8
The sinner is like, 1. a drunkard ; 2. one bound in irons and fettors, who dreams of feasts and weddings instead of the gibbet	128
The Holy Ghost is the Good Physician	128-9
The three questions the Angel asked Hagar in the wilderness	129
Four questions put to the sinner by the Holy Ghost are like four strokes of thunder	129
How Mildness (Meekness) waxeth in the heart	130
Fear strips the heart of its pride and confidence	130
The tree of meekness is set beside the well of the fear of God	131
Of the Steps of Meekness	132
1. To know one's defects ; 2. to bewail one's sins ; 3. to confess and shrive our sins ; 4. to acknowledge our unworthiness ; 5. to hear willingly of our imperfec- tions ; 6. to endure reproach willingly ; 7. to desire to be accounted vile	133
Of the Seven Boughs of Meekness	134
The First Bough of Meekness is to honour God as a child doth its master	134

2. Reason and Affection)	151
The four offices of Reason	151-2
The faculties of the Will	153
The union of Reason and Will	153
The Second Step of Equity
Is to hold the body in subjection	154
The five wits (senses) should be under the authority of the Reason	154
The Third Step of Equity
Is to observe discretion in the use of temporal things	154
The Fourth Step of Equity
Is to follow the example of good men	155
Novices like young greyhounds	155
Æsop’s fable of the Hound and the Ass	155-6
The Fifth Bough of Meekness
Is to avoid the follies of the foolish	156
Fools and Sinners are not to be derided, but to be pitied	156
The bad man may be good to-morrow	157
The Sixth Step of Equity
Is to keep an eye upon the devil’s snares and devices	157
The spirits of men are like a mirror	158
The devil puts thoughts into the heart	158
The Seventh Step of Equity
Is to keep God always before us	159
Of the Boughs of Equity	159
The Boughs of Equity are seven in number: 1. Obedience ;
2. Love ; 3. Meekness ; 4. Prowess ; 5. Liberality ;
6. Chastity ; 7. Sobriety	159-60

	PAGE
This world is called the Vale of Tears	160
Six kinds of tears are shed by good men	161
Of the Gift of Strength	161
Life of man may be compared to knighthood or to citizenship	161-2
The gift of Strength enables a man to endure the hardships of this world	162
Prowess strips man of sloth and idleness	163
The Divisions of Virtue (Prowess)	164
1. Magnanimity; 2. Affiance; 3. Security; 4. Patience; 5. Steadfastness; 6. Magnificence; 7. Hunger and thirst of righteousness	164
The First Step of Prowess
To despise the world	164-5
The Second Step of Prowess
Is Belief	165
The Third Step of Prowess
Is Confidence (or Security)	166-7
The Fourth Step of Prowess
Is Patience	167
Patience is acquired by trial, just as the cup of gold has to undergo the strokes of iron ere it is fit to place on the king's table	167
The Fifth Step of Prowess
Is Steadfastness or Constancy	167-8
The Sixth Step of Prowess
Is Perseverance or Magnificence	168
The Boughs of Prowess	169
Seven Boughs of Prowess; for in seven battles seven crowns may be obtained	169-70
The First Fight	170
Is against deadly sin	170-1
Of the Repentance of King David	171
David repented in tears and sighs	171
The sinner must so sorrow that his heart shall melt to tears	171
The sinner is the murderer of his own soul	171
The sinner's bed is the soul	171
Of Shrift	172
Of the six conditions of Shrift	172
1. Let the sinner look, a. to the Shriver and seek a good confessor; b. to his own sins before he comes to shrift	172
2. Shrift must not be delayed	173
3. Let shrift be made openly	174
4. Let shrift be made without reservation	174
Let the sinner tell first the deadly sins he has committed	175
And how often he has fallen into sin, and with what members he has sinned	176

	PAGE
5. Let shrift be made meekly and timidly	177
6. Shrft must be made often, for eight reasons	178
Five things disturb shrift	179-80
Of Penance	180
Penance must be made by fasting, alms, and prayers	180
The sinner's contest with, 1. sin ; 2. with his own heart	180
3. With his flesh ; 4. with the world ; 5. with Dame Fortune	181
6. With the limbs of Antichrist	182-83
Of the Gift of Counsel and of the Virtue of Mercy	183
This gift bestows forethought and foresight	183
Seek good advice	184
Seven steps of the tree of Mercy—that is, the seven things that lead to mercy. 1. Nature	185
2. Grace ; 3. Behests of Holy Scripture	186-7
The devil a "shut-purse"	187
4. The liberality of Christ ; 5. the honour of God (the Story of St Martin) ; 6. Dread of Doom	188-89
7. The Seed of Mercy	189
The Stories of St Germain, John the Almoner, and St Boniface	190-91
The poor man who gave his one cow to the Priest	191
Of the Goodness of Alms	191
Three things to be considered in Almsgiving	192
1. Give not of thy unlawful gains	192
2. Give not to ribalds and minstrels	192
3. Give, a. ungrudgingly	193
b. Without delay	194
c. Liberally ; d. Willingly	195
Despise not the poor	196
Alms alone will not save a man	197
Cursed are the unmerciful	198
The Gift of Understanding and of the Virtue of Chastity	199
1. Life Active, and, 2. Life Contemplative	199
Martha a type of the first	199
The Gift of Understanding is given by the Holy Ghost	200
The Holy Ghost enlightens the soul	201
He purifies the soul from the filth of lechery	201
A lecher is no better than a beast	201
Of the Seven Steps of Chastity	202
I. Have a clear conscience ; a. True Shrft	202
Jordan signifies 'the Stream of Judgment'	202
b. A remembrance of Christ's passion	203
The adder of brass betokens Christ	203
II. Abstain from foul words	203
Foul words denote a filthy heart	203
III. Guard all the wits (senses) of the body	204

	PAGE
The five senses are the five gates of the city of the heart, whereby the devil oft enters	204
IV. Austerity of Life	204
Lusts mar chastity	204
Jeremiah's girdle denotes chastity	205
Great meats nourish lechery	205
V. Avoid the fellowship of the wicked	205
VI. Be occupied with good works	206
Idleness the ruin of Sodom	206
VII. Offer good prayers to God	207
Prayer a shield against lust	207
Prayers are shored up with four posts	207-8
Ask not what is improper for thee to have	208
Let the sinner take heed to the poor beggars that exhibit their infirmities before men in order to obtain alms	208
God will not give thee a pear or apple as one doth a child	208
Ask all things in the name of Christ	209
Devotion of heart is necessary to prayer	210
It is no use to move the lips while the heart is dumb	210
Prayer without devotion is like a messenger without letters of recommendation	211
Pray especially to God on Sunday	212
The Sunday is more holy than the Saturday	213
Of the great festivals	213
An answer to those who say 'We cannot always be praying' And 'if all days be mass days and holy days, how then should we sow, reap, mow,'? &c.	214
Let great lords and ladies lay aside their dignity when in church	215
Ladies should take pattern of Queen Hester	216
They should not be busy about decking their heads with gold and silver	216-17
The two wings that bear prayer to God are fasting and alms	217
Come not empty-handed before God	218
The parable of the Ten Virgins	218
Moses overcame Amalek by prayer	219
The prayers of many are more effective than those of one man	219
The Seven Boughs of Chastity are according to the states of men in this world	219
1. Chastity of those who have preserved their maidenhood; 2. Chastity of those who lost their maidenhood before marriage	220
3. Chastity of married folk	221
The three cases in which the deed of spoushood may be sinless	222-23

	PAGE
The proper times for abstaining from the deed of spousehood	224
The elephant will not dwell with his wife while she is with child	224
4. Chastity of widowhood	225
Three things to be observed in this state	226
5. The Fifth Bough of Chastity is unmarried life	227
The devil tries to steal the treasure of maidenhood	227
Why the life of maidens is to be praised	227-28
Maidenhood like a white robe	228
Three spots defile the white robe	228
Rich robes often hide a poor and naked conscience	229
Maidenhood like a lily	230
The flower of maidenhood and its six leaves	230-32
The three grains of the lily	233
Virginity most fruitful in good works	234
6. The Sixth State of Chastity is of Hooded Clerks	235
The girdle of chastity	236
The wickedness of the minister impairs not the efficacy of the sacraments	237
7. The Seventh State of Chastity is the State of Religion, i. e. of those who are dedicated to God	238
The devil is most anxious to cause the 'religious' to fall into sin, just as the fisherman has greater joy in taking a great fish than a little one	238
Here lies a Tale of the devil-princes' reports of their evil deeds to a great devil who sat upon a folding stool; and how one devil had, after forty years' trial, tempted a monk to commit fornication, for which he was hugged, kissed, and crowned by the 'great devil,' his master	238-39
Religion is like a desert	240
True poverty the hoard of the religious man	241
The story of Lot's wife and its lesson	242
'Religious folk' that seek temporal riches put the plough before the oxen	243
The pure of heart shall see God	243-44
Of the Gift of Wisdom. Of the Virtue of Temperance and of Sobriety	245
Wisdom, the last and greatest gift of the Holy Ghost, makes man to know God perfectly	245
The glue of love	246
The spirit drags down the flesh	247
In the great tavern (heaven) one shall drink to the full of God's sweetness	247
Sobriety springs from wisdom	248
Death seizes the glutton suddenly, 'as one taketh a fish by the cheek'	248

Wine drowns the glutton	248
The mouth is the chief gate of the castle of the heart . .	249
All creatures teach man sobriety	249
Sobriety must be exercised in good deeds, as fasting, vigils, &c.	250
Of the high rock (Christ) and the well of love	251
Of the Seven Steps of Sobriety	252
1. Measure (moderation) in the understanding	252
Unbelievers overstep moderation—they seek a natural reason in what transcends the understanding	252
The understanding should be subject to belief	253
2. Moderation in the lusts and desires of the will	253
Control the will with the bridle of sobriety	254
3. Moderation in words	254-55
Weigh thy words in the balance of discretion	255
4. Moderation in hearing	256
Flatterers and liars are plentiful, but there is great dearth of those who adhere to truth	256
‘Of the adder called in Latin Aspis ’	257
5. Moderation in clothing and precious robes	258
Excess is a sin	258
The wearing of clothes comes of the sin of our first parents Nature has given man no clothes of which to be proud, like the tail of the peacock and the comb of the cock	258
6. Moderation in Conduct	259
The child of a hundred years shall be accursed	259
7. Moderation in Meat and Drink	260
The virtue of sobriety is above all other virtues	260
He who hath this virtue is joined to God by charity	260
Of rest in God	260-61
The Ayenbite of Inwynt is written in the English of Kent Date of its completion	262
Pater Noster	262
Ave Maria	262
Creed	262-3
For to shake away heaviness and dread, and turn them into the love of God (Sermon on Matthew xxiv. 43)	263
The Father of the House—the Will of Reason	263
The House—Conscience	263
The Thief—the Devil	263
Door-keeper—Prudence	263
Dread, the messenger of death	264
Dread’s description of hell	264-5
Love of Everlasting Life—a messenger from heaven	266
Description of heaven	266-69
Difference between Men and Beasts	270-71

Instead of it, Holy Church sets Sunday in the New Law to be kept holy :

and whoso breaks Sunday and other high feasts, sins deadly,

and worse if he spend them in sin and whoredom.

The Fourth Com-
mandment.

ÞE UERÞE GODES HESTE.

[Fol. 1. b.]

Þe uerþe heste / is þellich . “ Worþssipe þine uader / and þine moder . uor þu sselst libbe þe lenger ine yerþe .”
Þis heste / ous amonesteþ / þet we ous loky / þet we / ne

Wrath not thy Father or Mother.

We should honour
our ghostly fathers and the over-lings of Holy Church,

who have the care
of our souls.

Disobedience to them is a deadly sin.

Ine þise ilke heste / is onderstonde / þe worþssipe /

The Fifth Com-
mandment.

ÞE VIFTE GODES HESTE.

Thou shalt slay no
man,

neither for vengeance, nor for his goods, for this is deadly sin.
It is right to slay
the misdoers.

[Fol. 2. a.]

In this behest is forbiden the sin
of hate, wrath, and great ire.

The brother-hater
is a man-slayer.

To bear long wrath against others is a deadly sin.

Þe vifte heste / is þellich / “ þou ne sselst / slaþe nenne man .” Þis heste uorbyet / þet non ne ssel / slaþe oþren /
uor a wrekinge . ne uor his guodes . oþer uor oþre

Ine þis heste ys uorbode / zenne of hate / and of wreþe / and of grat ire . Vor also zayþ / þe writing . þe ilke / þet hateþ his broþer : he is / manslaþe / ase to his wyll / and zenezeth dyadliche . and þe ilke / þet bereth longe wreþe / ayens oþren . vor zuich wreþe / longe yhyealde / and byuealde ine herte : is ine wreþe /
and ine hate : þet is dyadlich zenne . and aye þise heste . And yet zenezeth he more / þet deþ / oþer por-chaceþ / ssame / oþer harm / to oþren : wrongliche . oþer

is ine rede / and ine helpe / uor to do harmi oþren / him to awreke . þazles wreþe / oþer onworþnesse / þet geþ liztliche / wyþoute greate wille / an willinge / uor to harmi oþren : ne is naȝt dyadlich zenne.

Harm done unwillingly to others
is not a deadly sin.

þE ZIXTE GODES HESTE.

[Fol. 2. a.]

The Sixth Com-
mandment.

þe zixte heste / is þellich. “þou ne sselst do / non hordom.” þet is to zigge / þou ne sselst naȝt wylmi uelazrede ulesslich / wyþ oþre manne wyf.

Thou shalt do no
whoredom, nor desire fleshly fellowship with other men's wives.

Ine þise heste / ous is uorbode / alle zenne of ulesse /
þet me clepeþ generalliche / lecherie. þet is on / of þe zeuen dyadliche zennes. þaz þer by zome bronches / þet

mete / oþer drinke / oþer be euele þoztes. to longe yhyealde. oþer be kueade takinges. Vor ine suiche þinges / me may hadde / harm of zaule. Ine þise heste is uorbode / alle zennen a-ye kende / ine huet manere / hy byeþ y-do / oþer ine his bodie : oþer ine oþren.

This behest for-biddeth lechery,
which is one of the deadly sins,

some branches of which, as arisings
of the flesh, are not deadly sins.

In this behest are forbidden all sins against kind (nature).

þE ZEUEDE GODES HESTE.

The Seventh Commandment.

þe zeuende heste / is þellich. “þou ne sselst do / none þiefþe.” þis heste ous uorbyet / to nimene / and of-hyealde / oþre manne þing / huet þet hit by / be wykede skele / aye þe wyl of him / þet hit oȝþ.

Thou shalt do no
theft.

Ine þise heste is uorbode / roberie / þiefþe / stale / and gael / and bargayn wyþ oþren / uor his oȝen to hadde. And þe ilke / þet deþ / aye þis heste : is yhyalde to yelde. þet he heþ / of oþre manne kueadliche / yef he wot to huam. And yef he not ; he is yhyalde / to yeue hit uor godes loue. oþer / to done by þe rede of holi cherche. Vor he þet wyþhalt / oþre manne þing mid wrong / be kueade skele : zenezep dyadliche : bote

This behest for-biddeth robbery,
theft, stealing,
usury, bargain.

He that withhold-eth other men's things sinneth deadly.

yef he hit yelde / þer ha ssel / yef he hit wot / and moze hit do. oþer yef he ne deþ / by þe rede of holy cherche.

The Eighth Com-
mandment.

Thou shalt bear
no false witness against thine even-Christian.
This behest for-biddeth lying and forswearing.

Against this behest do those who are guilty of the sins of "detraction,"

and of flattery and of treachery.

[Fol. 2. b.]

The Ninth Com-
mandment.

Thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's wife.

Thou shalt not consent to do sin
with thy body.

The difference between the ninth and sixth Commandments.

The sixth forbids
the outward deed,
the ninth forbids
the inward consenting.

ÞE EȜTENDE GODES HESTE.

Þe eȜtende heste / is þellich. "þou ne sselst zigge /

The Tenth Com-
mandment.

Thou shalt not desire the thing that is thy neighbour's.

In this behest is forbidden enuy, of which comes co-vetousness, a deadly sin.

Any evil arising without will is no sin, but if there be sin, it is not deadly but light.

These are the Ten Behests, whereof
the three first di-recteth us to God,
the other seven to our neighbour.

The Twelve Articles of the Christian Belief.

 The wicked beast
 had might of himself to fight with and overcome the saints.

This beast betokeneth the devil,
 who cometh out of the sea of hell;
 his guiles are denoted by the leo-pard's spots, his strength by the bear's feet,

his cruelty by the lion's throat,
 for the devil will
 for-swallow all.

The tokens of the heads of the beast,

[Fol. 4. a.]

The seven heads are the seven deadly sins.
 Every one falls into the throat of some of the seven heads.

None is so holy as to avoid all sins.

The 10 horns betokeneth the guiltes
 of the 10 behests.

The 10 crowns are the 10 victories he hath over sinners.

The first head of the Beast.

ÞET UERSTE HEAUED OF ÞE BESTE.

The first head is

Pride, 2nd Envy,
3rd Anger,
4th Sloth,
5th Covetousness,
6th Gluttony,
7th Lechery.

These are all head-sins, and beginning of all wickedness.

And first we will talk of pride, the first sin,

which was committed by Lucifer,

wherefore he and his angels fell from heaven.

Like him are all that exalt themselves above others.

The Might of Pride.

Pride blindeth
men,

so that they are beguiled by the devil whether they
be high, fair, rich, wise, hardy, or honourable,
but especially great lords,

The Second Bough of Pride is Despite (Contempt).

There are three
sorts of this sin.

I. Not praising

II. Not to honour

III. Not to show obedience to those over us.

Think how often thou hast dis-
praised others,

how thou hast failed in giving due honour to God, to His mother, to His saints, and His angels,

[Fol. 5. b.]

and how many times thou hast badly served our Lord Jesus Christ,
in not hearing sermons,

and in jangling
and jesting at mass.

Think too how little honour thou hast shown to the body of Christ
when thou sawest
or receivedst it,

This the third Bough of Pride is Arrogance, or Upweening. A man is guilty of this when he thinketh too much of himself, and less of others. This sin nourisheth all the great spiritual sins. This sin showeth itself in six ways. I. Singularity. The proud and the overweener will not deign to do as others.

þe oþer is / fol niminge / of greate spendinge. þet me clepeþ prodigalité. huazne he deþ / to moche despense. oþer / of his oȝen: oþer / of oþre maȝne: uor to by / y-praysed. and þeruore / þet me him hyalde / þe more large / and þe more corteys. II. Prodigality. This is a foolish spending of money, in order to be praised and held the more liberal and courteous.

III. False Strife. This is to support a thing we know to be wrong.]

IV. Boasting (Yelping).

The boaster is the Cuckoo, he can only sing of himself.

[Fol. 6. a.]

This sin is seen in those who yelpeth of their own wit, descent, works, or prowess.

He sinneth doubly who pays others to extol him, and to lie and boast of his nobleness.

þe uerþe tuyg / of þe ilke boze / huer-by / þe proude / sseaweþ prede / of his herte : is yelpingge. þet is / wel uoul zenne / and to god : an to þe wordle. þe yelpere is þe cockou. þet ne kan / nazt zinge / bote of him-zelue : þis zenne is ybounde ine þan / þet he his ozene mouþe / him yelþþ. oþer of his wytte. oþer of his kenne. oþer of his workes. oþer of his prouesse. V. Scorn. This is the wont of the proud, who scorn good men and those they see living aright.

þe vifte out-kestinge / of þe ilke stocke / is scorn. Vor þet is þe wone / of þe proude: ouer-wen[er]e / þet him ne is nazt ynoz / to onworþi / ine his herte / þe oþre. þet ne habbeþ nazt / þe graces / þet he wenþ habbe. ac makeþ / his bisemers / and his scornes. and þet wors is : bisemereþ and scornep þe guode men. and of ham / þet he yziþþ / wende to guode. þet is wel grat zenne. and wel dreduol. Ac / uor hire euele tongen : hi miswendeþ / moche uolk / to done wel.

By their evil tongues they prevent much folk from doing well.

VI. Opposition (Withstanding). The proud overweener will not endure opposition, chastening, or advice.

The goods that we have of God are
1. goods of nature,
2. goods of fortune,
3. goods of grace.

The kindly goods are those pertaining to the body or the soul.

The bodily goods are health, beauty, strength, prowess, nobility, good tongue, and good discourse.

The spiritual goods are clear and subtle wit and a good understanding.

For all these gifts we ought to thank God.

Nevertheless the proud selleth them to the devil for the false penny of idleness.

The goods of fortune (hap) are highness, riches, delights, prosperity.

When the lady of fortune turns her wheel to man, then bloweth to him all the twelve winds of Idle-bliss,

The Sixth Bough
of Pride is Hypocrisy.

Those are hypocrites who pretend to be good men but are not truly so.

There are three kinds of hypocrisy foul, foolish, and subtle.

Those are foul hypocrites who do their foul deeds in corners ;

and such men our Lord compares to painted and gilded sepulchres. The foolish hypocrites keep the body chaste, so as to be esteemed of men; thus they make false money out of good metal. The subtle hypocrites aspire to dignities, and hide their evil disposition, but when they gain their positions they discover themselves in their true colours, and exhibit their pride, avarice, and malice.

ÞE ZEVENDE BO3 OF PREDE.

This sin is the daughter of pride, and maketh men to forsake God and please the world.

[Fol. 7. b.]

The envious man
 dislikes to see the prosperity of other
 men,
 just as the owl and bat dislike the brightness of the sun.

This sin is divided into three boughs.
 It poisons, 1. the heart, 2. the mouth, 3. the works of man.
 The envious heart cannot bear to look upon another;
 man's happiness.

When the envious man heareth of another's misfortune, sickness,
 poverty, &c., he rejoiceth in his heart.

So men's happiness or joy cause
 him to be sorrowful in heart.

Thus the envious heart sinneth in a threefold manner,

1. in false deemings.

2. in wicked gladness.

3. in worse sorrow.

He sinneth also by the mouth,
 for his heart being full of venom,
 it leapeth out by
 the mouth, in the form of cursing

bitterness, and treachery.

The envious hath three manners of venom in deeds.

The envious man
is like the basilik, no greenness
may last before him.

Corn has three stages, it is first as in the grass, afterward in ear, afterward it is full of fruit.

1. The envious man tries to quench the beginning of goodness
that he sees in others.

2. He tries to slander and to destroy those flourishing in goodness.

[Fol. 8. a.]

3. He is full of sorrow and bitterness towards those who are established in goodness.

This sin is very perilous, and against the Holy Ghost.

He who sinneth
against the Holy Ghost shall neither have mercy in this world nor in the other, because this sin cannot be repented of.

The six sins against the Holy Ghost.

I. Overweening.

II. Wanhope (despair).

III. Opposition (hardness of heart).

IV. Despite of penance (impenitence).

V. Striving against the Holy Ghost in others.

VI. Warring against truth, and especially against the Christian belief.

All these sins are against the Holy Ghost, and are so great as not to be repented of.

The third head of the evil beast is hate.

The hatred of evil is virtuous, but fellness (fierceness) of heart is a very great sin.

The Hater has four wars (strifes). The 1st is with himself, as when for fear of torment he kills himself.

The 2nd is with God, because of some sickness or adversity, death of friends, &c.

The 3rd is with those who are under him,—his wife and his household.

[Fol. 8. b.]
He beateth his wife and children and breaketh pots and cups as if he were out of his wits.

The 4th is war with his neighbours.

Of this bough springeth 7 small twigs:

1. Chiding.
2. Wrath. 3. Discord.
4. Strife. 5. Desire of vengeance.
6. Manslaughter.
7. Deadly war.

War produces many horrors, as the death of many innocent folk, the destruction of churches, the burning of towns, the ruin of barns, the disinheritation and exile of men, women, and children, lands destroyed, &c.

The fourth head of the wicked beast of hell is disinclination to do good, and a proneness to do evil.

This sin is a wicked root, that casteth many evil boughs.

Sloth makes men have bad beginning, bad amending, and worse
ending.

1. The slothful loveth our Lord
little and luke-warmly.

2. He is timid in heart, is loth to do penance, and falleth into the
lusts of the flesh.
[þe dyeules red :
to þe onlosti.]

3. The idle man is tempted by the devil first to think evil, and afterwards to desire vilanies, ribaldries, lecherries, and so to waste his time.

4. The heavy man
loveth to lie, rest,
and slepe.

He had rather lose four masses
than a sweat or a sleep.

5. The wicked slug-gard will not try to amend his evil
ways.

[Fol. 9. a.]
 He is like the shrew, who would rather rot in prison than take the trouble to climb out by steps.
 6. The man of little will dreadeth to begin to do good, for fear that God will fail
 him.
 This is the dread
 of the dreamers,
 that are terrified
 by their dreams.
 He is like those who are afraid to go out for fear of a snail, or like children afraid of a goose that blow-
 eth.
 There are six vices that prevent good beginning and amendment.

Untruth. The sinner believes the devil rather than God.
 [þe dyeules red :
 to þe ontrewē.]

Sloth. This is a vice that all are besmutterd with.

Few folk are as diligent as they are holden to be.

Forgetfulness.
 The slothful is loth to shrive, and soon forgetteth
 his sins.

True shrift is necessary to forgiveness.

The peril of slackness.

Slackness cometh of default of courage and of evil habits.

Sometimes it comes of ignorance and of foul heat.

Afterwards cometh weariness, that maketh man weary and worse.

þE 6 POYNS OF SLEUþE : þET BRENGEþ MAN TO HIS ENDE.

The fifth head of the beast is the sin of avarice and covetousness, the root of all evil.

This is the great schoolmistress
and teacher of all,
for all study in the school of avarice, great and small kings, prelates, clerks, lewd
and religious.

Avarice is disorderly love, and showeth itself in three ways:

1. Winning.
2. Withholding.
3. Stinginess.

Of the root of avarice come many small roots
that are great
deadly sins:

1. Usury. 2 Theft.
3. Robbery.
4. False claim.
5. Sacrilege.
6. Simony.

2. The second manner of usury is the withholding of purchase.

3. The third usurers are the master money-lenders. Of this sin the great men are not free who support the Jews.

4. The fourth kind is in those that lend other men's silver obtained at small cost, so as to get greater interest.

It is the little usurer that teacheth such foul craft.

5. Chaffer is to sell a thing for more than it is worth at the time.

1. The chaffers bring knights and high men to poverty.

2. They lend money on land which they know will not be redeemed.

3. They buy things at half their value and sell them twice or thrice the dearer.

4. They buy corn cheap, and sell it when it is scarce; and they desire the dear time so as to sell the dearer.

5. They buy corn and vines in a flourishing condition.

6. They use fraud in their merchandise.

7. They take advantage of the necessities of their poor neighbours,

ÞE OÞER BOȝ OF COUAYTISE.

[Fol. 10 b.]

Þe oþer boȝ of auarice : ys þyef þe. þet is nyme / oþer of healde / oþre manne þinges / wyþ wrong / and onwytinde / and wyþ-oute wylle / of þe lhorde. And þet me may do / ine uour maneres be þe manire of þyeues. Vor þer ys : a þyef open. and a þyef ywreȝe. a þief priuē.
and a þyef uelage.

The second bough
of covetousness is theft, that is, to take and withhold other men's goods
wrongfully.

Four kinds of thieves :

1. Open. 2. Covert.
3. Privy. 4. Accessory.

Þe þyef commun / and open / byeþ þo / þet be zuiche crefte / libbeþ. of huam me deþ dom / huamne ine halkes / and ywryȝeliche greate þinges / oþer little / be hire viȝtinge. oþer be traysoun. oþer be queayntise.

1. The open thief takes his doom
when caught.

2. The sly thief
stealeth in corners great or small things, by strife,
treason, or craft.

Þe priuē þyeues byeþ þo / þet ne steleþ nazt / of oncouþe. ac of priues. And of zuichen : þer byeþ / of greate / and of smale. Þe greate / byeþ of þe kueade / and þe outrewe reuen. prouos. and bedeles. and seruons.
þet steleþ / þe amendes. and wyþdraȝeþ þe rentes / of hire lhordes. and rekeneþ more / ine dedes. and ine spendinge. an lesse / ine onderuonginge. and ine rentes. Zuyche byeþ / þe greate officials / þet byeþ / ine þe house / of riche men. þet makeþ þe greate spend-inges. and yeueþ largeliche / þe guodes of hare lhordes /
wyþ-oute hare wytende / and wyþ-oute hare wylle.

3. The privy thief is great or small.

The great ones are the reeves, provosts, beadles, and servants,
that steal fines and hold back the rents
of their lords.

They make the expenditure great and the income
small,
and are liberal with their master's goods.

To þise zenne belongeþ / þe zennes of þe wyue. þet deþ zuo moche / be hare zenne / þet þe children / þet hi wot wel / þet hi heþ / be spousbreche : herþ away þe to done / into kuead us. And of ham / of religion / þet byeþ oȝeneres. uor hi behoteþ to libbe / wy[þ]-oute oȝninge.

To this sin belong
the sins of the wife who wrongeth her kind by spouse-breach,

and who stealeth
her lord's goods to give to her kin.

The little thieves steal bread, wine, their neighbour's capons, hens, and garden fruit.

Such are those who keep what they find, knowing to whom it belongs.

When we find a thing and know not the owner, we must take the advice of Holy Church.

4. The thief accessory partaketh of the theft either by gift or purchase; he consenteth to, adviseth, and defendeth theft.

The corrupt judge is a thief accessory.

þe oþre byep / þe little þyenes. þet stelep / ine þe house : bread. wyn. an oþre þinges / huyche þet hi by. oþer of hire nezebores. hire capons. hennen. frut of hire gardins. oþer oþre þinges / huet þet hit by. þe þRIDDE BO; OF AVARICE.

III. The third bough of avarice is robbery, that hath many small roots.

1. Evil executors of bequests.

2. Unfaithful guardianship.

4. Unpaid debts.

5. Robbery of underlings by prelates,

who, like wolves,
devour the sheep.

6. Oppression of the poor by reeves, provosts, and beadles.

IV. The fourth bough of auarice
is false claim.

¹ [ope?]

Dame Avarice
hath many scholars in this lore. There are 7 kinds of folk
that thus study.

1. False plaintiffs that seek corrupt judges to delay
justice,

and hire false
witnesses.

2. The pretended exiles.

who sell their
dooms (verdicts), and wrongfully use the poor.7. False counsellors.All the aforesaid persons are bound to restore what they have wrongfully withheld.

þE VIFTE BOȝ OF AUARICE.

V. The fifth bough of avarice is sacrilege, that is, to break or steal the things of Holy Church.1. Abuse of the Lord's body.2. Abuse of the other sacraments.3. Destruction or theft of holy things.

5. Disputes in church, shedding of blood, and sin of lechery.

6. Laying violent hands on clerk or man or woman of religion.

7. Stealing of blessed things from holy places. Those are not quit of this sin who misuse the goods of Holy Church, who hideth the property of the Church, or who withhold rents, offerings, and tithes.

They are not quit who break Sundays and festivals.

VI. The sixth bough of avarice is simony.

Simoniacs are those who sell or buy spiritual things. Simony hath many twigs :
 1. Selling and buying of holy orders, or the sacraments.

2. Preaching for pence.

[Fol. 12. a.]

3. Purchasing and obtaining corruptly the dignities of Holy Church.

4. Giving away for gifts, &c., the benefices of Holy Church.

5. Letting and changing of benefices.

6. Causing men to go into religion by market.

Lewd (lay) men should keep them from this sin, which they may commit in 3 ways: 1st, by helping their kin to obtain dignities of the Church.

2nd, by giving away benefices. 3rd, by causing their kin to go into religion.

Three kinds of gifts make simony.

1. Gift of hand.
2. Gift of mouth.
3. Gift of unclean service.

VII. The seventh bough of avarice is wickedness, i.e. when one is so wicked that he fears not to do a great and horrible deadly sin or harm to others for to benefit himself. The twigs are manifold:

1. Apostasy, as becoming Heretic, Jew, or Saracen.

To this sin belongeth the sin of those who make enchantments, who look in the nail of the thumb for to take thieves,

And of them also that by witchcraft cause those in spoushood to hate one another.

2. Grudging and treason, when a man for profit brings others to death by sword or poison.

[Fol. 12. b.]

3. Burning of towns or houses ; destruction of vines or corn ; harm to others for reward.

4. Sowing discord, strife, and wars in cities in order to be gainers thereby.

5. Accusing poor folk falsely.

ÞE EȜTENDE BOȜ OF AUARICE.

VIII. The eighth bough of pride is chaffer, i.e. a sinning for speedy gain.

It is seen in 7
modes :

1. To sell as dear
as possible, but to bny at the cheapest.

2. To lie, swear, and perjure, in order to sell goods.

3. To defraud in weights and measures,

a. buying by the greatest weight
and selling by the least;

b. selling by short weight, as the taverners do who fill the measure
with scum ;

c. increasing fraudulently the weight of goods.

4. To sell to time.

5. To sell a different article than was at first bargained for.

6. To hide the faults of a thing,
as horse-dealers
do.

7. To make a thing look better than it

þE ZIXTE HEAUED OF þE BESTE.

The sixth head of the beast is lechery, i. e. too much unlawful love and lust. The devil inciteth to this sin in 5 modes, in—
1. Foul sight.
2. Foul words.
3. Foul handling.
4. Foul kissing.
5. Foul deed.

This sin is divided into two parts :
1. Lechery of heart.
2. Lechery of body.
The lechery of heart hath four steps ;
1. Foul thoughts.

2. Delight in foul thoughts without actual commission.

3. Consenting of the heart, reason, and will.

4. Desire and great heat to sin,
[Fol. 13. b.]

caused by the sight of fair ladies quaintly adorned,

who thus bring many folk to sin.

Lady of fairadorn- ing is ‘arbalest’ to the tower.

Ladies, who wittingly cause folk to sin, shall be called to account at doomsday.

Lechery of body is divided into lechery of eyes, ears, mouths, hands, and wits [senses.]
1 [huo ?=how.]

To this sin belongeth drunkenness and gluttony, the love of soft bed-clothes, and ease of body.

maneyre eyse / of bodye / out of nyede. and specialliche : ydelnesse.

The sin of the deed of lechery is divided into many boughs.

1. The 1st is of those who live together out of the bonds of wedlock.

2. Adultery with common women.

3. Single men living with widows or the contrary.

4. Adultery with single women.

5. Adultery with married women (or spousebreach).

This sin is doubled when both parties are married.

6. Unnatural sin,

for which God smote to death Onan, Jacob's nephew.

[Fol. 14. a.]

7. Adultery of a man with his godmother or his goddaughter.

After risin^g he thinks of what he shall eat.

Then he thinks of yesterday's good wine, but bemoans his aching head.

The glutton often comes to the gallows.

This is the shot
he often pays.
This sin spreadeth
out into 5 boughs.

1. Eating before time, and yielding to lechery of throat,

as doth a dumb
beast.

A man guilty of this sin cannot fast, because his head is bad, but what is worse, his heart becomes evil.

1 [MS. broke.]

He will have fellows like himself,

[Fol. 15. a.]

whom he causes to sin.

He loves the idle bliss of the world more than the true joy of heaven.

He is as the child who will always have bread in his hand.

Some sin by supping late, and rising late.

They waste their time, and turn night into day.

Such folk are accursed of God.

They play at evil games, as dice :

So they wrath God, and harm their bodies and souls.

2. Immoderate eating and drinking.

he wyle habbe uelazes / þet doþ ase he deþ. huiche he draþþ / uram wel to done and let his mid him / in-to helle. Vor he deþ ham / breke hare uestinges. and do hare glotounyes. huer-of hi ham / wolden loki : yef þer nere / kueade uelazes. Gluttons are like the kite that swallows the sparrow.

One man lives by the flesh, another by his jollity, a third by his physic, a fourth by his honesty, a fifth by his sins, and a sixth by the spirit and love of God.

þo þet libbeþ be þe ulesse / ase zayþ zaynte paul / hi slazeþ hire zaulen. uor hi makeþ / of hare wombe : hare god. þe ilke / ne hyealdeþ scele / ne mesure. and þeruore / hi ssolle hadde / ine þe oþre wordle / pine wyþ-oute mesure.

Those that live by hypoerisy are the devil's martyrs.

They live temperately before the world, but immoderately when none sees them.

[Fol. 15. b.]

Oftentimes there is a strife between the purse and womb of the glutton.

The belly says I will be full; so says the purse. The one says I will eat and spend, the other says thou shalt not, I will that thou save and retrench.

makeþ be wyzte ymad. þe mesure of wombe / in oþremanne house guode / and large. And þe mesure of the purse / of his. þet is zorzuol and scarce.

Those that live by physic often die
by physic.

þo þet libbeþ be fisike : hy healdeþ þe mesure / of ypocras / þet is lite / an strait. and hit iualþ ofte. þet þe ilke / þet be fisike leueþ : be fizike sterfþ.

Those living by their honesty eat at proper times.

þo þet libbeþ be hyre onestete : þe ilke hyealdeþ /
þe mesure of seele. and libbeþ worssipliche / to þe wordle /
þet eteþ ine time / and ine oure. and nimeþ mil guode

Those living by their sins are dieted by penance.

þo þet libbeþ be þan / þet hare zennes okseþ.
hyealdeþ zuiche manere / and mesure / ase me ham

Those living by the spirit are those that use all things aright, in reason and moderation.

þo þet libbeþ / be þe goste. hyeþ þo / þet ine þe

the devil hath many tricks by which to take man
by the throat.

3. The third bough is a strong yearning for meat.

To eat meats is good, provided they are eaten
with the sauce of the dread of our Lord.

[Fol. 16. a.]

By the sweetness of the meat we should think on God's sweetness.

4. The fourth bough is the spending and wasting of goods
in order to live nobly.

Such folk sin in many ways :

1. In great expense.

2. In intemperance.

3. In vanity ; they like to boast of their rich meats.

5. The fifth bough is the anxiety of gluttons, who seek only the delight of the swallow.

In three ways
these folk sin :

1. In buying and preparation.

2. Great lust in the use of their property.

3. Bliss in the recording and endeavours to make of one meat many disguised messes.

And when the mess comes on,
one after the other,

jests and jokes
form the entrées.

[a playste]
The glutton says,
"though my belly
burst, I will not let this dish escape."

4. After the lechery and bliss
of eating comes the wish of the gluttons, that they had the neck of a crane and the belly of a cow.

The sins of gluttony and lechery arise commonly in the tavern, that well of sin,

that school and very chapel of the devil.

When the glutton
goeth into the

[Fol. 16. b.]
tavern he entereth
upright; when he cometh out he cannot support
himself.

When he enters
he can see, hear,
and speak well;
when he departs
he has lost all these, and has no reason or understanding.

These are the devil's miracles.

The tavern is a ditch to thieves, and the devil's castle for to war against God and His saints.

Sustainers of taverns are accessories to all the sins done in their taverns.

ÞE ZENNES OF ÞE TONGE.

The sins of the tongue.

An þise ten bozes we moze alsuo nemni: ydelnesse. yelpinge. blondinge. todrazinge. lyesynges. vorzueriinges. stryfyng. groching. wyþstondinge. blasfemye.

It behoveth each man to weigh and re-weigh each word, whereof it cometh and what evil it doeth.

The evil tongue is the tree cursed by God, because he found on it nought but leaves, that is to say, words.

We may, amongst many others, name ten boughs: Idleness, boasting, flattery, seduction, lying, perjury, strife, grudging, opposition, blasphemy.

þe ilke þat ham yeueþ / to moche to ydele worddes. hi zecheþ grat harm / þet hi ne aparecyueþ nazt. Vor hy lyeseþ þane time precious. huer-of hi ssolden habbe eftsome disete. and uorlyeseþ þe guodes þet hi þencheþ to done / and ssolden do. and nimeþ þe tresor of þe herte.

Those who give themselves up to idle words uncover the pot so that the flies go therein. One calls them idle words, but they are not so, but dear and harmful.

And in the high court of God must an account be given of them. In idle words one sinneth in five ways:

1. The tongue is sometimes full, [Fol. 17. a.] and goes like the clapper of a mill.

The after-tellers are often held fools and liars.

2. Idle tales and fair sayings.

3. Jests and jokes full of filth and of lies,

stinking and foul words.

4. Mocking and scorn of good men.

Thou art as a manslaughter, if thou causest any one to do wrong, by thy tongue.

Of the sin of boasting.

He that boasteth is God's thief.

For a little wind he loseth heaven.

The world itself holdeth him to be a fool.

In this bough are five leaves :

1. Past—boasting of past deeds, prowess, &c.

2. Present—boasting of present riches, nobleness, or prowess.

These boasters are like the cuckoo.

3. Overweening—boasting of what one will do.

4. Blaming what is right in others.

5. Affected humility. Many folk say that they are wicked and sinful,

[Fol. 17. b.]

so that one may hold them in esteem.

They make themselves devils, so that they may be accounted angels.

Others seek spokesmen to praise and extol their virtues.

Of flattery.

OF BLONDINGE.

Flatterers are the devil's nurses, who give suck to his children and sing them to sleep. They smear the way of hell with honey.

There are five boughs of this sin
1. Praising hastily what is well said or done.

2. Exaggeration of trifles,

where there is more of lies than truth.

3. Assumption of goods and graces. The folk who assume so much and so deceive many are called charmers.

4. Singing placebo to every word or deed, be it good or bad; or echoing all that is said by others, be it good or bad.

5. Defending, excusing, and hiding faults of others. Those guilty of this sin are called "tails."

Flatterers and mis-sayers are like Nykers or Mermaids, who sing sailors to sleep, and then swallow them.

They are like the adder Serayn, [Fol. 18. a.]

that runneth swifter than a horse, or the beast Hyane, who ungraves dead men's bodies and eats them.

They are like the farrowed sow, who bites men in white; or like the beetles that love dung. There are five boughs of evil speaking :

1. Finding of lies in order to blame others.
2. Telling and

¹ leazinges ?

increasing the report of another's wrong-doing.

3. Turning good into evil.

4. Speaking evil of others, for when one speaketh good of another, some one will find something amiss.

They are like the scorpion, fair as to its head, but whose tail is poisonous.

5. False and untrue grudging of others' deeds.

þet kucad þet he yherþ of oþren / he hit telþ uorþ / and hit moreþ of his oþen. þe þridde is huarne he kueneþ / and deþ to nahte / alle þe guodes þet þe man deþ / and hise deþ hyea[1]de to ane kucade. þes eth þane man al yhol. þe oþre ne eteþ hine naht al / ac byt / and nimþ a stech. and þis is þet nerþe lyeaf of þise boze / þet is propreliche yelepud todraþyng. LEAZYNGES.

Lying makes a man false.

Leazinge ualseþ þane man / also me ualseþ þe kinges sel / oþer þe popes bulle. and þeruore þet me makeþ ualse monaye and berþ ualse lettres : ha ssel by demd ase ualsere / ate daye of dome. þe lyeþere is amang þe men : ase þe ualse peny amang þe guode. ase þet chef : amang þe corn. þe lyeþere is ylich þe dyeule. þet is his uader. ase god zayþ ine his spelle. Alsuo deþ þe lyeþere. hueruore he is ase þe gamelos þet leueþ by þe eyr and naht ne heþ ine his roppes bote wynd. and heþ ech manere colour / þet ne heþ non his oþen.

The liar is among men as chaff among corn.

The liar is like the devil.

The liar, like the devil, changeth in many ways the folk to beguile.

He is like the chameleon, that liveth by air, who with all sorts of colours has none of his own.

1. Lies helping.
2. Lies pleasing,
3. Lies hurtful.

1. The first sin does harm to the man who is guilty
of it.

2. The second sin is seen in flatterers
and scorners who lie to please folk.

3. The third sin is deadly, whether it be in thought or deed.

Perjury is worse

3. Light swear-

5. Foolish swearing, as in sudden pain,

in rash promises,

in bold assertions without being certain of the truth, in promising what one cannot fulfil; and swearing by the sun, moon, one's head, &c.

[Fol. 19. a.]

This is worshipping the creature instead of the Creator.

6. Swearing by God and his saints.

Those guilty of this sin are worse than the Jews who crucified Christ.

It is a wonder how Christendom beareth them.

¹ It may be read þo

1. They rebel against the advice of friends.

2. They are rebellious against Christ.

3. They are rebels against the behests of our Lord.

They excuse themselves whenever corrected.

When God chasteneth and beateth them, they speak evil against Him.

our bliss is turned into weeping, and our carols into sorrow.” Such are the songs of hell.

[¹ MS. boto]

To live is but to die. When we begin to live, we begin to die.

We say we have sixty years, but death has and will never yield them.

Yet eft ine oþre manere / ich þe teche þise clergie.

Death is a separation of the soul and body.

Caton the Wise tells us to separate the ghost from the body; often so did the old philosophers, who had no grace nor belief of Christ.

Holy men have escaped two deaths.

[Note wel þri dyaþes.]

There is a death to sin and a death to the world.

The third death is the separation of the soul from the body.

A little wall separates them from Paradise. Their thoughts are in heaven, and they hate this life and desire death.

[Huet is dyaþ.]

Death to good men is end of all evils and commencement of every blessing.

The wise of this world are fools and blind,

for they call death life, and death they call the end.

Their penance is grisly and hard.

All that martyrs ever suffered or women with child, is only a bath of cold water in comparison with the furnace wherein they burn.

Venial sins are little sins that we do oft.

The fire of purgatory is dreaded by those who keep holy their souls and bodies.

[Fol. 22. a.]

None may live without sin, for good men sin seven times a day, but by shrift, tears, and prayers they amend their lives, and are not lost at the day of doom.

Holy dread of God is the beginning of good life.

We must learn not only to eschew evil, but learn to do good.

Divide thy soul from thy body by thought.

God gives us timely goods to comfort us.

Riches are not the true happiness. For were it so, Christ would then be a fool, that chose poverty and shame, and forsook bliss, honour, and riches.

God would be untrue and unkind,

the saints and wise clerks were all fools,

and God would be a liar.

The gifts of fortune are the devil's snare whereby he beguileth souls.

The true goods make him good that hath them.

They are grace, virtue, and charity.

The soul is dead without the grace of God.

She is called virtue, for she honours the soul with good works. She is called charity, for she joineh the soul to God.

The old philosophers set the greatest good in lust of flesh,

or in riches, or in honest life.
But St Paul says that dame Charity, the queen of virtues, is the greatest good.

When all other goods fail this faileth not.

Of three manners
of good.

There are three
sorts of goods.
1. Honourable.
2. Pleasant.
3. Profitable.
Of the goods of
the world.
None desire them unless they be either honourable,
pleasant, or profitable.
The proud seeketh the first, the covetous the third, and the justful the second.
Virtue combines
the honourable,
the pleasant, and
the profitable.

Of virtue.

Virtue is honourable:
Six things are desired because

Beauty appeals to the eye.

Had we the eye of the lynx, we should see each fair body as a sack full of dung.

Beauty soon fails and withers.

He is a fool that rejoiceth on account of his fairness.

Beauty of the soul never fades, for it is like to God and the angels.

It giveth grace to the soul.

The fairest thing under God is the soul that hath perfectly its right shape.

Virtue makes a man more a lord than is the king by his reign.

It causes him to enjoy all things.

He is emperor of himself, i. e., of his body and his heart.

His heart is always in peace, and his body is governed by the will of God.

[Fol. 25. b.]

He gives thanks to God for all his gifts.

There are many kings and emperors that have castles and cities who have not this lordship.

True nobility cometh of the gentle heart.

The gentle heart loves God and hates sin.

No one holdeth right nobility from the body ; for we are all children of one mother, i. e., of earth and mud. Our right father is King of heaven, and He sent His son Jesus Christ to bring us the true pattern, whereby we are formed to His image and fairness.

The holy man in this world endeavours
to know and love God.

The more the heart is clean, the more openly he seeth the face of Jesus.

In paradise we shall see God openly as He is. We here see Him as in a glass dimly.

True nobility begins in grace and is completed in bliss.

This nobility the Holy Ghost
worketh in the heart.

He raiseth men up to God.

Joy of heart is the true bliss, which comes of love to God.

With the oil of bliss (or the oil of cream) all true Christians are besmeared.

The ointment is the bliss and love of God.

The Christian life is the good life, for he is not alive who each day liveth in cares, anxieties, and sorrows.

1. Good mould.
2. Nourishing moisture.
3. Reasonable heat.

Without these things the boughs of virtue will not bear fruit.

As God set in Paradise the tree of life amidst other good trees, so God hath set the tree of life amidst the tree of virtues, that is, Jesus Christ.

This tree causes others to flourish.

The tree is to be praised for its root, its wood, the flower, the smell, the leaves, the fruit, and its fair seed.

The root of the tree is the love of God, which redeemed his wicked thralls by the blood of his good Son.

Of this root speaks the Prophet, when he says, “A rod shall go out of the root of Jesse,” &c.

The wood is the flesh of Christ.
The pith was His holy soul.

The rind was His fair conversation.
The sap was His tears, sweat, water
and blood.

The leaves were His holy words,
the flowers His holy thoughts,
the fruit his twelve apostles.

The boughs, in one sense, are all the elect.

In another sense
they are His virtues and examples,
which he showed to His private friends,

[Fol. 29. a.]

when on the mount He opened His mouth and said :— “ Blessed be the poor of spirit,
for the kingdom of heaven is theirs,” &c., &c., &c.

These are the seven boughs of the tree of life.

In these seven words are included all highness, all perfection of grace and virtue of true blissfulness.

These are the seven rules of holy life.

In these seven words are set all the sum of the new law, the law of love and sweetness.

It is called new because it never shall become old.

In the old law we find threatening, strife, and cursing; in the new law, promises, peace, and blessings.

These seven things make a man blessed in this life, and more blessed in the other.

God watereth the tree of virtue from the well of His grace.

This well is divided into seven streams, which are the seven gifts of the Holy Ghost. Behold the great courtesy of God in sending His Son !

He saw our weakness, and inability to forsake sin and
to come to grace.

[Fol. 29. b.]

Therefore He promised us His gifts, if we would but ask for them.

Christ is our pleader, and makes intercession for us.

[1 MS. os.]

He gave us the Pater Noster,
wherein are seven petitions,
for the seven gifts
of the Holy Ghost.

We shall now
first speak of these seven petitions, afterwards of the seven virtues that are against the seven deadly sins.
The seven petitions are as seven maidens who are ever lading water
to water the seven trees that bear the fruit of life everlasting.

The mere letter of the prayer is the rind.

This prayer is short in words and long in wit, easy to repeat, but hard to understand.

God willed it to be short, that none should be wearied in learning it.

God does not care for smooth and rhymed words.

Prayer does not consist of fair words, but of petitions and deep sighings of the heart.

Here begins the Pater Noster.

“Our Father that art in heaven.” Behold how our good spokesman, Jesus Christ, teacheth us to plead, wisely, subtly, and briefly!

The sweet name of Father giveth us hope to receive all our petitions.

uader. yefþ ous hope to onderuonge alle oure byddynges. þis zuete word / vader / þet al þe remenont makeþ zuete / þe sseaweþ þet þou sselst yleue. and þe somoneþ to þan þet þou sselst do. and þise tuo þinges soueþ man : huanne he yleþ wel / and a-riht. an he deþ efterward / þet he ssel. Huanne þou him clepest uader / þou beknaust þet he is lhord of house. þet is of heuene / and of erþe. and heaued / and ginnynge / and welle / huerof alle ssepþes / and alle guod comeþ. and þus þe beknaust his mihte. Efterward / zeþþe þet he ys uader / he is diztere / and gouernour / and porueyour / to his mayné. an naneliche of his children / þet is of man / þet him-zelf heþ y-mad and yssape / to his anliknesse. and þus þou beknaust his wysdom. Alast þanne þet he is uader be kende / and be rihte / he loueþ þet he heþ ymad / ase zayþ þe boc of wysdome. and is zuete and milde. and zuo loueþ / and draþþ uorþ his children. and ham deþ hare prou. and betere þanne hi come deuisi. and he his hyat / and his chasteþ huanne hi misdoþ uor hare prou ase guod uader / and bleþeliche he his onderua[n]gþ / huanne hi comeþ to hym.

When thou callest God the Father, thou acknowledgest that He is Lord of the house,

And since He is Father, He is also the provider for and governor of His children, i. e. of man, and loves those whom he hath made.

He rewards them well, and chasteneth them when they misdo.

The word Father not only reminds thee of God's might, wisdom, and goodness, but of thy nobleness, fairness, and riches. Greater nobility could none have than be son to so great an emperor, that is, God.

Let the word Father remind thee of thy duty as a good son towards a good father.

See that thou hate sin as God does, and so act as a good son and true, ever thinking whose son thou art. Now thou seest how sweet is this first word, and how it admonishes thee to be bold and of a good will.

[Fol. 30. b.]

Nou ich þe aexy hueruore þou zayst 'uader oure.' and naȝt 'uader myn'? and þet þou him uelazest mid þe / huanne þou zayst: 'yef ous' / and ne zayst naȝt 'yef me.'

Adopcion zuo is a word of laȝe. uor by þe laȝes of þe emperurs / huanne an heȝ man ne heȝ no child: ha may chiese þet child of a guod man yef he wyle. and maki him his zone be adopcion. þet is be auoerie. zuo þet he ssel bi yhealde uor his zone auond / and ssel bere his eritage. þise grace god ous made þe uader wyþoute oure ofseruinge. ase zayþ saynt pael. Huanne he ous dede come to þe cristenedome we were poure and naked / and child¹ of yre / and of helle. þanne huanne we ziggeþ 'vader oure.' and we ziggeþ / 'yef ous.' we gadereþ alle oure broþren mid ous of adop-cion / þet byep children of holy cherehe. be þe byleauē þet hi onderuinge ine cristnyng.

We are not God's sons by nature, but by adoption.

Adoption is a term of law.

God adopted us without any deserving on our part. Before we were baptized we were poor, naked, and children of hell. [1 MS. child]

God giveth not only to one, but to many.

The candle that is set in the hall full of people, is better than one set apart for the use of one man only.

This word Father teaches us that this adoption is a pledge that we shall be sure of our heritage.

It teacheth also that we are all brethren, great and small, rich and poor, high and low,

and that we should help and pray for one another, as do the limbs of the same body.

It teaches us to hate three things: pride, wrath, and avarice, which bring men out of fellowship.

The word "our" shows that God is ours,

Nou ous sseweþ / huer-of þis word / oure. þe largesse / and þe cortaysye / [of] god oure uader. þet ous yefþ more bleþeliche / ynoꝝ / þanne lyte and to uelen : þanne to onen allone. When God appeared to Moses
He made known
to him his name, “I AM.”

This is the first and the most proper name of our Lord.

Other names speak of His goodness,
wisdom, &c.,

but these terms
do not assert the existence of God.

We speak of God
after the manner
of men,

but there is no word so proper
as these words, “þet art.”

God alone is, for
He is everlasting,
without beginning and without end.

He is true and truth above all things.

[Pol. 31. b.]

He alone is firm,
and fast, and unchanging,

without end,
without beginning, "without was, without shall be."

There is nothing that one may better believe than that God is.
Nota þis wel.
We cannot know
what God is,

and it is enough
for us to say,
"Dear Father,
that art in heaven."

He is the oldest,
the most known,
the most beloved,
and the most honoured.

The word

The 1st petition of the Holy Pater Noster.

The preface of the Lord's Prayer is as the beginning of the fiddle.

In this song are seven notes, that are the seven petitions that buy the seven gifts of the Holy Ghost.

The three first make man holy, the other four make him steadfastly righteous.

[Fol. 32. a.]

The three things that are in the soul are thought, understanding, and will,

and the more the soul receiveth plentifully these three gifts,

the more is man
in the likeness of the Trinity.

 fastened in God,

so that nothing
 may separate us
 from God,

and nothing comfort us but the grace of God.

 Here we pray for

God's reign to come within us, which is brought about by the spirit of understanding, that enlighteneth the heart, and showeth man his many faults.

He seeth that he is not clean nor worthy of seeing God, so he begins to cast out the inward filth which deprives him of the sight of God.

The 5th petition of the Pater Noster. “Forgive us our trespasses,” &c. Here we say, Forgive us our debts,

[Fol. 34. b.]

as we forgive our debtors. Our debts are our sins,

the interest of which is hell pain.

No man could make sufficient amends for one deadly sin,

therefore it becometh him to run to the court of mercy,

for by the court

of justice we should be doomed to death everlasting.

In this petition
we ask God for the gift of knowledge,

whereby man
sees what he is,
and in what peril
he is,

and seeing his own imperfec-tions, he asks
mercy of God,

and forgiveness
for his great sins

When he knows
his faults,

he casts out ill-
will from his heart,

and then is he able to say, “Father, forgive us our misdeeds as we do to them that have wronged us.”

The 6th petition of the Pater Noster.

“And lead us not into temptation.”
The burnt one
dreads the fire,

so the sinner who is forgiven is afraid of falling into sin.

The devil is the tempter,

but when he beat-
eth our backs,
he is making our crowns of bliss,
as when one dubs
a knight, by smiting and beating upon the back.
The devil tries to draw man from God.

[Fol. 35. b.]
In this petition
we ask help of God in our battle,
as well as the gift
of pity.

We say, “Sweet Father, make our hearts fast, so that no temptation may shake them.”
We do not pray
not to be tempted,

All other gifts are changing and going. These graces are given to us by God Himself.

2. Other graces are lent us to use in this life, but these shall ever remain with us.

3. They are given by love.

A gift becomes chaffer when the giver has an eye to his own profit.

A gift comes from the well of love, without reward, fear, or debt.

God gives us His gifts for the love He hath to us. :

Why they are called gifts of the Holy Ghost.

1. Works of might belong to the Father; works of wisdom to the Son; works of goodness to the Holy Ghost.

These gifts spread in our hearts as
by seven streams.

The Holy Ghost is the well, the gifts
are the streams.
2. The Holy Ghost
is the love between the Father
and Son.
Love is the highest of all gifts.

The Holy Ghost
is gift and giver,
for he giveth and
is given.

to those who are in grace. There are three stages of folk in heaven.
1. The nearest to God see and hear Him.

2. The middle ones are like barons and bailiffs.

3. The lowest are as serjeants (servants).

So are there three states of God's sons on earth.

1. Those who live by God's behests.

2. Those who have their hearts in heaven and their bodies on earth.

3. The third govern themselves and others by God's behests.

The two first of these six gifts (knowledge and pity) belong to those of the first state. The two middle ones (counsel and strength) belong to those of the second stage. The two last (understanding and wisdom) belong to those of the highest state.

I will now speak of seven other virtues, whereof three are godly and four cardinal.

OF ÞE ÞRI UERSTE UIRTUES.

Of the three first virtues.

Hope. cuerlyche heznesse. and ouerliche magesté. Charité. ouerliche guodnesse. Þise þri uirtues byeþ to-deld be þri degres of loue. Vor þri þinges me louep ane man. Oþer uor þet me heþ y-herd grat guod of him. Oþer uor þet me onderstant grat guod of him. Oþer uor þet me heþ onderuonge grat guod of him. Þise þri maneres of loue : byeþ ine þise þri uirtues. Loue of beleaue : hyerþ ine dede. Loue of hope : uelþ þane smel / and zekþ. Loue of charité : nimþ. and zikþ. and zuelþ / and halt.

Belief, hope, and charity, are called godly, they direct the heart to God. By belief we acknowledge God.

Hope raises us to God.

Charity joineth us to God.

For three things one loveth a man.
1. Having heard some great good of him.
2. Having learnt great good of him.
3. Having received great good of him.

These three kinds of love are in these three virtues.

Of the four cardinal virtues.

God giveth and teacheth us them a hundred times better than the old philosophers.

1. Sleight (Prudence). 2. Temperance. 3. Strength. 4. Doom (Justice), are the four cardinal virtues.

1. Prudence keeps man from being beguiled.
2. Temperance preserves man from being marred by wicked love.
3. Strength bears him up against sorrow.

These are the four towers that make the house of the good man sure and strong.

Of the office of the four virtues.

[Fol. 38. a.]
These four virtues have diverse offices.

Prudence hath three offices to direct man aright as to thought, word, and deed.

The virtue of temperance hath three offices.

It keeps man from being marred by the sin of the flesh, pride of heart, and the covetousness of the world.

Strength enables him to endure all things.

Justice is the love whereby he serves God and putteth all other things under foot.

Without these four virtues none may climb unto the Hill of Perfection.

Whoso had these virtues should be blessed and perfected in this world, and more in the other.

that masters the sickness and giveth man such a bitter medicine that it healeth and giveth him life. Our Lord troubles the heart that he will heal.

Three questions asked the angel of Hagar, when she fled from her mistress.

1. Whence comest thou? 2. Whither goest thou? 3. What dost thou?

[Fol. 39. b.] These three questions the Holy Ghost puts to the sinner when he awaketh him and openeth his eyes. “Look,” he says, “in what peril thou art.” Look and see how thou comest from the devil’s tavern.

See how brittle and feeble thou art, and how thy foul humours lead thee to death.

Look and understand that thou goest to death, and shalt fall into the hand of the devil.

[Loke wel hyer.] Man thinks his life will be long, but often is he deceived.

Afterwards when he thinketh where he is, that this world is but a desert full of lions and a forest full of thieves, then he experiences his own weakness and inability.

And, lastly, the thought of his sins and defaults shows him his utter poverty. Thus then is the sinner led to be "poor of spirit."

The tree of meekness is set beside the well of God's fear. The seven virtues are seven steps by which one climbeth to good virtues and good deeds. Virtue groweth as high as a palm, a cypress, or a cedar, and spreadeth its boughs right and left.

¹ uȝȝe ?

Of the steps of meekness.

OF ÞE STAPES OF MIL[D]HEDE.

This virtue, hath seven steps.

The first step is to know one's poverty and defects, and to feel one's own unworthiness and vileness.

Some know their faults but do not feel them.

The second step is to feel and bewail one's sins, and to endeavour to get rid of the sorrow and sickness.

The third step of meekness is to confess and shrive and cleanse our hearts of sin.

The fourth step is to desire to make known one's unworthiness.

The fifth step is to hear willingly, gladly of our own failings and imperfections.

The sixth step is a willingness to endure reproach,

Of þe uirtue of mildenesse speçþ saynt ansalm. and zayþ þet hi heþ zeue stapes huerby hy cliþþ an hez / alhuet þet hi come / to perfeccion. Nou onderstand wel hou. Þe uerste stape of mildenesse / is to knawe his pourehede. and his defaute. Vor ase zayþ saynt bernard. Mildenesse is þe uirtue þet makeþ þane man him-zelue to onworþi / and healde uor vil. as did David when Shimei threw stones at him, and spoke evil of him.

The seventh step is a willingness to be esteemed vile,
 and to be vilely
 persecuted.

This is true poverty of spirit and meekness of heart.

Much did Christ
 love meekness
 when he came amongst thieves,
 that is, amongst the sons of Adam.

Christ teacheth us
 to be meek, and to learn of Him,

so that we may find rest for our souls.

[Fol. 41. a.]

When thou hast climbed to the seventh step of mildness, then thou mightest gather fruit and eat
 of the tree of life.

OF ÞE ZEUE BOGES OF MI[L]DENESSE.

Of the seven boughs of meek-
ness.

1. To honour God,
2. to praise others,
3. to despise one's self, 4. to love poverty, 5. to minister joyfully, 6. to believe praise, 7. to be in good belief.

The man truly meek honours God
as a child doth its master.

He believes His simple word, and that is the beginning of 'well-doing.'

The hereties will not believe God
without good pledge and strong evidence.

Of this disbelief
comes all manner of heresies.

True believers have a hundred times more faith
in God's word than in any miracle,
they may see.

The truly mild thanketh God for all His gifts that he hath received of Him, for all that he receiveth comes of pure grace and of gift.

He prays to God meekly, with true tears and simplicity of heart,

[Fol. 41. b.]

for it seems to him that he is as the child, that is each day before his master and knoweth not his lessons, or like a thief guilty of more than a hundred misdeeds; that he hath the rope very near his neck. He is like the maimed at the church-porch, who hath no shame to show all his maims to excite the pity and alms of those who enter.

ÞE OþER BOȝ OF MILDENESSE.

Wone is of þe zoþe milde oþren to herie / and praysy. and poty him norþ / an worþssipij. Praysy ine herte / herie ine mouþe. and be dede: worþssipe / bere.

The second bough of meekness.

The meek in heart ever desires to hear others praised and honoured.

He is like the bee
that seeketh the flowery fields and beflees stench.

He taketh no heed
of other men's faults.

He praiseth others
for three reasons.

1. He believeth
other men's wit
more than his own.
2. He desires the will of others to be followed more than his.
3. He trusteth more in others'
virtues than in his own.

The meek excuseth and palliates the faults of others.

The proud man,
on the contrary,
delights to hear of other men's defects.

Of meek heart.
The meek heart
keeps all his virtues behind his back, and his defects before his eyes.

[Fol. 12. a.]

He is like the covetous man, he

He is ase þe smale uleze þet makeþ þet hony. and beulyþ stench. and zekþ þe neldes yfloured. and of þe floures zoueþ þane deau huerof hi makeþ þet hony uor

 Vor he mot yelde : oþer hongy. A. alas huet ssel þe hath an eye to the goods of others.

 (for there is a holy covetousness
 and a holy envy).

He, like the simple sheep in whom all is good and profitable, wool, skin,
 flesh, milk, fruit,
 and dung, and yet
 weeneth nothing
 thereof.

In this manner
 Saint Job speaks of himself as but ash, spauks, filth, stench, vermin, wind, shadow, and smoke.

As the true meek,
 one praises others
 in a threefold
 manner,
 so in three ways
 he blames himself

and condemns his deeds, words, an I thoughts.

He sees more chaff than corn in his life,

and he examines himself in the Court of holy Shrift,

so that he may not be damned in the Court of Right at Doomsday.

Woe to the man whose neck shall then be loaded
with deadly sin.

The sinner must shrive him gladly and oft.

He must doom himself as a thief
to the gibbet of penance.

The fourth bough
of meekness.
[Fol. 42. b.]

The true meek one
loveth poverty,

for three reasons :
1. For the perils of riches,
2. for the virtues
in poverty,
3. for God loved poverty.

God hears the prayers and desires of the poor,
and is their refuge
and safety.
God is Father to
the poor.

Christ blessed the poor,
and cursed the rich.

The world does not believe that poverty is blessed.

The meek man loves poverty a hundred times more than the niggard his wealth. This he shows in three ways.

1. He loves and holds communion with the poor, as Christ once did, and avoids the society of the great and rich.

[¹ he ?]

Glad is he if he have his sustenance.

2. He suffers and endures all things meekly for God.

3. He has no shame to ask for what he wants, and begs each day in his prayers to God.

The fifth bough of meekness.

Meekness loves low places.

It is the diamond that needs not to be set in gold. The corn is ever below the chaff. Christ shall ‘fan’ His corn at Doomsday.

[Fol. 43. a.]

² So in MS.

The chaff shall go into the fire.

The meek man prefers low places, and follows the example of Christ and His sweet mother.

Meekness is the mother of obedience,

and bedecketh her with all her ornaments.

Of obedience.

There are seven ornaments of obedience.

That is, that one obey, 1. readily, 2. gladly, 3. simply, 4. cleanly, 5. generally, 6. swiftly, 7. willingly. The meek obedient one is like a sailor ever ready to obey the captain.

He is as obedient as the ass is to its master.

David preferred God's behests to gold or precious stones. He obeys simply, as doth the horse or the sheep.

Holy simplicity is the character of meekness.

The meek man is true to God.

He seeks not to please the world. He is swift to obey God, and slow to obey his own will.

He is like the Star Saturn.

He is like the mill-ass that will as lief carry barley as corn.

[Fol. 43. b.]

He is strong, for he changes his strength for God's strength.

He is like the sun that is never weary.

The sixth bough of meekness.

Christ was the great master of meekness.

He taught us to avoid praise and flattery,

wherefore the mild heart strives to besty all vainglory.

His trust is in a rock.

This rock is Christ.

Our Lord is a dove-cot, wherein resteth
the meek heart.

In recording the life of Christ, the mild heart forgets
all his sorrows.

He desires to be lost to, and forgotten by the world.

When alone he is with his two best friends, with God and himself.

He takes delight
only in what is pleasing to God.

Thus the soul
loves solitude and quietness.

The seventh bough of meekness.
The holy soul
is proud of her acquaintance with God.

She looks upon the earth from afar, and sees its littleness.

The world's riches
and honour appear to her
utterly worthless,

and as wind,
dream, and lies.
Then she begins
to die to the world and she becomes poor
of spirit.

She cares not a nut for the world,

and prefers
death to life.

She is ready to undertake everything for the love of God,
so great is her belief in Him.
This belief is as the grain of mustard-seed,
spoken of in the gospel.

The first kind of love is to love only oneself.
 The 2nd is to begin to love God.
 The 3rd is to know God better and to love Him for his goodness.
 The 4th is to be so possessed with love as to love God only.
 This last love hath the true meek one.
 The poor of spirit are blessed in this world.

Hope makes the meek men to be kings of heaven.

[Fol. 44. b.]

The kingdom of heaven is theirs by behest and heritage.

The full possession shall take place in the next world.

Of the virtue of love.

Dread makes the heart mild (meek).

Pity maketh it sweet and merciful.
 It is an antidote to envy.

It bestrieps the root of envy from the heart.

It produces the root of good love.

from whence comes a fair tree.

which is called “Sweetness of heart.”

This tree hath five steps by which we climb
 on high.

We should try to be all one in heart
 and spirit.

Because, 1st, we have one Father,
 that is, God,
 who made us all
 in his own likeness.

Secondly, we are all Christians in one Christendom

and are all washed with the blood of Christ.

[1 MS. he3]

Thirdly, we all have one belief,
 and are bound by one law.

[Fol. 45. a.]

Fourthly, we have one Lord of whom we all hold both body and soul,

and by whom we all shall be punished or rewarded.

Fifthly, we are all fellow-soldiers in the host of our Lord,
and all look for one reward.

Sixthly, we all live by one spirit,

and are all God's children by adoption.

Seventhly, we are all limbs of one body, whereof Christ is the head.
We all live on the same meat, that is, the flesh and blood of Jesus Christ.

Seven steps of love spring out of pity.

The boughs of love.

Of this stock come seven boughs,
for this virtue is seen in seven
ways.

1. One limb for-bears and bears
the defects of another.

We should do to others as we would be done by.

2. One limb does not wreak its spite on another.

3. The limbs
obey their head
(i. e., the heart and the eye).

By this we understand the virtue
of obedience.

[Fol. 45. b.]

4. One limb helps and serves another willingly
and gladly.
In this we see the virtue of charity,

whereby one man
helps his fellow Christians by his advice,
his riches, or his authority.

The philosopher Tully saith we should all seek the "common profit,"

as Nature teacheth us.

5. All the limbs feel what is done
to one of them, be it good or bad.

By this we understand the virtue

of pity, that hath two offices,

the one to be glad of others' prosperity, and to be sorrowful for others' woe.

6. If one limb is sick the others heal it.

In this we understand the virtue of doom and amendment, and we learn how to reprove, correct, and punish the faults of one another.

Faults should be corrected by love and compassion.

First, we should apply the plasters of sweet admonitions, afterwards the powders of sharp rebuke.

Next, the deeds of teaching.

Then, if these fail, must come the sword of excommunication.

The first step of Righteousness. The 1st gift of the Holy Ghost maketh man meek, the 2nd piteous, and the 3rd full of wit.

This last gift casteth out the root of ire, that driveth a man out of his wits.

This gift enlightens the heart, so that it is not beguiled.

The good men have "seven sights."

For they see into their hearts and all about them.

This gift is the prior in the cloister of the soul.

The heart hath two sides :

1. The understanding and will.
 2. The reason and the affection.
 When these accord then is there sweet melody.

In each side are four locks.
 Reason hath four offices :

1. To question,
 2. to deem,
 3. to bethink,
 4. to express
 thought by words.
 This gift (doom)
 teacheth reason
 what to learn and
 to ask,

and what is needful, profitable, and honest.

[Fol. 47. a.]

By this gift the Holy Ghost teacheth man what is most needful for
 the soul to learn,

for the honour of God and its own profit.

He teaches the soul right belief,
 that is, to believe

without doubt whatever God has made, said, or commanded.

True belief is not hasty or slow.
It examines and desires right judgment.

It does not meddle with matters that do not belong to it.

This gift enables reason to distinguish between good and evil,

between little goods and the greater.

It causes man to remember all needful things
past.
To understand things present, to see the things
to come.

It makes man to speak or to be silent in season;

so that each word
is of its right weight, neither too much nor too little.

Throw not pearls
before swine.

This gift governs the will.

The will hath four faculties, love, dread, bliss, and sorrow.

When these four are held in subjection, then they are "tempered."

[Fol. 47. b.]

As all bodily evils arise from the "distemping" of the four humours, so all vices spring from the "distemperance" of these four virtues.

The roots of the tree of "rightfulness" are a well-ordered reason and a subdued will.

Rightfulness is true and uniform conduct.

It is nothing else than union and truth.

He who hath this virtue is a good and wise judge.

The first step of this virtue is that a man be a good judge of his own heart.

Virtue, saith St Bernard, is the union of reason and of will,

that is, when the will obeys reason.

The second step of rightfulness. The second step is to hold the body in proper subjection.

ÞE OÞER STAPE OF RIȝ[T]UOLNESSE.

Reason should be the arbitress between the spirit and the flesh.

So that the spirit be lord of the body.

For there is great need that moderation should be observed in meat, drink, and clothing.

[1 þe ?]

The five wits of the body should be under the authority of reason.

When these five wits are well guarded, then is the castle secure, for they are the gates and windows of the soul.

The third step of rightfulness.

[Fol. 48. a.]

The third step of this virtue is that man judges between himself and the things before him, that is, between himself and temporal possessions. The covetous are ensnared in the devil's nets.

ÞE ÞRIDDE STAPE OF RIȝ[T]UOLNESSE.

þe þridde stape of þise uirtue is. þet þe man by guod demere. and hycal[1]de riȝtnesse be-tuene him : and þan þet is beuore him. þet byeþ þe þinges of time / þet destrueþ ofte and bodi and zaule / huanne me deþ þerto to moche / ase doþ þe niþinges and þe couaytous. and alle þo þet þe wordle louieþ to moche. þet habbeþ zuo þe herten engrined ine þe dyeules nette / ase zayþ Iob. þet to timliche [eyse]¹ / and to nyedes wyþ-oute / þet to hare

All sin who take more care for the things of life than for the life itself.

Set not the heart too much on outward things, lest it fall into worldly covetousness, that is the root of all vices.

ÞE UERÞE STAPE OF RIȜTUOLNESSE.

Þe uerþe stape of þise uirtue is. þet man chierliche yzi ane his riȜthalf. þet is þet he nime hede to ham þet byeþ guode / þet byeþ ase ane his riȜt zyde. and þet of þe guode / and of þe wyse / he nime wyt / and uorbysne. The fourth step of rightfulness.

The fourth step of doom is to take heed to those who are good, and follow their example.

Discretion is here very needful. All folk have not the same virtues, nor have the limbs of the body all one office.

Some novices endeavour to follow the special virtues of too many men, and so attain to none. They are like the young greyhound that runs after every beast that it sees.

[exemplum.]

The fable of the Little Hound and of the Ass. The hound welcomes his master's home-coming by fawning and rub-

'maker in MS.

bing and fair
cheer.

The ass attempts to follow the dog's example,
and throws his feet about his master's neck,
and is well beaten
for his pains.

By such fables

the wise man taught his household,
not to desire virtues that were beyond their powers.
Wherefore take heed of whom thou takest pattern.

The fifth step of rightfulness.

It is necessary
that a man should see clearly right
and left of him.
On the one side he sees fools of whom he should have pity,

and should avoid their follies.
Solomon took note of the slug-gard and his doings.

Discretion is here
necessary.

We must pity and not deride fools
and sinners.

The spirits of men and angels are a spiritual mirror.

The soul receives imprints of objects be it sleeping or waking.

One mirror will reflect the forms seen on another.

Divers forms are reflected from the devil upon the soul of man, just as one receives impressions of objects in the pearl of the eye.

It is a difficult thing to distinguish between the thoughts of the heart, and those set there by the devil.

They may easily recognize some of the devil's thoughts, but others are more subtle and dangerous.

One must try the "ghosts" ere one receive them.

These seven virtues leadeth aright the ghost of wisdom.

Discretion is the carter of virtues, and the rudder of the ship, that is, the soul.

Without discretion virtue becomes vice.

These seven virtues before mentioned are the boughs of equity, and they produce the fruit of good works.

"Blessed be those," said Christ, "who in all things hold to discretion."

He does not say blessed be they who sin not,

but "blessed be they who weep,"

that is, who see and know their faults,

and are sorrowful because of their sins.

The world is called the vale of tears,

because none may live without tears, that hath the gift of wit.

Man is a debtor
to God.

Blessed are those that hunger and thirst after righteousness,

This rightfulness
may not be fully obtained in this world.

It is desired here
and got in the other world.

Christ does not say they are blessed who have this righteousness,

but those are blessed who desire
it in their hearts.

This desire exhibits itself in virtue and in prowess.

The good knight
proveth himself
such by his deeds
of arms.

Prowess strips man of sloth and idleness.

God bestows it on his servants,
as he did at Pentecost to His apostles,

who nevertheles
were timid and cautious.

[Fol. 51. a.]

The division of virtue (prowess).

The old philosophers divided this virtue into six parts.

Our Lord added
 a seventh point.

1. Magnanimity.
2. Affiance.
3. Security.
4. Patience.
5. Stedfastness.
6. Magnificence.
7. Hunger and thirst of righteousness.

Magnanimity is highness, greatness, nobleness of will, and of great aspirations.

[1 deles 2]

The first division
 of it is prowess—
 a noble contempt
 of difficulties.

The second is rationalenterprise
 of difficult things.

He who has this virtue thinks but little of the cares
 of the world,

counting them
 no more than a spider's web.

Solomon truly said, "All is vanity."

The world is vanity, and full of vanity.

This life flies as a shadow.
Its cares are as dreams.

The first step then of this virtue is to despise the world.

The second is to undertake the way of perfection, that leadeth to the hill of God.

This way choose those who not only keep God's behests,

but forsake all they have for His sake,

[Fol. 51. b.]

both goods and friends and themselves.

They become the slaves of others, and endure poverty.

They put themselves to great hardships,

as many do who have entered a religious order.

Arms do not make the knight, but the good heart and the deeds of prowess.

The second step is to believe. Belief enables man to pursue the good path,

and to withstand the assailings of
the devil, world,
and the flesh.

The flesh says,

my old habits.
The world pursues him like an assaults.

take great things.

The Holy Ghost makes his knight strong and patient,

so that he may overcome all his enemies.

[Fol. 52. a.]

Patience must be acquired by trial, for the firehardens the tile,

and gold is purified by it.

Patience is necessary to perfection.

The cup of gold bears strokes of iron ere it is set on the king's board.

The scarlet robe is oft defiled by the feet of the fullers ere the queen puts it on.

By this virtue is man strengthened,

as the salamander in the fire, or the fish in the water.

old philosophers was to overcome vice, but the prowess of the saints enabled them to hold righteousness and truth.

We owe our lives to Christ who died for us,

and his life was more precious than ours.

We may desire to pay our debts, but are unable to do so.

Blessed are they who hunger and thirst after righteousness, and who have climbed the six steps of prowess.

The boughs of prowess.

In this tree are seven boughs, for in seven battles there are as many victories, which gain seven crowns.

He is a fool who thinks to have the crown without the victory.

The custom in former times at Rome was this:—

He who desired fame in the field, had to overcome

all whom the master of the field sent against him. This master is Christ, and he knows the might of each, and suffers us not to be tried above our strength.

They that overcome shall have seven kinds of rewards.

The first fight.
[Fol. 53. a.]

The first fight of the Christian is against deadly sin.

The bold heart finds it an easy task to gain the victory.

He that falleth in this fight hath more need of strength than he that is standing.

As the fish goes into the net willingly, so man goes into sin, but he may not go out of himself.

The arms of penance enable man to overcome in this fight.

Three points to be observed in true penance.
1. Repentance of heart.

Of the repentance of king David. David says in the Psalter, I will wash my bed with my tears.

The sinner (in deadly sins) shall so sorrow that his heart shall melt into tears, and cry mercy to God as a thief and a murderer.

The sinner is a thief,

because he hath foolishly and evilly spent the gifts and graces of God.

He is a murderer of the king's daughter, that is, of his own soul.

He is a traitor to God, for he hath sold his soul to the devil.

Wherefore the sinner should wash his bed, that is, his soul.

After repentance shall come shrift, the good chan-

Of Shrift.

OF ÞE SSRIFTE.

There are six conditions of shrift.

1. That it be made wisely, (a) to take heed to whom one makes shrift, and to seek a good confessor,

one who hath power to absolve and enjoin penance.

(b) Who that will wisely shrive him must think of his sins before he comes to confess them.

The sinner shall go into house, that is, his heart,

and there he shall remain and see all his defects,

and shall think of

2. Do not delay shrift.

Delay is very perilous for many reasons,

[Fol 54. a.]
(a) Sin is a burning fire, and can only be quenched by tears of shrift.

(b) Sin is a great sickness, and shrift is the medicine.

(c) Death may overtake the sinner before he has shriven himself.

5. Shrift must be made meckly.

The shriver is an ear of God. Therefore shall the sinner confess his sins with great dread, and as water shall he cast them out.

He must let nothing remain that has the colour of sin. Afterwards he must forsake the "smack" of sin, and never think pleasantly of his past sins.

[Fol. 55. b.]

He shall think of his sins with great dread, sorrow, and shame.

He shall afterwards fly from the "smell," and listen no more to sinful speech.

6. Shrift must be made often, for many reasons.

a. To ensure greater purity of life.

b. For the absolution of "venial sins."

c. To drive away the devil.

d. To learn to shrive well, for practice makes perfect.

e. To prevent forgetfulness of our sins.

Of the gift of counsel and of the virtue of mercy.

The gift of counsel is a great grace of the Holy Ghost, it guideth man aright,

Vor ase zayþ þe filozofe / 'greate þinges byeþ y-do / nazt be strengþe of bodie ne be armes : ac be guod red.'
 And anoþer zuo zayþ þet hette socrates / þet 'of hastif red : hit uorþingþ efte[r]ward.' and þeruore zayþ salomon.
 'Ne do nazt wyþ-oute guod red. and efter þe dede hit ne ssel nazt þe uorþenche.'

This grace showeth itself in three ways.

1. To seek good advice.

Folk fall, says Solomon, for want of counsel.

Beware of false advisers, and ask no counsel of fools. Seek advice of the old and experienced.

Rehoboam lost a great part of his kingdom through following bad advice.

He who hath this gift

 The tree of mercy
 hath seven steps,
 [Fol. 58. a.]
 for there are seven things which lead to mercy.

1. Nature.

No fowl eateth
 another of its own kind.

The wolf protecteth 'for-cast' children from other beasts, wherefore a man should pity the sin of another of his own kin.

2. Grace.

We are all limbs of one body, and one limb naturally bears with another.

We are all bought with one price, with the blood of Christ.

We are all children of one Father, by belief and by grace.

3. The Scriptures exhort us to be merciful.

The oil feeds the fire in the lamp. The lamp is mercy. As the oil upriseth in the lamp above all other fluids, so does mercy above all other virtues.

When mercy faileth the love of God faileth.

yproued / and is ine þo boc yuonde. þet þe wolues drazeþ uorþ þe children þet byeþ uor-kest / and wereþ his uram oþre bestes. Wel ssel þanne a man habbe pite / and þolemodnesse of þe kueade of þe oþre þet is him anlich ine kende. þet alle we byeþ of one kende / and of one sseppe. and to one uorbisne ymad / ase we habbeþ y-zed be-nore. þe oþer þing þet ssel man draze to merci / and to þolemodnesse of oþre manne kuead / þet is grace. uor alle we byeþ lemes of o body / þet is of holy cherche be grace. and o leme heþ kendeliche of anopren : þolemodnesse. Efterward alle we byeþ wiþ-bozt of one zehue pris. þet is mid þe blisuolle blode [of] Iesu crist þet he sselde uor ous ine þe rode / ous uor to wiþ-begge uram þe dyape eurelestinde. Huamne godes zone wes þanne zuo reuþeul / zuo uol of merci auoreye ous : wel ssolle we habbe reuþe / and þolemodnesse þe on of þe oþre. helpe / and soucouri þe on þe oþer. Efterward / alle we byeþ children of [on] uader and of moder be byleau and be grace. uor we byeþ godes children and of holy cherche. and þe on broþer ssel helpe þe opren : þanne he yziþþ his niede. uor ate niede : me yziþþ huet þe urend is. þe þridde þing þet ssel moche man sterie to merci : is þe heste of þe holy writinge. þet redeþ and hotep þe workes of mersi aboue alle oþre workes. Huerof þe wise salomon zayþ / 'y-wyte þe' zayþ he / 'þet þin heued ne by nazt wiþoute oyle.' The good Tobie taught his son to be merciful and to give willingly.

Christ said, "Go sell all that thou hast, and give it to the poor."

[Fol. 58. b.]

As God saith, "I will have mercy and not sacrifice."

Some men are willing enough to fast and perform pilgrimages, but sparing of their alms.

Many men so foolishly spending their money offer sacrifices to the devil.

Mercy is displeasing to the devil,

4. The liberality of our Lord. God giveth liberally to all, for the sun shineth upon the good and the evil, wherefore we should be kind and courteous to one another.

The son should be like the father.

The merciful are God's sons.

5. The honour of God. He who honours God will do good to the poor.

The poor are the little household of our Lord.

He who honours the poor, honours God,

as was seen by St Martin, who gave his mantle to a poor man. [Fol. 59. a.]

God will turn the deaf ear to the unmerciful.

This Christ showed us in the parable of Dives and Lazarus.

The covetous shall not find the way to Paradise
at doomsday,

but cursed shall they be that turned their backs on mercy.

Christ shall give doom as a king,

and cursing as a high bishop and sovereign pope,

for He to-k the nature of man, of king, and of bishop.

This cursing shall be upon all on the left hand.

"Go," he shall say, "ye accursed,
into everlasting
fire, prepared for the devil and his fellows."

This doom shall be short but sorrowful.

7. The seed of mercy beareth
good fruit.

Mercy multiplieth
temporal riches.

St Germain had given all his money to the poor,

except three pence
retained by one^l
of his deacons,
who was told to give them also to the poor.
The deacon gave only two pence away.

[Fol. 59. b.]
St Germain discovered the fraud
by receiving two hundred instead of three hundred pence from a rich knight.

A rich gentleman was robbed by thieves of all that he had,
and he complained to John the Almoner, who ordered his steward to give him
fifteen pounds of gold,
but the servant
gave only five.
A gentle widow sent John five hundred pounds,

and he told his servant that if he had given the 15 pounds, our Lord would have sent him 1500
pounds by the good woman,

to the poor, for which he was often beaten by his mother.
On one occasion,
his mother being absent, he emptied
the garner for the poor,
and his mother
was nearly out of her wits, but suddenly, at the prayer of the child, the garner became full.

Alms should be given to the need-ful, and should be made pleasing to God.

hy doþ : hi lyezeþ / and hare oþre guodes. uor hi ne doþ naȝt ase hy ssolde. þeruore ich þe wyle sseawy ssortliche / hou me ssel maky elmesse : to þan þet hi by behofsam. and þet hi liky god.

In almsgiving three things are to be considered.

1. A man must give of what belongs to him, and not of that pertaining to another. Alms given of theft, toll, robbing, usury, are not pleasing to God.

þanne huo þet ssel do elmesse : hel ssel loki þri þinges. Verst : huerof he deþ elmesse. uor he hit ssel do of his oȝene / and naȝt of oþremanne. and þerof þet he heþ of guode wynnyng and trewe. god ne heþ hede of kueade yefþes. ac he his loueþ trewe and guode. Elmesse þet is y-do of þyefþe. of tol. of robbing. of gauelyng. oþer of oþre kueade gaderinge : hit ne likeþ noþing god. Huerof þe writinge zayþ. ‘þou ne ssel naȝt maky none sacrefice to god of oxe / ne of ssep / þet by spotty. uor god heþ grat wlatyng / of zuych sacrefice.’ and þe wyze zayþ in þe writinge. ‘þe ilke þet makeþ sacrifice to god / of þe guodes of þe poure : he deþ ase þe ilke þet sslaȝt þet child be-nore his uader.’ And saynt austin þus zaiþ. ‘huet yefþe is þet’ he zayþ. ‘þet þe on nimþ gledliche / and þe oþer hit lyst weþndeliche :?’ and þeruore ssel ech loki huerof he deþ elmesse.

He who maketh sacrifice to God of the goods of the poor, is as he who slayeth the child before his father. That is not gift which one taketh readily and the other loseth weepingly.

2. Look to whom thou shalt do good.

Afterward he ssel loky to huam he hit deþ. þanne þe writinge zayþ. Loke to huam þou sselst do guod. do guod to þe guode. þet is to þan : þet þou wenst by guod. and ne yef naȝt to þe ssrewe. ne ne loke naȝt þane zenezere. þet is to zigge : þet þou ne sselst naȝt yeue to þe kueade / be þe seele of his kueadnesse. ase doþ þo þet yeueþ þe ribaus / and menestrals / uor hare wykkednesse.¹ ne oþerlaker hi nolden ham yeue naȝt. þet is wel grat zenne ase ziggeþ þe halȝen. Ac huo þet ham yefþ / naȝt uor hare kueadnesse : ac uor reuþe / and uor þolemოდnesse of hare pourehede / and of hare wyues / and of hare children. yef hi hise habbeþ. oþer of hire uader / oþer of hire moder. oþer uor oþre guode skele / ase his uor to wyþdraȝe uram zenne : he deþ that is to say, as the reward of their wickedness, as one giveth to ribalds and minstrels.

Nevertheless alms may be given them on account of their poverty.

And alneway me ssel ham bleþeliche yeue / and nameliche to þe poure ssamueste. and to þe uaderlease. an to wyfmen wodewen. and to oþre nieduolle / þanne me yziȝþ þe nyede / and me hit moȝe do. and zuo me is y-healde to þe oncouþe / aboue alle oþren me is y-hyealde : to uader and to moder / huanne me y-ziȝþ hare nyede. Vor þe kende hit tekþ / and god hit acseþ / and hat.

Give alms to the poor, and especially to the poor of heart, to the fatherless, to widows, and other necessitous persons.

Me ret of þe heyrone þet he draȝþ uorþ his uader and his moder huanne hi byeþ ealde / and ne moȝe ham naȝt porchaci. þeruore kende tekþ þet me ssel guod do to uader and to moder. and huo þet hit ne deþ : he is onkende. and zenezep a-ye kende / and a-ye god. þet hat to worþssipie uader and moder / and þeruore hit is wel riȝt þet hit misualle to him and to hare þet deþ harm uader oþer moder / ase hit is manye ziþe uualle.

Above all shall one help his parents in their need.

3. Consider how to give alms, and the manner of giving them.
1. Give gladly and willingly.

God looketh not to the gift, but to the heart of the giver, and He is better pleased with the poor man's half-penny than the rich man's hundred marks.

There are some so discourteous to
the poor,

that they accompany their alms
with many twittings and up-
braidings.

2. Give thy alms
soon and hastily.

'Say not to thy friend, "Go, and come again tomorrow."

Make no delay,
when thou hast
it in thy power to give.

"Nothing," says Seneca, "is so dearly bought as what one hath by delay."

Give thy offerings to God while thou
livest,
for death waiteth
for none.

Give thy alms
for the love of Christ.

Alms given in life-time are more worthy than those given after death.

A lantern carried before a man is better than one borne behind his back.

[1 MS. bo-uore]

Our alms are our good forerunners, that prepare for us the house of Paradise.

3. Give liberally.

If thou hast much, give abundantly ;

but if little, give gladly and courteously.

Each shall give “after his might.”

Alexander gave a city to one of his servants, who would refuse it on account of the greatness of the gift.

The king said to him, “I consider not what is proper for thee to take, but for me to give.”

4. Give willingly, and with a pure mind.

Some folks give alms and desire that all should hear of their charity.

Christ hath commanded us to give our alms secretly and without ostentation.

Good works may be done before
the folk, for good example's sake,

so that God may be glorified.

Martha is a type of the first life, and Mary of the second.

The gift of understanding and wisdom belongeth to the life contemplative.

To this life belong also a right knowledge of God and a stedfast love.

The gift of understanding given by the Holy Ghost, is a light and a grace of brightness which enables man to know his Maker, and those spiritual matters pertaining to the help of the soul.

This gift is called light, for it cleanseth the understanding of the darkness of pride and of spots of sin, and enables man to know clearly and surely God his Creator.

The sick eye may not see clearly, neither may man's understanding perceive spiritual truths without being first purified by the Divine light.

This gift puts away all filth of the heart, but especially lechery.

For who is defiled
with this sin has lost the eyes of his heart,

and is no hetter
than a beast.

Lechery makes a man like to foul beasts.

The gift of understanding strips
the heart of this sin.

Blessed are the pure of heart,

for they shall see God.

Of the seven steps
of chastity.

OF ÞE ZEUE STAPES OF CHASTETÉ.

I. A clean conscience.
Without an un-defiled mind
there is no chas-
tity pleasing to God.

þys traw wext and profiteþ / and clifþ ase doþ þe oþre to-uore yzed / be zeue stapes. þe uerste stape is clene inwyt / þet is þe rote of þise trawe uor wyþ-oute clene inwyt : no chasteté ne lykeþ to god. þis chasteté / þis clenness / þis purté / acseþ þet me loki þe herte uram euele þoʒtes / þet hi naʒt ne consenti / and of kuede wilni[n]gges. Vor huo þet him consenteþ to kueade wylles / and to þe kueade þoʒtes of his herte : he ne is naʒt chast. þaʒ he by uer uram þe dede. uor be þe consentinge wyþ-oute more : he ssolde by uorlore yef
he sterf þerinne.

He who consents to evil thoughts
is not chaste,
though he be far from the deed.

Three things tend to produce purity
of heart.
The first is to hear joyfully the word of God.

þri þinges moche byeþ worþ to loki þe clenness of herte. þe uerste is / bleþeliche y-hyere þe wordes of god / and his spellen. Huerof oure¹lhord zayþ ine his spelle / to his deciples. 'ye byeþ' he zayþ 'alle clene / be eʒen. and zuo þe mezel ssel bi al hol and clene. þet is þe zenezere / yef he him wesst zeuczyþe / þet is to

The second is true shrift, which is the laver in which one shall oft wash.

Bear in mind the story of Naaman's washing in Jordan
seven times.

Jordan signifies the stream of judgment, and betokens shrift,
in which man
shall judge himself with great sorrow of heart,
and repentance,
so that a stream
of tears run from his eyes.

[Fol. 63. b.]

þet þridde þing is / beþenche of Iesu cristes pine. Vor no uondinge / none euele þoȝtes ne moȝe bleue ine herte : þet ofte recorderþ þane dyab and þe pine of Iesu crist. Vor þet is þe armure þet þe dyeuel dret mest ase þe ilke be huam he wes ouercome / and be huam he lyeas his miȝte. þet is ous betokned in þe writinge of þe eddre of bres þet Moyses be þe heste of oure lhorde arerede ope þe pole zuo heȝe : þet al þet uolk hise yzeȝ. And alle þo þet his yzeȝe : weren y-held of þe prekiynges of þe eddren. þe eddre of bres arered ine þe pole : be-tokneþ þet body of Iesu crist y-hanged ine þe rode. þet wes þe eddre wyþ-oute uenym huerof wes y-mad þe triacle of oure helþe / to ham þet byeþ y-smite / and enuenimed of þe prekiynges of þe uenimous eddre¹ of helle / þet is þe dyuel. Loke be zoþe belyaue ine þe eddre of bres. þet ys to zigge / þet he þenche of þe pinen of Iesu crist. and anhaste he ssel by hol / and by y-uryd of þe uondinges of þe dyeule.

The third thing is a remembrance of Christ's passion, for that is the armour most dreaded by the devil.

This is betokened in the Scriptures by the adder of brass.

The adder denotes the body of Christ.

[1 MS. eddris] Look by true belief to the brazed serpent, that is, to death and passion of Christ.

þe oþer stape huerby þis traw clyfþ and profiteþ. is to loki þane mouþ uram uoule wordes / þet wendeþ to ribaudye and to onclennesse. uor be zuych blest and be zuych wynd : is ofte aqyked þet uer of lecherie. Huerof þe writinge spekeþ. þet 'word of fole wyfman / is berninde ase uer.' An zaynte paul þus zayþ. þet 'þe kueade wordes of fole wyfmen : amerreþ guode þeawes.' And þeruore huo þet wyle loki chasteté : hit behoueþ þet he him loki uram zuyche wordes. Vor huo þet bleþeþliche hise zayþ / oþer bleþeliche his yherþ : he sseweþ wel þet he ne is naȝt chast. Vor þer ne may go oute of þe uete : bote zuych ase þer is inne. Yef þe wordes byeþ uoule and lodliche / þet is apert tokne þet þe uoulhede and þe lodlichhede byeþ ine þe herte. Vor

II. Keep the mouth from foul words, which oft kindle the fire of lechery.

Evil words of foul women mar good virtues.

He who will say and listen to foul words is not chaste.

If the words be loathsome, it is sign that there is filth in the heart.

be þe mochelhede of þe herte : þe mouþ spekþ. þet zayþ our lhord ine his spelle.

III. Guard all the wits of the body—the eye from foul sights, the ear from foul words, the hands from wicked handling, &c. These are the five gates of the heart, whereby the devil oft goeth into the heart.

þe þridde stape is wel to loki alle þe wyttes of þe bodye / ase þe ezen uram fol zy3þe. þe earen / to hyere fole wordes. þe honden ura[m] wyckede takinges. þe nase : uram to moche lostuolle smelles. þane mouþ uram to lostuolle metes / and ine guode smackes. þise byeþ þe vif gates of þe cité of þe herte / huerby þe dieuel geþ in ofte ine þe vif þerles of þe house / huerby þe dyeuel ofte geþ in-to þe herte / ase zayþ þe profete. Vele guode men and stronge habbeþ by y-nome and ouercome / be þan þet hi ne lokede na3t wel þise gates. And yef þou wylt hadde uorbisnes : þench þet non ne wes strengre þanne samson fortin. ne wiser þanne salomon. ne more milder þanne dauid. and alneway uillen be wyfmen. Ac uozope yef hy hedden wel yemd þe gates : þe uyend ne hedde na3t ynome zuo greate casteles. Vor ase zayþ saint gregorie. ‘þe tour of þe herte ne may na3t by nome bote þe gates by opene to þe ost of þe dyeule.’ Huerof yealde filozofes hem uledden in-to nerre stedes in-to dezert. þeruore þet hi ne mi3ten zy / ne yhere / ne uele / þing huerby þe strengþe of hire workes uledde away / ne huerby hi ssolden lyese hire chastete. þe oþre þeruore þet hi nere ine zenne to þenche of filozofie / hy þresten out hare ezen of þe herte / þet hi ne zezen þing þet ham mi3te wyþdraze uram hire contemplacion. þanne þe bodiliche wyttes byeþ ase þet hors þet yernþ wyþ-oute bridle zuo þet hit deþ ualle his lhord. Ac þe herte chaste / ham ofhalt mid þe bridle of skele. Nou ich hadde þe yzed þane skele.

Samson, David, and Solomon were overcome through not guarding these gates.

St Gregory says, “The tower of the heart may not be taken unless the gates be open to the devil’s host.”

[Fol. 64. a.]

Philosophers of old fled into deserts to preserve their chastity.

The bodily wits are as a horse without a bridle,

but a chaste heart restrains them with the bridle of reason.

IV. Let the flesh be governed by the spirit.

The lusts and pleasures of the heart mar chastity.

þe uerþe stape is ssarpnesse of liue to do his uless onderuot þet is wrang to þe goste / ase zayþ zaynte paul. Vor huo þet wile quenche þet uer of lecherie : he mot do away þe aliztynges þet norisseþ zuyeh ver. þet bieþ þe lostes and þe eyses of þe herte / þet berneþ ssarpnesse of lyue. Ac þe greate metes / and þet stronge wyn / alizteþ and norisseþ lecherie / ase oyle oþer grese alizteþ and st[r]engþeþ þet uer.

Jeremiah's girdle that became rotten beside the Euphrates, denotes chastity, which is marred by foul lusts ; and therefore we must put the sin away, by fasting, and by penance.

The children who would not eat of " lustful meats," were preserved in the furnace of Babylon.

Great meats nourish lechery, as oil or grease keep up the fire.

þe vifte stape is be-uly kueade uelazrede and þe enchesous of zenne. Moche uolk byeþ y-ualle ine zenne be kueade uelazrede þet nazt elles ne hedden

V. Avoid the fellowship of the wicked,

for it mars a man's good fame.

A rotten apple will spoil a great many sound ones.

If thou lovest the company of the wicked thou shalt be such as they are.

Avoid the very appearance of evil, and go not into temptation.

The story of

Vor me ne may naȝt betere ouercome zenne of lecherie / ne loki chasteté : þanne to by-uly þe encheysones of zenne.

Avoid those things that lead to lechery.

[Fol. 64. b.]

Lot was commanded not only to leave Sodom,
but all its bounds.

þeruore þe angle zede to lot / þet he ssolde guo out of þe cité of sodomme / and alle þe boundes. Vor hit ne is naȝt ynoȝ to lete þe kueade uelazrede ne þe zenne : bote he ne lete þe markes of zenne. þet is to zigge : þe encheisons of zenne. So one must forsake lechery, and the temptation
leading to it.
The moth flieth
about the candle
until it is burnt.

VI. Be occupied with good and honest works.

The devil tempt-
eth the idle man.
Idleness is the mistress of much wickedness.

VII. Offer good

Holy prayer is a good shield
 against lust.
 It is powerful before God, for it is shored with four things, as
 with four posts.

þe uerste is riȝte beleaue huer-of zayþ oure lhord ine

1. The first is true belief.
 Have a good faith and hope,
 and thy prayers
 shall be answered.

He who is without faith is as the wave of the sea,
 driven by the wiud.

[Fol. 65. a.]

2. Have good hope to have what thou askest for.

Ask wisely, diligently, and perseveringly,

and God shall hear in haste thy prayers.

Some ask more than is proper for them, as did the apostles John and James,

who were reproved by our Lord for their presumption.

Let no man be overweening like the Pharisees,
[1 fariseu ?]

but let him pray meekly before God.

Take heed to the poor beggars, how they exhibit their evils in order to excite pity.

So shall one show meekly before God his lacks and sins.

Other folk pray for temporal gifts,

but God will not give thee a pear or an apple as one doth to a child.

He desires us to ask what is profitable to the soul. Temporal gifts are bestowed upon the evil as well as upon the good,

wherefore the good should not set great store by them.

[Fol. 65. b.]

We must ask all things in the name of Jesus.

Jesus signifies help.

[1 MS. bohoueþ]

“Seek first,” says Christ, “God’s kingdom and his righteousness,” &c.

We should yearn for the greatest gift,

for we have more need of spiritual than of temporal gifts.

Wherefore let us pray for life everlasting, and power to do good works, whereby one may come to God’s kingdom.

3. Let there be devotion of heart
in thy prayer.

Say thy prayer in thine heart,

and put out all fleshly and foul
thoughts.

We pray truly
when we think of nought else.

What good is it
to move the lips,
while the heart is dumb ?

The voice of prayer is but chaff and bran.
The devotion of the heart is the corn and flour of wheat.

[Fol. 66. a.]

He who prays
without devotion, addresses God as one that speaketh half English and half French.

Such folk scorn
God as one mocks a deaf
man.
To such God
turneth the deaf
ear.

God is a spirit,
and must be prayed to in the spirit.

Prayer of a feruent heart is like the incense
on the fire.

Prayer without devotion is a messenger without letters of recommendation.

Pray to God
with a deep
heart.

Prayer consists of bitter outpourings of the spirit,

and not of smooth words.

Such prayer drives away the thieves, that is, the devils.

God gave the water of tears to quench the fire (lust) of our hearts.

The peril of sin is like the peril of waters, and the tempest of death.

We should pray God to preserve us from
1. the thieves of hell,
2. covetousness,
3. evil thoughts.

Pray specially to God on Sunday in church.

[Fol. 66. b.]

We forsake the works of the week in order to serve God better on that day. Some pray to be seen of men.

and others pray so loud as to disturb those near them.

It is God's chamber and God's house, and we should say before Him only what is pleasing to Him.

Wherefore pray devoutly, and thank God for all His gifts to thee,

and think of His goodness to thee.

Pray for forgiveness, and for grace to live
 holily.

In church great lords and ladies
 should lay aside
 their dignity,

and, like David,
 humble themselves before
 God.

Man is like a worm,

naked and worthless,

[Fol. 67. b.]

filth, a sack full of dung, and meat for worms.

Great ladies
should take pattern by Queen Hester,

and should leave their fine robes
at home.

God is disgusted with those who rejoice in these things, and desire to please fools.

God is pleased with a mild heart and a pure conscience.

Women should come to church
with clean clothing and not dressed above their station.

They should be meek and shame-faced.

They should not be too busy about decking their heads with gold and silver,
for at church

Two wings are needed to bear
the prayer to God.

They are fasting
and alms.
Without these it will not fly to God.

[Fol. 6S. a.]
In prayer there must be no ill-
will in the heart.

Therefore saith
the prophet,
"Raise we our hearts and our hands to God that upheaveth our prayers by good works."
The clean hands
are the clean prayers.

God will not listen to prayers from a filthy soul, that is, from those with bloody hands. They have bloody hands who ill-use the poor.

They eat bloody morsels, for which they shall pay hard scot in the other world.

He who will be heard, must not come before God empty-handed,

but must bear a present of good works.

We read in the gospel that the gate was shut against those maidens whose lamps were empty.

God hears those that have their lamps full of oil,

that is, whose hearts are full of pity.

Prayer thus cōmþ of inwyt uol of uelþe / and of zenne. þanne he zayþ be þe profete. ‘Huanne þe multepliest þine benes : ich nelle none y-herē. uor þine honden byeþ al blodȳ.’ Huo byeþ þo / þet habbeþ þe honden blodi : bote þo / þet be-uleaþ þe poure uolk / þet byeþ onder ham / and benimeþ ham hire guodes be strengþe? The seven boughs of chastity.

The seven boughs of chastity, are seven states
 of men in this world.

The first state is of those that are whole of body, and have well kept their maidenhood. In marriage one shall observe chastity of heart and of body. Children should have good guardians, lest they be married by foolish companions.

Children should be chastened and taught while young to practise good manners.

Such form as the shoe takes at first it evermore keeps.

The other state is of them that have lost their chastity.

[1 So in MS.]

[Fol. 69. a.]

Even in this state chastity should be observed by having a fast purpose to abstain from sin, and the flesh

The third state comprehends those bound by marriage. They should keep their bodies in purity and truth, the one towards the other. For man and wife being bound by marriage are one body, wherefore they shall be of one heart by true love.

Wives shall love their lords, and be chaste and sober.

Chaste in their bodies and sober in meat and in drink.

The man shall not give his body to other women.

Marriage is a state of great authority, and was ordained in Paradise.

It is a state of great dignity.

For God was born of an espoused woman.

Under her mantle was the secret of the soul's help hidden from the devil.

It is a holy state, being one of the sacraments ;

so what was before deadly sin, became no sin in marriage.

He hath great merit who may do the deed of marriage without sin.

The deed of spoushood may be sinless first when one desires to beget children to serve God.

Secondly, when the one yieldeth to the other his debt when he asketh it.

[Fol. 69. b.]

The one hath a right in the body of the other.

Thirdly, when it is done to keep away lechery from his wife.

In this there is no sin, but rather merit.

On the other hand, one may sin in three cases. The first is when one seeketh only to satisfy lusts.

The sin is venial if it is temperate,

otherwise it is deadly.

With such sin God is exceedingly wrath.

[1 sareu z]

The devil hath power ouer those who give themselves up to their lusts, as a horse or a mule.

Those that in marriage have the fear of our Lord, please God.

þe oþer cas huer me may zenezy be spoushod / is huamne man geþ to his wyue ine time þet he ne ssolde naȝt guo. þet is huamne hi is ine þe ziknesse þet wyfmen habbeþ communliche. zuo þet he his naȝt ne spareþ

The other case of sin in “spousehood” is when a man goeth to his wife in a time that he should not go.

God hath forbidden this improper fellowship,
for in such state
are oft begotten
the crooked,
blind, lepers,
deaf, dumb, &c.

[Fol. 70. a.]

Also they shall abstain from the deed in holy times such, as in great and solemn feasts,

and in times of fasting appointed by the church.

[2 like bele in MS.]

Also when the woman lieth in childbed, or is near her time.

Kings, earls, and barons, have at such times their chambersto themselves,
or they go to their castles, and therefore they have such fair children.

The elephant
will not dwell

The fifth bough of chastity. The fifth bough of the tree of chastity is maidenhood (single life).

[Fol. 71. a.]

This state is much to be praised for its dignity, beauty, and its goodness.

For its dignity—for those in this state are like to the angels.

The devil is always trying to take the castle for to steal the treasure of maidenhood.

Christ speaks of it as the treasure of the field.

The field is the body, which should be eared with penance and sown with good works.

Afterward þet stat is to praysy / uor his uayrhede.

For its beauty—it is the fairest

state on earth.

Solomon associates brightness
with chastity.

Sinless
chastity is fair and bright above
other virtues.

[¹ MS. Ukendē]

Maidenhod is the white robe
wherein a spot is sooner discovered than in any other cloth.

It should be preserved from filth,
blood, and fire.
The filth is the covetousness of the world.

None may please God who seek to please the world, that is,
God's foe.

[² So in MS.]

One sign of pleasing the world is the decking of the body.

The third leaf is meekness.

Without meekness the virginity of Mary would not have been pleasing to God.

The fourth leaf is the fear of God.

The fear of God is the treasurer of the treasury of virginity.

The gates of the treasury are the gates of the heart.

The fear of God locks these gates so that they are not open to the devil.

[Fol. 72. b.]

Who will preserve virginity must withdraw the wits from idle business.

The kingdom of heaven is likened to the ten maidens, whereof five were wise and the others foolish.

The five wise are those that control the five wits of the body.

The fifth leaf is "sharpness (austerity) of life,"

which is a strong hedge surrounding the garden of the heart.

The sixth leaf is constancy (stedfastness). St Austin saith, "Follow the lamb of meekness, that is, Jesus Christ."

Study perseverance, for it winneth the crown of heaven.

þet me deþ be holy drede of oure lhorde þet me dret alday to wreþi. þet is þet wyt of þe uif maydines huerof oure lhord Iesu crist speķþ ine his spelle þo he zede. þet þe kingriche of heuene is anlikned to þe ten madines. huerof þe vif were wyse. and þe oþre uif were foles. Oþerlaker speķþ saynt bernard of þe maniere to louye god. And þus zayþ. ‘O. þu þet art cristen / lerne hou þou sselst louie god / þet is Iesu crist.’ Lierne him to louie / wysliche. zueteliche. stran[g]liche. and stedeuestliche. Wysliche: þet þou ne by y-stered be none prosperité. Strongliche: þet þou ne by ouercome / be none aduerseté. and þus is uayr þet flour of þe lylve of maydenhod / huanne hi is zuych / ase we habbeþ y-zed. And þet is þe oþer scele huer-by þe stat of madenhod / is moche to praysy / þet is uor his uayrhede.

The three grains of the lily teacheth how to love God, with the understanding, will, and thought.

In such manner is God's likeness fulfilled in man by these three properties of the soul.

[Fol. 73. a.]

St Bernard teaches thee to love God, wisely, sweetly, strongly, and stedfastly. Wisely, that thou be not moved by prosperity. Strongly, that thou be not overcome by adversity.

þe þridde scele huerby hit is to alowe / is nor his guodhede / and uor þe note þet þerof comp. Vor maydenhod is a tresor of zuo grut worþ: þet hit ne may

The third reason why virginity is to be praised is for its goodness.

Nothing is worthy of being compared to the chaste heart.

Virginity brings forth most fruit.
Marriage thirty-
fold, widowhood sixty-
fold,
and virginity a hundred-fold.

[1 belongeþ and

In marriage one shall keep the ten behests.

In widowhood
one shall keep
the ten behests,
and six works of mercy.

The number hundred betokeneth a round number, and is the fairest of all figures.

It betokeneth the

The sixth state of chastity is of hooded clerks, as deacons, priests, &c., who are bound to preserve chastity for many reasons. First, because their hood demandeth holiness.

Secondly, their office is to serve God, to handle sacred things, and, above all, the body of our Lord Jesus Christ.

Nou hi ssolden þanne by wel klene / and wel holy / uor þane scele of þe lhorde to huam hi serueþ / þet is holy / and hateþ alle uelþe. þanne he zayþ ine þe writinge. Very foul is the spot of lechery in the ministers of the church,

for they are the eyes of Holy Church.

As the spot is fouler in the eye
 than in the other
 limbs,
 so is lechery more perilous in clerks and prelates than in lewd folk.

[i zizþ?]

Prelates shoulde
 be pure and holy,
 for they hallow
 others,

but the foul are not able to cleanse
 others.

The wickedness of the minister impairerth not the virtue of the sacrament.

Ministers should be an example of chastity to their flocks.

þeruore þanne huam þet hi halzeþ / and clenseþ þe oþre ine þet hi ministreþ þe sacremens of holy cherche : hy ssolle by þe more holy / and more clene / þanne þe oþre. The seventh state is the state of religion.

Those who are dedicated to God must always observe chastity,

[Fol. 74. b.]

for their state is one of perfection.

The devil strives most to tempt them to sin,

for he has greater joy over the fall of a good and great man than over many others, as the fisherman hath greater joy to take a great fish than a little one.

Here lieth a tale. One readeth in the lives of the holy fathers that a holy man told how he became a monk. He was a pagan priest's son. When a child he was once in the temple of Mahomet, and there he saw a great devil sitting on a folding-stool, and all his servants about him.

One of his princes came and told him of the wars and bloodshed he had caused in 30 days.

His master the devil ordered him to be well beaten, because in so much time he had done so little.

Another came and said that in 20 days he had caused tempests and shipwrecks.

He too was rebuked for his idleness.

A third came and related how at a wedding he had raised strife, discord, and murder in 10 days, for which he was ordered to be well beaten for being so long about it. At last there came another, who said he came from an hermitage, where he had been 40 years tempting a monk to commit fornication, and was ultimately successful.

The man of reli-

heart directed to everlasting bliss, and not to temporal goods.

St Paul always directed his understanding and his will to heaven.

Many religious folk seek temporal things and set the plough before the oxen.

St Paul exhorts them to have "everlasting goods" always before them, and go from virtue to virtue, until they come to the hill of everlasting bliss.

"Blessed be the clean of heart, for they shall see God."

They shall see him by belief and by the gift of understanding.

The pure of heart are blessed in this mortal life,

for they see God
clearly with the eyes of their heart.

This blessing shall be perfected
in the life everlasting,

when they shall see God face to face.

 The last gift and the greatest is wisdom,
 by which the heart is possessed with the love of God only.
 This is the step
 of perfection.
 This gift makes us to know God perfectly,
 as one knoweth
 wine by seeing or tasting it.
 The philosophers knew God by writing, as by a mirror;

and by the works
of nature, and by natural reason,

[Fol. 77. a.]

but never by love or devotion.

The gift of wisdom joineth
man's heart to God by the glue of
love,

and there he
feedeth, resteth,
and is nourished,
and forgetteth all his labours and desires (carnal and earthly).

This is the last step of the ladder
of perfection.

The steps of this ladder are the seven gifts of the Holy Ghost.
By these steps
climb the angels,

going from virtue
to virtue.

Having reached the highest step,

there is a greater need for meekness and self-abase-
ment.

To win this blessing one shall live soberly in this world.

Sobriety cometh of wisdom.

Gluttony produces sickness and often death.

Death seizes gluttons suddenly, as one doth the fish by the cheek.

Drunkness deprives man of his freedom.

The drunkard loses his reason, and the wine drinketh (drowneth) him.

The glutton makes a god of his belly,

out of which go filth and stench.

The spirit should be lord over the body.

[Fol. 77. a.]

The mouth is the master-gate of the castle of the heart.

Sobriety is first assailed in the host of virtues.

Man hath some limbs doubled, but he has only one mouth.

All creatures teach us sobriety.

zipes to lite. Ac sobreté and temperance / zet ouer-al
 Even in fastings, watchings, &c., sobriety must be exercised.
 The virtue of temperance must be observed in all virtues, for it moderates all the thoughts, wills, and desires of the body.
 The end of all virtues is that the heart and body "be well ordained to God,"
 and be withdrawn from the love of this world.
 [Fol. 78. a.]
 The love of God sets the heart in peace.
 Our Lord saith, "Thou shalt be in travail in this world, but in me shalt thou find rest."

By words may the follies and wisdom of man be known.

Weigh thy word in the balance of discretion.

The wise setteth the sluice of discretion to keep back the water of foolish words.

[Fol. 80. a.]

Many evils come of the evil tongue.

Take heed that thou fall not by thy tongue.

Put a door and a lock to thy mouth.

He who does not guard his tongue will fall into the power of his foe, the devil.

The mouth is the gate of the heart.

Moderation in clothing is the fifth step of Sobriety. Excess is a sin, wherefore we should not be over busy in adorning ourselves.

He is a fool and childish that is proud of his clothing.

The wearing of clothes comes of the sin of our first parents. [Fol. 81. a.]

Under fair robes there is often a dead soul.

Nature has adorned the peacock and cock.

Nature has given man no clothes of which to be proud.

St. Paul says that women shall adorn themselves with propriety.

Many poor might be sustained by the number of robes that one woman wears in a year,

The sixth step of Temperance is moderation in conduct.

Take heed that the feelings of thine heart be not foul or silly.

Some are so childish that they cause themselves to be looked upon as fools.

Look that thy deeds be well ordered, so that none be ‘led astray by thy example.’

The child of an hundred years shall be accursed, for he is of age and yet is childish.

He who holdeth an old man a child holdeth him a fool.

Every man and woman shall so order their conduct that it be decorous, profitable, and honourable before God and man.

Observe moderation in meat and drink.

[Fol. 81. b.]

Load not the heart with the sins of gluttony and drunkenness.

Of excess in meats and drinks see the chapter where the sin of gluttony is treated of.

Moderation is to be found in all virtues.

It is a fair tree, and its fruit is peace of heart.

He who hath this virtue is joined to God by charity, and is separated from the world's love, and so he resteth in God and hath comfort and bliss.

Such bliss setteth the Holy Ghost in the heart that is perfected by the virtue of sobriety.

If the master of the house knew a thief were coming he would watch
 and guard his house.

The Father of the house is the will of Reason, that hath many attendants, as thoughts,
 emotions, sense,
 deeds.

The servants will be slothful unless the master is active.

If the reason is idle, the thoughts,
 eyes, and ears
 become wild.

The House is the Inwit, or spirit.

This house is undermined not by one thief but by many

The chief thief is the Devil, the rest
 are his catchpoles.

The Father of the house appoints Sleight (Prudence)
 as the door-keeper.

Next he appoints Strength to oppose the devils and support Prudence.

Equity sits in the middle and gives to each its own gift.

At what time the thief will come one knoweth not.

Sleight lets some messengers in to give warning.

The messenger of Death demands an entrance, and claims a dead silence, and thus speaks: "I am Dread, and a reminder of Death, who is coming upon you."

[comynge]

Sleight asks, "Where is Death? When shall he come?"

Dread answers, "She delays not, but is nigh at hand, and a thousand devils shall come with her, and bring great books, burning hooks, and fiery chains. In the books are written men's sins.

The hooks draw the souls out of the bodies, and with the chains are they bound and drawn into hell."

[Fol. 83. a.]

 maidens,

and heard their fair song.

[Fol. 84. a.]

Sleight inquires
of the messenger concerning the life of the blessed.

He is told that they live, enjoy,
love, rejoice,
praise, are swift,
and are in security.

They live an everlasting life free
from all pain.

Their life is the sight of the Trinity.

They taste of God's counsel and dooms, and learn the causes of things.

They love God
with an infinite
love.

They rejoice in God and of their holiness.

They have as many blessings as companions,

and their joy is incomparably great.

The command is,
 'Go into the bliss
 of thy Lord.'

They are swift,
 and the body goes
 where the spirit
 wills it.
 They are secure in this life of bliss
 and of love.

Strength asks,
 'Who shall separate as from Christ's love?'

Right says, Turn out the messenger Dread,

[Fol. 84. b.]

for love of God
 putteth out fear.

Temperance commands Dread to go out willingly.

Thus let us cast off fear and receive the love of the heavenly kingdom.

Understanding distinguishes between a man and a beast. Glorify thee not in other things. Flies surpass thee in swiftness.

The peacock is fairer than thou. God's image consists in thought and understanding.

Man's light consists in purity of thought.

The untrue, the evil, thieves, &c., are dark.

Light exists, but we go away from it.

Sin makes us blind.

The world is blind and wicked.

Christ died for us, and yet was without sin.

Suffer patiently and with a good will.

God made angels as well as small worms.

The one is worthy of heaven, the other of earth.

Yet wouldst thou reprove God if he place the worm in heaven?

But God is not to be reprov'd.

NOTES.

Page 1, l. 3, wycked. The definite form wyckede is required after the definite article.

Page 1, l. 15, draze. The prefixed y is omitted on account of the preceding by.

Page 6, l. 2, huich . . . by, whatsoever that it may be ; l. 9, toppe = above. This preposition is frequently used by Shoreham, and seems peculiar to the Kentish dialect ; l. 18, okseþ = acseþ = demands, requires ; oþ of zoþe, oath of truth.

Vers. slakly. Stevenson printed theneliche. Cf. theue in l. 13.

Page 32, l. 17, onssriuel, Fr. perreccus. This word does not occur in Bosworth's A. Sax. Dict. It seems to be = un-shrifel, Mid. Vers. recheles, negligent, careless, from A.S. serifan, to care for; l. 17, slæuolle = slæuþ-uolle, slothful, see slæuolle in l. 13; l. 22, onwoneþ, Fr. desacoustume; on-wone therefore comes from the O.E. wone, habit, custom, wont, and signifies to cease to do what has been customary or habitual; l. 23, Efterward . . . slæuolliche. The Fr. has 'Après vient negligence, car qui bien fait delaiement nest pas merueil le sil le fait negliiaument.' Here we see auerst = Fr. delaiement = delayingly, from A.S. fyrst, delay, respite.

Page 33, l. 12, op-let = Fr. sormaine, fr. surmener, 'mal mener, maltraiter' (Roq.).

Page 34, l. 27, wynnynge boldeliche, Fr. en aquestier ardaument; of-healdinge streytliche, Fr. en retenir restreignament; l. 31, gauelinge, Fr. usure; l. 34, kuedhedes, Fr. malignites.

Page 35, l. 7, þe heþþes, Fr. les montes; cf. hezinge, profit, l. 16; l. 9, vedde-dyale = mortgage, Fr. gage mort, see dead-wed, p. 36; l. 16, 17, chappfare makiinde = covenant (bargain) making; l. 24, lenep nazt, &c., i.e. lendeth not themselves.

Page 36, l. 6, time-zettere outrewe. Fr. has termoiers desloiaus; l. 20, vendonginge, Fr. vendenges, vendage, vending, sales.

Page 37, l. 20, seruons. The Fr. serians shows that this word should be serions (constables).

Page 38, l. 27, tayles, cornees. Fr. tailles, cornees. The latter term signifies a duty on beasts and corn; l. 30, of hiren = du leur = of theirs.

inges, Fr. petitions ; l. 25, playteres, Fr. auocas ; l. 28, yulemde = fugitives ; l. 28, wyþsettingges, exceptions = Fr. barres.

Page 40, l. 7, be-uelynge = defiling = false accusations ; l. 20, bezide-zitteres, Fr. asseseurs ; ll. 23, 24, yhet = yhed = had, Fr. eu ; l. 33, ereges = Fr. hereges = heretics. Stevenson explains this wrongly as witches.

Page 42, l. 7, denyes = Fr. deenez, deaneries.

Page 44, l. 2 from bottom, romongours, Fr. maskignons = maquignons, fraudulent dealers, from O. Fr. ramauder, baisser le prix.

Page 45, l. 9, hysians = Fr. hiziaus, heralds. Kempen = Fr. champions.

Page 47, l. 26, be hare wytinde. Fr. a son escient.

Page 48, l. 1, out of nyede = unnecessarily.

Page 51, l. 11, teue. Stevenson printed tene, as if = tin ; but teue = to-eue = yesterday evening, and it translates the Fr. dersoir.

Page 52, l. 13, huet non = al-huet non = until noon. Fr. iusquaque. Cf. al-huet nizt, p. 52, l. 12.

Page 56, l. 8, ssast = sslazst, slayest ; l. 19, ich wylle a lite take of the zennes, &c., I will a little touch of the sins, &c.

Page 63, l. 10, for a-mes read a mes = Fr. mes.

Page 66, l. 19, godelinges, Fr. maudiscons ; cf. godelinge, p. 65, = Fr. maudire ; l. 28, atwytt, blame, the word reproueþ has been erased in the MS.

Page 87, l. 12, huet hi is y-do = until they do them ; huet = al-huet = until ; is = his = them. Fr. tant soit parfait.

Page 96, l. 14, in one wytte = in one sense.

Page 101, l. 6, pou sselte loue, &c. = Thou owest him love, &c. ; l. 16, uelazest = joinest, cf. uelaze, accessory ; uelazrede, p. 102, companionship, fellowship. See p. 102, l. 12, where uelazeþ = joineth.

Page 103, l. 24, boystoyse, O.E. bostwise, boisterous, blustering. This is the earliest approach to the form bosteous or bostous, which has given rise to boisterous.

Page 104, l. 16, uor þer ue is no gelt. The Fr. text has, car il nia nul trespas sement.

Page 106, l. 29, out of smak = out of taste = disagreeable.

Page 111, l. 32, of hiren, of herself.

Page 112, l. 15, greate, Fr. gros; l. 25, picaille ne to chenaille = cattle nor to dogs. The MS. reads cheuaille, which is evidently wrong. The translator seems to have been unable to render these French terms into English.

Page 113, l. 4, ope, above. The Fr. has sor (sur).

Page 116, l. 21, refye, Fr. movoir; ne rocky, Fr. crouller; move nor render unsteady; rocky = to rock, and is equivalent to the O.E. wagge = wag.

Page 120, l. 31, Ac . . . zone; more is wanted before þanne, as the construction is, But wherefore are they called gifts of the Holy Ghost more than gifts of the Father and of the Son?

Page 121, l. 23, þe yefþe of drede is þe doreward to þe greate þreste, The gift of dread (fear) is the doorkeeper to the great crowd; l. 23, uordeþ, Fr. esterpe. The Midland MS. reads 'draweþ up.'

Page 123, ll. 14, 15, hi ous deþ beknaue and to byknaue, she causes us to know and be known. Byknaue = by yknaue = be known; l. 21, dyere oninge, precious union. Chaucer has onedin = united (pret. pl.); ll. 31, 32, Love of hope feeleth the smell and seeketh. Love of Charity taketh, and seeth, and swalloweth, and holdeth; l. 32, zikþ = zizþ = sees, zuelzþ = Fr. gouste, tasteth.

Page 128, l. 21, ysnes, irons, fetters, from ysn = iron; l. 2 from bottom, wrikþ = wrizþ = hideth.

Page 129, l. 20, ca arrieres. The Mid. MS. renders this phrase by to-fore; l. 34, 'Man may longe,' &c. This quotation occurs in the Religious Poems printed by Wright in the Owl and Nightingale.

Page 132, l. 21, anone is a-none = in no.

Page 134, l. 16, bouerze is for borze = save, not for bouze ≡ boze, bow, be obedient.

Page 135, l. 25, þe wyþþe ine the nykke = the halter (rope) round the neck.

Page 137, l. 3 from bottom, ssel a3t, owes aught (anything).

Page 139, l. 14, ze3þ = zekþ, seeketh; cf. wecþ (l. 2, p. 140) for we3þ = weigheth.

Page 140, l. 25, hassasis. Thus the word stands in the Fr. and Eng. text. It is our modern word assassin.

Page 143, l. 11, y-zicþ = y-zizþ = seëth; l. 24, at lokes = at Whitsuntide (Pentecost), see p. 163, l. 3 from bottom. Lok-Sunday = Whitsunday, occurs in Shoreham's poems.

Page 147, l. 2, anrice, Fr. angoisse; l. 3, aw[r]ec3þ = awrekþ = wreaketh, avengeth.

Page 150, l. 4 from bottom, boune = rule, line. This is the word in the Fr. text. D. Michel was evidently unable to translate it. The Midland MS. for pricke an boune reads merk and lyne.

Page 154, l. 1 from bottom, [eyse]. The Fr. text has cas.

Page 155, l. 3, zene3þ is here plural, and should be written zenezeþ; l. 3, foruions is the O. Fr. foruoions.

Page 161, l. 14, dep auerst, putteth in delay. See uerste = to delay, respite, cause delay. See p. 173, l. 16; l. 20, be strengþe = forcibly, by force; cf. no strengthe = O.E. no fors = no matter; l. 34, Vor = or.

Page 167, l. 25, erþan þet þe kuen his do an = ere that (before) that the queen putteth it on; his = her, and refers to robe, which is considered as feminine.

Page 171, l. 5 from bottom, sest geus; so the words stand in the Fr. text. The Mid. MS. translates geus by eucle plezes (evil plays).

Page 173, l. 22, y-kuegt = y-kue(u)gt = O.E. ykueynt = quenched. Cf. dreynt = drenched, &c.

Page 178, l. 24, uor wone makeþ maister. This passage literally signifies 'for habit makes master,' and is equivalent to our phrase, 'practice makes perfect;' cf. page 181, l. 4, where yealde wones = old habits.

Page 182, l. 16, 'be-uleaþ and etheþ [h]are onderlinges, flay and eat their subjects: be-uleaþ = be-ulea3eþ = be-flayeþ = flay, fleece, rob.

Page 184, l. 12, wely-holpe = wel y-holpe = well-holpen (succoured).

Page 187, l. 24, [di]aymont. The MS. has aymont, but the Fr. text shows that diaymont = diamond, is the correct reading.

Page 193, l. 4, þet (for þen?) þo = than those.

Page 194, l. 10 from bottom, and hol = and [is] yhol = and is safe.

Page 195, ll. 9, 10, in = inn, lodging.

Page 196, ll. 1, 2, in-to þe greaule of þe poure = unto (at) the supplication of the poor; l. 8, hedinge = secrecy; cf. O.E. hiddinges, secret places.

Page 198, l. 23, 'comeþ þe' should be comeþ ye. The participle yblissede is plural, the singular being yblissed; cf. acorsede, in l. 11.

Page 205, l. 21, hit dra3þ to smac, maketh it tasty.

Page 207, l. 9 from bottom, talynde, Fr. contant.

Page 210, l. 3 from bottom, God ne is nazt goth to uede mid leaues, God is not a goat to be fed with leaves.

Page 231, l. 14, wy-oute = wyþ-oute, without.

Page 237, l. 16, zikþ = zizþ = sees.

Page 241, l. 9, hed, an error for heald, held, esteemed.

Page 244, l. 21, hihere, an error for ihere, hear.

Page 247, l. 2 from bottom, and his sself do drinke, and thou shalt cause them to drink.

Page 248, l. 2, kuel3 = quelp = welleth, springeth, or wells up.

Page 249, l. 2, maked = makeþ = makes. The preterite would be makede; cf. p. 248, l. 29.

Page 251, l. 2 from bottom, is spek = ich spek, I spake.

Page 252, l. 31, misbylefde = misbylefunde = unbelieving (ones) = unbelievers. Chaucer has misleved = misbeleued = miscreant; but mysbyleunde occurs on page 69 of this work.

Page 253, l. 10, zekþ = zek3 = seeketh; l. 11, uel ine þe aye = the skin in the egg. The Mid. MS. reads 'straw in the egg.'

Page 254, ll. 16, 19, ges, O. Fr. ges. Liens pour attacher les oiseaux de proie (Roquefort).

Page 254, l. 23. The pronoun hare (their) seems to require men instead of man.

Page 264, l. 12, hezliche clom, a profound silence ; l. 14, comyde may be an error for comynde = coming (= is about to come), or for comeþ = comes = is coming ; l. 22, chaymen auere, chains of fire ; auere = a fire ; l. 30, comste = comest thou ; l. 32, ysezeþe = ysezeþe = what didst thou see ; l. 34, brene on-polynde, intolerable burning.

Page 265, l. 1, wantrokiynge = lack ; wan = un, as in O.E. wantrust, wanhope, &c. ; trockiyng = failure, want. The wan seems to be intensitive ; l. 18, yueþ youre = yeueþ yeare = giveth ear ; yourre would signify yours ; l. 27, helm of helpe = helmet of salvation ; l. 29, ryuollyche = ryztuollyche = rightfully, righteously ; l. 35, hit þingþ þe = hit þingþ þet, it appeareth that.

Page 266, l. 1, be cas = per-haps, per-chance ; l. 2, of-drect = of dread = adread, afraid ; l. 6, wylnyng of þe contraye of heuene = desire of the kingdom (country) of heaven ; ll. 9—11, Yef . . . stille. If we, on account of 'God's Dread' and 'Bethinking of Death,' were still (silent), right it is that thee speaking (whilst thou art speaking) we should be much more silent ; l. 13, myd wyll = willingly ; l. 20, Ac and, but also ; ll. 25, 26, ine rizt half zittinde, on the right hand sitting ; l. 31, zodes = zones = of the son.

Page 268, ll. 13, 14, 'þa3 . . . zay.' Though I understand somewhat of this, (yet) for them that listeneth tell (in detail) of each (of these particulars, i.e. how they live, enjoy, &c., see ll. 11, 12) ; l. 30, by ziker = [hy] by[eþ] ziker ; they are in security ; l. 32, use his ozene of alle = as is possessed by all.

Page 269, l. 2 from bottom, supply and before to.

Page 270, l. 4, þe prest þe = thou pridest thyself ; uelezn is an error for ulezen = flies ; þe worst, thou shalt.

Early English Text Society.

Third Annual Report of the Committee. January, 1867.

ONCE more the Committee have the pleasing task of announcing to the Members the still continuing success of the Society. Since its first year its annual income has more than quadrupled (152*l.* to 681*l.); its yearly issue of Texts has nearly trebled (4 to 11); its members have nearly trebled (145 to 409), and never before has any Society of a like kind; in any year, given to the public such a variety and amount of the records of early English thought and work. During the past year the Society's Texts of 1864 and 1865 have nearly all gone out of print^{}; and the Committee's order to the printers for future issues has consequently been raised, first from 500 to 750, and then from 750 to 1000 copies. Moreover, the past year has been signalised by the direct co-operation of two of the older Societies — the Philological and Camden — with our own in the production of certain of our Texts, and by the efforts of the Kent Archæological Association to circulate the Society's edition (Mr. Morris's) of the most important monument of the early Kentish dialect, The Aeynbite of Inwyt. Could this co-operation be carried further, each Society offering yearly to all the others with similar aims a share in such of its publications as those other Societies might severally choose, a great boon would be conferred on students; each Society would lighten the cost of publication to its own members, and largely extend the circulation of the books it produced, and which it should wish to see in the hands of as many readers as possible.

* As future Subscribers are sure to want these back Texts, the Committee have opened a separate Reprinting Fund, to which, until all the Texts that need reprinting are reprinted, they will carry all subscriptions for 1864–5–6, as well as the amount received for reprinted Texts and for the Texts of 1866 now in hand. Mr. Wheatley will receive and enter the names of those present and future Members who will undertake to buy the Texts of any back year when reprinted; and as soon as the number of promises reaches the amount required for reprinting the Texts of any one year, they will at once be sent to press, and issued to the Members subscribing for them. The Texts of 1864 will cost about 120*l.* to reprint (of which 30*l.* may be looked on as already provided), and the Texts of 1865 about 300*l.* If 200 fresh Members to take the back Texts can be obtained during this year, as they should be, the reprinted Texts of both 1864 and 1865 can be issued in 1867. No subscriptions for any current year will be carried to this Reprinting Fund, as the Committee will adhere to the plan which has alone enabled them to produce so many Texts as they have done, that of spending each year's subscriptions for the benefit of those who contribute them.

The Committee declare their intention of thus offering the Society's Texts to other Printing bodies, and appeal to them to do the like to the Early English Text Society.

Another most gratifying circumstance in the past year has been the marked success of the examinations at Universities and Colleges for the Society's prizes of two years' issues of its Texts*. The winners of these prizes were,—

So far as the Committee can judge from the reports of the different Professors to them, and from the answers of some of the Students that have been sent up to them, they look on the stir which the Society has thus given to the study of our early Literature in so many centres of intellectual life as one that will produce the best results, especially now that the publication of Mr. R. Morris's Early English Extracts (in the Clarendon Press Series) puts, for the first time in the history of the language, a trustworthy text-book and guide into learners' hands. The generous way in which the Professors have responded to the Society's call, giving often extra lectures, and always extra examinations, for the Prizes, calls for special acknowledgment on our part. Already one School has followed the example of our Colleges. To the Rev. Edwin A. Abbott, Head-master of the City of London School, belongs the credit of having introduced Piers Plowman as a class-book for his highest form, and of having insisted on a thorough training in English throughout his School. This is the beginning, the Committee trust, of a general knowledge of English historically by Englishmen, and they have gladly added to their list of annual prize-receivers this City School.

Two other events the Committee also allude to with pleasure: 1. The publication of an accurate Text from the best MS. of each of Chaucer's Poetical Works by Mr. Richard Morris (though, unfortunately, without

* Though there are not now two years' issues in hand for next season's prizes, the number of 12 Texts given will be kept up.

the collation and notes that the editor desired to add); and, 2, The undertaking to edit Bishop Percy's long-hidden folio MS.—the foundation of his celebrated Reliques—by three members of the Society, Professor Child, Mr. Hales, and Mr. Furnivall. It was only the entire absorption of the Society's limited resources by works already in the press, and its consequent inability to meet a call for 600*l.* in six months, that prevented the manager of the Percy scheme from making it part of the Society's ordinary work, and the Committee from undertaking it. As it is, the print of the MS. will be obtainable by members of the Society at half the cost to non-members, and the Committee give notice that they will consider the Arthur and other Romances in the Percy folio as part of the Society's Texts, and as not needing reproduction in the Society's series to which such Romances, &c. belong. The completion by the Surtees Society of their edition of the text of the Lindisfarne and Rushworth Gospels is also matter of congratulation; and it is to be hoped that the Glossary to, and Treatise on, the dialect of these inestimable Northern remains, promised by their latest editor, will soon follow the works themselves. Lastly, the Committee call attention to the assignment by Mr. Henry Bradshaw, to BARBOUR, the author of The Brus, of two works hitherto unknown to be written by him: 1. Fragments of a Troy-Book, mixed up with some copies of Lydgate's Troy-Book; and, 2, nearly 40,000 lines of Lives of Saints. Should no other Society print these before our own is ready to undertake them, they will be issued among the Early English Text Society's publications in due course. The Anglo-Saxon Book of Martyrs that Mr. Cockayne has just claimed as King Alfred's, is to be printed by that gentleman in his Shrine.

Turning now to the Society's special work—the issue of Texts—the Committee note that in its first class, Romances, during the last year four books have been issued, two of which are printed from unique MSS. for the first time: Merlin, Part II., Kyng Horn, part of Floris and Blancheflour, and Partenay. The Gawaine Poems were kept back by their editor's other engagements; but they are now ready for press, and will be sent to it forthwith.

In the Society's second class—Dialectal works—the event of the year has been the issue of the first great monument of the Kentish dialect, in 1340 A.D., the Ayenbite of Inwyrt, not mutilated, as in the former edition, but complete, and with an almost exhaustive glossary and a treatise on the dialect by Mr. Richard Morris. The same dialect has received further illustration from the early treatises edited by Mr. Cockayne, the latter of which—Hali Meidenhad—has also brought into bright relief a passage in the life of English girls in 1220–30 A.D., unequalled in interest by any known publication of the time. The Northern dialect has been illustrated not only by the continuation of the works of Schir David Lyndesay of the Mont, Lord Lyone Kyng of Armes, with his eloquent denunciation of the wrongs of his time, but by the first treatises of the Society's complete edition of Hampole's works, accompanied by the unique and much-desired Life of the Hermit*, edited by Mr. Perry, whom we thank for thus re-creating for us this old English worthy.

Into the third, or Religious class of the Society's Texts, fall as well the Ayenbite, Seinte Marherete, Hali Meidenhad, and Hampole tracts, already alluded to, as the Assumption of the Virgin, edited by Mr. Lumby, and the Religious Poems, edited by Mr. Furnivall. By these the superstitions and faith of our forefathers have been illustrated; and of one Poem, carefully annotated by Mr. Wm. Rossetti, The Stacions of Rome, a second, and earlier text—discovered after the issue of the first—will be published.

Though the fourth and Miscellaneous class received last year no such accession as the Wright's Chaste Wife brought to it in the year before, yet the printing of the Political Poems from the Lambeth MS. 306 has at least proved the wisdom of having gleaners after Government labourers in the field; and The Boke of Quintessence has exhibited some of the oddities in the rise of that science which, as modern Chemistry, commands the admiration and respect of men. The Piers Plowman extracts have cleared the way for Mr. Skeat's complete edition of the poem, and are a guarantee to members and the public that all care will be used in securing the best texts, and in collating them with the others next in value.

On the whole, while the Committee look back with some satisfaction to the results of the past year, they cannot but feel how much more might have been effected if the generality of members had exerted themselves to procure new subscribers in the way that a few of their body have done. Among these, the Committee desire publicly to thank the Local Secretary in Manchester, Mr. John Leigh, who, although he had in the first half of the year obtained twelve new subscribers, on the issue of Mr. Furnivall's Circular in June promised at once to obtain twelve more subscribers: and did so. Our Publisher, too, has been very zealous in the Society's behalf; and his list numbers 33 subscribers. Now this is working for editors, as editors work for members; and when once this spirit animates the whole of our subscribers, a real beginning will be made to the work the Society has set itself—the bringing to light the whole of the hidden springs of the noble Literature that England calls its own. The Society's is the first resolute attempt at this colossal work, as a whole, and it rests simply in the hands of our members whether the work shall be done or not. The present year should see the Society's income of last year at least doubled, for the revenue from the sale of past years' Texts is now exhausted, and then the way will be clear†.

The Texts that can be produced this year, if funds enough are supplied, are no less than thirty-two in number. Of these, three have already left the press‡, and are issued to members with this Report.

* A revised impression of the Vita et Legenda will be issued to members forthwith.

† We want also Editors in Oxford and Edinburgh.

‡ Immediate payment of the present year's subscriptions is required, in Seven more are in the press, and thirteen more are ready to go to press at less than a month's notice: so that the work is well forward. The whole list of thirty-two is as follows, and the subscriptions received will determiné how many of them will be sent out within the year:—

- Le Venery de Twety and of Mayster John Giffarde, and the Mayster of Game. From MSS. Cott. Vesp. B. xii., Harl. 5806, &c. To be edited by Alfred Sadler, Esq.

A glance at the List above will show what important and interesting contributions will be made to our Literature if only the first twenty of these books can be produced this year: a new Romance, the continuation of a second; the first collection of the Statutes of our Guilds, and the fullest collection yet made of tracts on the Meals and Manners of our early times, illustrating the social condition of our ancestors; the duties of the Parish Priest; the labours of the Husbandman; the work of the Gardener; the warnings of the Divine; a Father's Counsel to his Daughters, enforced by quaintest tales; traces of CHAUCER (with a discussion of his dialect and pronunciation); the rise of our great Piers Plowman; the story of the World; — surely, these, with much most valuable material for the historian of our language (among it, evidence of a new stage in the development of our tongue), are worth an effort to produce during the year; and each member must settle with himself whether he will make it.
